DEMAND ACTION BY STRESEMANN AGAINST BAVARIA

United Socialist Party Serves a Virtual Ultimatum on German Chancellor.

SAXON CABINET COMPLETED

Dr. Carl Fellisch, Socialist, Is Elected Premier by the Diet at Dresden.

FEDERAL GOVERNOR QUITS

Dr. Heinze's Functions Cease Automatically as New State Government Is Formed.

BERLIN, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—After a party caucus lasting seven hours the United Socialists' Reichstag delegation tonight drafted a program of demands, upon which it makes continuance its further membership in the present Coalition Government.

While the nature of its communication to Chancellor Stresemann suggests a twenty-four hour ultimatum, the Reichstag leaders believe that its tenor and contents are wholly dictated by the desire of the party's moderate leaders to appease its clamorous radical wing, which has been endeavoring to stampede the party into deflection from the Coalition.

The Socialist Ministers, Sollmann, Radbruch and Schmidt, whose withdrawal from the Cabinet was under advisement at today's caucus, informed their comrades that the Government action against Saxony had not been referred to the Cabinet, but was determined and put into execution by the Federal Government's military commander in Dresden, General von Mueller, and the Reich Commissioner, Dr. [illegible].

The party's moderate wing succeeded in overcoming over the radical majority in support of the anti-secession sentiment in view of the general internal situation and the further fact that the new Saxon Government required aid from Berlin, which would not be forthcoming if the Socialists were out of the [illegible].

Parliamentary Crisis Feared.

There was also serious suspicion discernible in the ranks of the leaders of the Socialists' section that a parliamentary crisis precipitated by the Socialists at this time would prove a doubtful asset to the party's prestige—this because the issues on which the party is at variance with the Chancellor constitute poor political propaganda, especially in view of the Socialists' recent [illegible] union with the Saxon Communists.

The party's Reichstag delegation will suggest to Dr. Stresemann that the existing military state of emergency be converted into a Federal civil régime and that the Federal troop contingents in Saxony shall be reduced and the policing functions there assigned to the local organization.

Regarding Bavaria, the Socialists are considerably more aggressive. They demand peremptorily that the Central Government come out in the open and publicly brand Bavaria's attitude toward the Federal authorities as a breach of the Constitution, and deal with it accordingly. The Socialists also request the Government to speed up its program for stabilized wages and demand that it proceed against all who fail to make prompt deliveries of food supplies.

The text of the resolution adopted at the caucus reads: "The Socialist Party can only remain in the coalition on the following conditions:

"First—Abolition of the military state of emergency.

"Second—The Government must clearly treat the Bavarian Government's attitude as a breach of the Constitution, and in accordance with the Reich's Constitution immediately take necessary steps against Bavaria.

"Third—The maintenance of law and order in Saxony is a task for the police. The supporters of nationalist associations who lately joined the Reichswehr must be immediately dismissed."

The Socialist Party passed another resolution—that the Socialist parliamentary leaders demand in their conference with the Government that wages in the future shall be paid in stable currency and that the farmers shall be forced to sell foodstuffs.

The party leaders submitted the resolutions to Chancellor Stresemann and requested a reply by noon tomorrow.

Bavarian Cabinet Still Defiant.

The Bavarian Cabinet, according to a message from Munich, yesterday discussed the Berlin Government's request for constitutional military authority in the Bavarian Division of Reichswehr be restored in the shortest possible time. A communiqué was issued late last night in Munich to the effect that the Cabinet agreed that the legal situation created by the Bavarian Government's measure regarding the Reichswehr was constitutionally regulated by Paragraph 48 of the German Constitution. The Cabinet was also unanimous in agreeing that a change in the supreme command of the Reichswehr Division would be unacceptable.

The Bavarian reply to the Central Government's request declines to enter upon a discussion of the status of General von Lossow, deposed by the Central Government as commander of the Reichswehr, and stresses the urgent need of definitely regulating the relations between the Central Government and the Federated States, which, now constituted, continually lead to conflicts which convulse the nation's internal political affairs."

The reply is in the form of a preliminary communiqué, and will be followed by formal representation of the Bavarian Government's views.

London to Try Grand Opera With Its Beef and Mutton

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Grand opera is to be served with meals at one of London's West End restaurants this Winter.

The producing manager of the Carl Rosa Opera Company has been engaged to conduct the performances, each limited to six singers, which may or may not help the diners to forget the monotony of mutton and beef, brussels sprouts and boiled potatoes, while awaiting the coming of Spring and a more varied menu.

A wag has suggested that the best café aria, especially fitted for closing time, is "Adieu, notre petite table," from "Manon."

PARIS TO SPECIFY 'PRESENT CAPACITY'

Poincare's Reply to London Suggests Additions to Reparations Note to Us.

INVITATION DUE THIS WEEK

British Notes to Paris and Brussels Declare Rhineland Republic Violates Treaty.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—In a note sent to London tonight Premier Poincaré accepted the British proposals received earlier today that a common invitation be sent to Washington, inviting the American Government to send a representative to a conference of experts, which is to be convened soon.

While accepting the proposals in principle the French Premier demanded that certain definitions be added to the text proposd by the London Foreign Office.

According to le Matin, the projected conference can not advise except on the present capacity of payment of Germany. At the same time all the rights of the Reparation Commission are reserved, conforming to the stipulations of Part VIII. of the Treaty of Versailles.

The selection of experts, except the American, will be made by the Reparation Commission, according to le Matin, but the selections undoubtedly will be submitted to the respective Governments.

While expressing the opinion that the appointment of J. P. Morgan by Washington would be very acceptable, le Matin doubts the American banker would accept and suggests in that instance Washington probably would turn to Elihu Root.

It is said the British made no requests for a change in the French position and laid down no restrictions of their own, merely asking that the committee meet as soon as practicable.

Dispatches received here say the feeling at Washington is that the experts' committee can meet to establish what is just as to the amount of German payments, and France will then be free to accept or reject the findings. If the committee were to gather its evidence and conduct its deliberations in an absolutely independent fashion, reaching its final decision before Foreign Office influences were felt, it is pointed out here, there would be something in this idea, but regardless of the attitude, personality or position of the American member, it is very probable the European members will work with one ear open to their Foreign Offices, certainly the French member will. This member will have instructions to see that Poincaré's limits are observed, and any effort to violate his restrictions will bring the committee's work to a halt by his withdrawal.

It is to belittle the astuteness of M. Poincaré to believe he will allow the new experts' committee to arrive at the conclusion that reparations should be cut and thus permit himself to be placed in the position of refusing that conclusion. He will escape that trap.

Prospects of large accomplishments by the experts' committee are not very bright, as seen from Paris, where, it must be admitted, the general attitude is not favorable.

Joint Invitation Coming.

PARIS, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The French Government is highly pleased at the participation of an American delegate on the experts' commission, but a semi-official statement issued tonight says the French Government will probably demand certain modifications, notably that the proposed investigation will have to do with Germany's capacity for payment, not in a general way, but on her capacity at the present moment, and France fully reserves the rights the Reparation Commission holds under the Treaty of Versailles.

The Belgian Government is expected to support the demand for these modifications, and perhaps also the Italian Government will do likewise.

The invitation for participation by the

LLOYD GEORGE HERE, PLEASED BY RESULTS OF 6,000-MILE TOUR

Arrives From Scranton, Where Great Welsh Gathering Greeted Him.

HAS TALKED IN 22 CITIES

Will Make Two Addresses in New York and Sail on Saturday.

IS GUEST OF JOHN W. DAVIS

Co-operation of Britain and America to Save Europe Stressed in All His Speeches.

David Lloyd George, war Premier of Great Britain, arrived in this city shortly after 8 o'clock last night, completing a Canadian and American tour in which he traveled almost 6,000 miles by train and automobile. On the tour he addressed public meetings in twenty-two cities and in addition spoke to a number of open-air audiences along his route. His last public address on tour was delivered at Scranton, Pa., yesterday afternoon.

He will remain in this city until Saturday, when he plans to sail for England on the White Star liner Majestic after a sojourn in this country and Canada of almost a month. While in this city he will make two addresses, one at a dinner to be given in his honor at the Lotos Club tonight. The other will be delivered at the Metropolitan Opera House tomorrow night, on the eve of his departure.

Mr. Lloyd George and his party completed the last stage of their journey on a special train on the Lackawanna Railroad. The run from Scranton was made in three hours and a half, despite a long hold-up on account of a mishap to another passenger train ahead.

Upon the arrival of his train at Hoboken, Mr. Lloyd George was met by a local reception committee, headed by Mayor Griffin. On the committee was Eben Jones of the Guaranty Trust Company, who was a schoolmate of Lloyd George in Wales. The trip across the river was made by a special ferryboat, the Scandinavia of the Lackawanna Railroad, which had been decorated for the occasion with American flags and the Union Jack. The motor car of John W. Davis, former Ambassador to Great Britain, who will be the host of the Lloyd Georges for the remainder of their stay in this country, was waiting, and in this Mr. Lloyd George, Dame Margaret and Miss Megan, his wife and daughter, were taken to the home of the former Ambassador at Locust Valley, L. I.

Watches River Panorama.

On his way across the river the British ex-Premier insisted on getting out of the motor car and stood at the forward railing watching the glittering lights of Manhattan and the panorama of traffic on the North River. At the Twenty-third Street ferry landing Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, was awaiting the party. After a few words of salutation from the Commissioner, the party motored away for Long Island.

The city thoroughfares through which Lloyd George made the trip to the Queensboro Bridge were heavily guarded by police in uniform and plain clothes. There was no crowd at the ferry and the progress through the city attracted little attention and was made in quick time.

Mr. Lloyd George expects to remain quietly at the home of the former Ambassador, resting after his trip and preparing his addresses for the Lotos Club dinner and the Metropolitan Opera House meeting. It was said last night that he might pay a visit today to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill.

William H. Truesdale, President of the Lackawanna Railroad and E. M. Rine, Vice President, went to Scranton to meet Mr. Lloyd George and returned with him to Hoboken in President Truesdale's car. Another fellow traveler was Charles M. Schwab, who after addressing the Lloyd George meeting at Scranton also returned on the Lloyd George train in his private car.

Mr. Lloyd George, before his train arrived at Hoboken last night, said he had every reason to be pleased with his tour and the whole-hearted hospitality bestowed on him and members of his family.

Has Addressed 250,000 Persons.

It was estimated last night that some 200,000 persons had attended meetings addressed by the British ex-Premier during his Canadian and American tour and that possibly another 50,000 had been present at open-air gatherings he had addressed en route from the rear-end platform of his private car. In nearly every city in which he has spoken his addresses have been carried by amplifiers to crowds outside the halls and by radio to more remote listeners whose number it would be impossible to estimate.

In all his speeches the former British Premier has emphasized the extreme

Book Written in 19 Hours Wins Knopf Prize; Author Depicts Life at Columbia in Fiction

The annual Alfred A. Knopf prize for a Columbia University student has been won by J. Warner Bellah, an undergraduate until last June, whose offering was a book written in nineteen hours. It is called "A Sketch Book of a Cadet From Gascony," and consists of eleven sketches, most of which picture in fictional fashion the life of students at Columbia.

Mr. Bellah's success marks the first occasion when the prize has been won by a work of fiction. Publication and circulation of the work is the reward that comes to the winner.

Mr. Bellah is 23 years old and lives at 631 West 115th Street. The same industry which characterized the turning out of a book in less than a clock-around day marks his present activities. He is holding a job with an advertising agency, giving an extension course at the university and, incidentally, writing a novel.

When America entered the war the young author tried to enlist in the Marine Corps. Rejected there because of extreme youth, he turned to the Motor Transport Service, got across, transferred to the Royal Flying Corps and saw much active service.

KLAN DOMINATING 3 SOUTHWEST STATES

Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma Prepare for Bitter Contests in 1924 Elections.

SOME THINK ORDER WANING

Underwood's Backers Are Hopeful After His Strong Attack on Hooded Force.

Special to The New York Times.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 31.—The three great Southwestern States of Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma are dominated today by the Ku Klux Klan. There is no doubt about this. In Texas the Klan controls the State Government and the Legislature, and it is in the ascendency in a majority of the great cities, as well as most of the counties.

In Oklahoma its power is almost as impressive, and the same is true of Arkansas. The thinking people of these States are fully alive to the seriousness of the menace, and already the lines are forming for what are expected to be the bitterest political campaigns the Southwest has ever known.

A tour of these States will confirm the accuracy of the above statement. The situation, as disclosed to the careful observer, is one in which the doctrine of bigotry and hate has assumed almost unbelievable proportions.

Yet broad as is this assertion, it does not mean that the Klan actually controls a majority of the voters of these States, but it does mean that the Klan machine, in perfect working order, controls the election machinery, that it has placed its own men in high positions, that in instance after instance it has controlled the administration of justice, that a majority of the members of the Legislatures are Klansmen or men who are listed as "not unfriendly" to the hooded organization.

In Texas it is openly asserted, and not denied by the leaders of the anti-Klan element, that the masked order has an actual majority of both houses of the Legislature. The Governor, Pat Neff, is not a member of the Klan, neither is he an open enemy. He was labeled "F" in the 1922 Democratic primary, and "F" means "favorable to the Klan."

But despite the entrenched position of the Klan, there appears justification for the statement that all the signs indicate that the crest of the Klan wave has passed in these three States, and that a well organized opposition has at least an even chance of victory in the 1924 elections.

The big fights in these States will centre on the Governors, State officers and Representatives in Congress. In Texas and Oklahoma Governors are to be elected next year. In all three States United States Senators are coming up for re-election.

Bitter Fight in Texas Assured.

In Texas, the largest of the States, such great cities as Dallas and Fort Worth are completely dominated by the masked knights. Only the other day more than 75,000 Klansmen from Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas mobilized in Dallas. They were ordered to the "Star City of Klandom" for the openly avowed purpose of demonstrating to the country the dominating position of the masked organization. Yet it was that vast concentration of Klansmen that gave the first visual proof of the anti-Klan claim that the Klan wave is passing, for the orders of the Klan called, not for 75,000 but for a minimum of 250,000 to invade Dallas on "Klan Day" to cheer the Imperial Wizard when he enunciated the Ku Klux program, grouping Jews, Catholics and negroes as men and women who fall short of the 100 per cent. American standard.

The 1922 election for United States Senator in Texas was the heart of the Klan fight. To elect its candidate the Klan put forth its supreme effort. Mayfield was elected, but he ran more than 100,000 votes behind the rest of the Democratic ticket. Mayfield's total vote was about 265,000, or about one-third of the normal Democratic vote of the State. The fact that more than 50 per cent. of the Democrats of the State failed to vote is significant. Thousands of "timid" Democrats, the Klan leaders boast, remained at home as a result of intimidation which they declare was Ku Klux in origin.

Will 1924 be a different story? The writer put that question to a score of well-informed Texans, some of them of the Klan, others of the opposition. The Klan spokesmen answered "Yes." They said the Klan would elect its entire ticket, from constable to Governor, and the Klan would dictate the naming of the men who will represent Texas in the Democratic National Convention. That delegation may be instructed for Neff or it may be instructed for William Gibbs McAdoo. If for Neff, it will be a subterfuge, and on the second or third ballot, say men who are in a position to know, the delegation will swing to Mr. McAdoo. Mr. McAdoo is not a Klansman, but the Klan in Texas has adopted him as its candidate, and he will get the votes if the Klan wins in 1924.

The candidate for anti-Klan forces will be Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, who at Houston, a few days

WAVE OF OPTIMISM CARRIES UP STOCKS

Wall Street Cheered by Reports of Better Outlook in Industries and Farming.

BEARS TAKE A DRUBBING

Jesse Livermore, Who Led Them Six Months Ago, Joins Ranks of the Bulls.

Wall Street "bears" who for the greater part of six months have been hammering stock values to lower levels yesterday suffered the severest rout that has been accorded to any group of stock market speculators since war times.

Stock prices began to move forward from the start of trading on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange and by noon the "bear" retreat was under full headway, gaining impetus as the market neared the close of the day.

No estimate of their losses can be accurately approximated, but a conservative one would place the figure high in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, if not in the millions.

The sharp rise which carried stocks up from one to five points in a majority of cases was predicated upon a number of conditions. Foremost was the totally unexpected declaration on Tuesday of an extra dividend on United States Steel common. This dividend, while only one-quarter of 1 per cent. per share, was described by Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the corporation, as an indication of that concern's faith in the industrial future.

This declaration came as a blow to many short interests who on the previous day had sold United States Steel on the expectation that the corporation's earnings for the last quarter would show a decline. Instead, the earnings statement showed an excess of from 15 to 20 per cent. over the speculative estimates, and the combination of this set of figures, with the extra dividend, forced these sellers to cover.

Jesse Livermore Hopeful.

On top of this came a statement from Jesse Livermore, prominent speculator, pointing to a hopeful business future. It was Mr. Livermore who six months ago advised the public, in a statement then issued, that stock prices were in for a prolonged decline. His forecast proved correct, and his subsequent forecast, by reason of the success of the earlier one, found many followers. A curious turn in the case lies in the fact that the "bears" who for six months had followed his earlier advice yesterday found themselves on the side of the fence opposite their leader, who had turned bullish.

A number of other factors combined to help that part of Wall Street which describes itself as "constructive" to lift its head in hopefulness and to buy stocks. A few among these were the statement of Howard Elliott, Chairman of the Northern Pacific, who declared that pessimism regarding the Northwest had been greatly overdone; reports from farm agencies showing that the agricultural situation is better now than it has been in three years; evidences of improvement in the oil industry, and a growth in American export trade.

The net result was an advance of 2.68 points on the average for twenty-five industrial stocks, as computed by THE NEW YORK TIMES statistical division, and a net average gain for fifty stocks, including twenty-five railroad issues of approximately two points—1.80 to be exact. Speculative leaders gained in several instances five points, and gains of two, three and four points were common. United States Steel, Studebaker, American Can, Baldwin Locomotive and International Harvester moved up more than five points on trading of large volume. Total sales for the day fell a little short of 1,400,000 shares, the day having been the busiest in point of total shares exchanged since Feb. 16 when the Spring bull market was under way. Bonds also were moderately higher, the semi-speculative issues moving forward briskly.

Industries in Good Condition.

Reports of banks, credit men's institutions and other key organizations in the commercial system, to be distributed today, show their belief that the country is entering the Winter months with her industries in good condition and her financial structure excellent. There is ample evidence to show that business generally will improve, they say, and in this connection frequent mention is made of the decided improvement in the agricultural situation. The estimate published in THE TIMES three months ago that farm produce would this year bring the rural population $1,000,000,000 more than it did last year has been increased since. An advance in farm prices during the period when farmers were actually selling their produce, according to the bank reviews, has made the agricultural outlook better than was anticipated a month ago.

In his statement, Mr. Livermore said the stocks of the better managed and conservatively capitalized corporations could be bought for substantial profits.

"During the past six months," he said, "it is my opinion that stocks have discounted to a large extent the read-

NAVY INQUIRY BOARD ORDERS TRIAL OF 11 IN DESTROYERS' LOSS

Reports Faulty Navigation and Bad Judgment Caused California Wreck.

LOSS OF COMMANDS DECREED

Three Officers Accused of 'Culpable Inefficiency' and the Others of 'Negligence.'

ERRED IN BLIND OBEDIENCE

Court Says Nelson Would Not Have Won Two Victories if Leader Had Been Blindly Followed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Faulty navigation and bad judgment of three officers were held responsible for the stranding of nine American naval destroyers on Pedernales Point, near Honda Point, Southern California, Sept. 8, with a loss of twelve lives and more than $13,000,000 in the value of the ships, in the opinion of the court of inquiry, which reported on its investigation of the accident to Secretary Denby today.

As a result of the court's recommendations, charges of "culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty" and "negligence" will be brought in general court-martial against Captain Edward H. Watson, the squadron commander; Lieut. Commander Donald T. Hunter, commander of the flagship Delphy, which led the other vessels, and Lieutenant Lawrence F. Blodgett, navigating officer of the Delphy.

Besides these three officers, the following, including the commanders of eight destroyers, were recommended for trial by general court-martial on the charge of negligence in the performance of duty: Captain Robert Morris, Commanders William H. Pye, Louis P. Davis, William L. Calhoun and William H. Toas, and Lieut. Commanders Walter D. Seed, Herbert O. Roesch and Richard N. Booth.

Commend Bravery in Disaster.

But the court recommended that a letter of commendation be given to Commander William L. Calhoun for coolness, intelligence and seamanlike ability after his destroyer stranded, and that Lieut. Commander Seed receive a similar letter for "great bravery in swimming a great distance of about seventy-five yards, through a rough and turbulent sea, in order to test the feasibility of and make arrangements for the salvage of the crew."

Even if the court-martial should acquit the officers, the Inquiry Board decided that they must lose their commands, inasmuch as the navy follows the rule of the sea that when a captain loses his ship he loses command despite exoneration from blame.

The report of the court, headed by Rear Admiral William V. Pratt, says: "The disaster is, in the first instance, directly attributable to bad orders of judgment and faulty navigation on the part of three officers attached to and serving on the U. S. S. Delphy, viz.: The squadron commander, Captain Edward H. Watson; the commanding officer, Lieut. Commander Donald T. Hunter, and the navigating officer, Lieutenant Lawrence Francis Blodgett."

Blindly Followed Leader.

In the case of the division commanders the court of inquiry finds that they must be held responsible in a measure. While it is true that they were following the lead destroyer in column formation and in the opinion of the court could not slow down, nor sound, nor without permission ask for compass bearings, the court declares "the fact remains that they did too blindly follow the judgment of the squadron commander," that they placed too much reliance on the position of the destroyer Delphy at 8 o'clock the night of the accident, and that between the hours of 8 and 9 they did not check on their own initiative the actual position of their own units and the "result was the catastrophe."

Concerning the "follow the leader" doctrine which was advanced in behalf of division and destroyer commanders figuring in the accident, the report of the court of inquiry contains observations which will attract attention not only through the American Navy but also of naval leaders and strategists around the world. An attempt was made to show during the inquiry that the principle of "follow the leader" was fundamentally a part of the destroyer doctrine, that to depart from the practice was always a grave error on the part of the unit leaders unless they had information in their possession which warranted their so doing. So the question was raised for decision by the court of inquiry: "Should division and destroyer commanders blindly follow their squadron leader?"

"This is no doubt true when the leader is right, says the opinion of the court. A departure from policy, plan or even a

Franklin Offers to Lease Liners Harding and Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—A definite offer was submitted to the Shipping Board today by P. A. S. Franklin, in behalf of the Atlantic Transport Line, for the ships President Harding and President Roosevelt. Details were withheld by acting Chairman O'Connor, who said that no decision had been reached.

The ships, considered in maritime circles as the most valuable type in the Government fleet, are being held at $1,500,000 each by the board.

It is understood that the Atlantic Transport Line proposes to lease them for two years with an option of purchase. The board's hesitancy to act is based on the lack of suitable tonnage to replace the two ships on their present route.

EQUITY MODIFIES STAGE CLOSED SHOP

New Five-Year Agreement Will Include Concessions by Actors and Managers.

ACTORS' STRIKE IS AVERTED

Lee Shubert Credited With Bringing Long Negotiations to a Successful Issue.

Another strike by the Actors' Equity Association has been practically averted and a new five-year agreement between the Equity and the Producing Managers' Association probably will be entered into in the near future.

The most important feature of the agreement, according to a report last night, is that the Equity has modified its insistence upon Equity shop to the extent it was said of allowing present members of the Actors' Fidelity League to appear in production with Equity members. The result was regarded along Broadway as a victory for the managers, although it is known that many important concessions were made in return. Theatrical men were generally inclined to give credit to Lee Shubert for having paved the way to an agreement.

Mr. Shubert, who controls more theatres than any other manager, reached a definite agreement with the Equity several days ago, and this will be laid before the Producing Managers' Association as soon as possible, probably at a meeting tomorrow. Several members of the association, including A. L. Erlanger and David Belasco, have been kept apprised of the negotiations conducted by Mr. Shubert and the Equity, and it is thought that the association is certain to place its indorsement upon the Shubert plan. A special meeting of the Equity has been called for Sunday to consider the plan.

News Surprises Broadway.

There seemed to be no doubt in the minds of theatrical observers last night that the failure of the P. M. A. to accept the plan would result in a private agreement between the Shuberts and the Equity—a step that would almost inevitably disrupt the P. M. A. and place its members at the mercy of the Equity.

The fact that satisfactory terms had been reached was confirmed late yesterday afternoon by Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of the Equity. The news came as a complete surprise to Broadway, which had recently been led to believe that negotiations had fallen through and that next June was certain to bring another actors' strike. Even theatrical managers who were reached last night expressed themselves as greatly surprised at the sudden turn of events.

During the evening the Equity issued the following statement:

"John Emerson, President, and Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of the Actors' Equity Association, after several conferences with Lee Shubert, announced last night that an agreement had been reached whereby all the difficulties obstructing a renewal of the contract between the Actors' Equity Association and the Producing Managers' Association, upon the expiration of the present contract, June 1, 1924, have been practically ironed out.

"Both Messrs. Emerson and Gillmore and Mr. Shubert have agreed to place the proposition before their respective organizations in the hope that it will be ratified by them. It is hoped that there will be no friction on either side to prevent the endorsement of the new agreement.

"A general meeting of the Actors' Equity Association has been called for next Sunday at 2:30 P. M. in the Equity Forty-eighth Street Theatre."

No announcement of any sort was made regarding the terms of the agree-

LIQUOR HUNT LIMIT FIXED AT HOUR'S SAIL; LINERS' BAN LIFTED

British Treaty Terms Permit American Search Ten to Fifteen Miles From Our Shore.

SHIPS CAN BRING IN STORES

Newcastle Consulate Difference Is Settled—Harvey Leaving With a Clean Slate.

LONDON ACCEPTS KELLOGG

Retiring Envoy Jests Over Senate Self-Appreciation—Gets Gift From the King.

LONDON, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The liquor-running issue between the American and British Governments, which Ambassador Harvey, in his conferences with British officials, has repeatedly characterized as a dangerous menace to the existing good relations of the two countries, has been practically settled.

On the occasion of his formal farewell visit to the Foreign Office, the retiring American envoy and Foreign Secretary Curzon gave final consideration to the terms of a draft treaty which it is believed will clear up the whole question. The treaty is understood to meet the American desire for the right to search suspected liquor-running vessels beyond the three-mile limit.

At the same time, it gives to Great Britain America's formal affirmation of the three-mile limit as governing British maritime rights generally. It would also allow British ships to carry liquor into American territorial waters under seal, enabling liners under the Union Jack to maintain bars en route to and after departing from American ports.

From the British side it only remains for the Imperial Conference of Premiers to place its imprimatur on a document embracing the points of the agreement. It had been expected that this would be done today, but as the document has not been completed it was postponed until Friday, after which the draft will go to America for ratification by the Senate.

At the request of the British the rights of the American authorities to search British vessels suspected of liquor running will not be confined strictly to 12 miles from shore or any other arbitrary limit, but will probably embrace the distance covered by the broad term: "An hour's sailing distance from the American shore," which in reckoned roughly at from ten to fifteen miles. This a "twelve-mile limit" will not be mentioned in the treaty, and the Foreign Office cannot be charged with surrendering its traditional principle regarding the limitation of territorial waters.

In this connection the British attach much importance to America's formal recognition of the three-mile limit in questions of general maritime rights as being likely to be invaluable to them. Only recently Soviet Russia agitated for the establishment of a twelve-mile limit for all maritime purposes, but with the American Government supporting the British stand it is expected that the principle will remain as established in international law.

Consulate Difference Settled.

Mr. Harvey's farewell conference with Lord Curzon also disposed of the only other unsettled question which has arisen since his arrival—that of the Newcastle Consulate. It is believed that an equitable settlement is possible and that the Consulate, which was closed on Feb. 2 last, will be reopened within a fortnight. The Consular officials involved will be acceptable to the British Government but, having departed for new posts, will not return to Newcastle.

The Newcastle Consulate was closed after the British Government had withdrawn the exequatur of Consul Fred C. Slater and Vice Consul Russell M. Brooks on charges that they had attempted to divert passengers from British to American steamship lines by making difficulties over the issuance of visas to passengers not traveling on American boats, and further by hinting that the passengers were liable to encounter inconvenience in the United States unless they traveled by American lines.

The Washington State Department, after an investigation, exonerated the consular officials. Considerable diplomatic correspondence followed, the United States refusing to compromise on the matter. After the closing of the consulate Mr. Slater was transferred to Corunna, Spain, and Mr. Brooks to Dresden, Saxony.

With the settlement of the liquor running and Newcastle issues, Mr. Harvey leaves London with no problems left over for his successor, who, as the Ambassador said today, is likely to have troubles enough of his own.

Kellogg Acceptable to British.

Mr. Harvey and his wife had luncheon at Buckingham Palace yesterday, after which the King and Queen presented to them a farewell gift. At luncheon the Ambassador had the opportunity to present the name of Frank B. Kellogg, who has been appointed to succeed him, in a more informal manner than is usual, and was assured that the former Senator would have a most cordial reception at the Court of St. James's.

It is reported that Mr. Kellogg will sail for London on Nov. 11, but Ambassador Harvey hopes to be able to confer with him in America before he starts and yesterday cabled to him asking the date of his departure.

Commenting upon the possibility of Senatorial objection to Mr. Kellogg, which has been reported here, Mr. Harvey said that he once described the Senate as a self-appreciative body and that it must be remembered that it was an inviolable tradition that the name of anybody who ever sat in the Senate never failed of confirmation by the Senate for any appointment. Germany Is Willing to Grant the Request Of the Crown Prince to Live in Silesia

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—With regard to rumors that the former German Crown Prince had requested permission from the Dutch authorities to return to Germany, it was learned here today that no formal request to this effect has been made to the Berlin Government.

Informal inquiries elicited the fact that the German Government is not unwilling to permit the former Crown Prince to come back to Germany, subject to the strict condition that he live quietly on his estate in Silesia.

DOORN, Holland, Oct. 31.—Former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm of Prussia, it is learned authoritatively, has asked permission of the Dutch Government to return to Germany. Holland does not object, but would not allow the Prince to return to this country.

According to reliable sources, Friedrich Wilhelm has conferred with the German Minister at The Hague in regard to his return.

Steinmetz's Estate Won't Pay His Bequests; Will Gives $25,500 to Three Half Sisters

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The will of Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, chief consulting engineer of the General Electric Company and renowned scientist, was made known today through his attorney, Harry Cook of Albany. The amount of the estate was not revealed, but it was learned that it will not be sufficient to cover the modest bequests made.

Dr. Steinmetz was believed to be one of the highest paid engineers in the country, but after his death it developed that he only received his expenses and sufficient funds to pay for his laboratory and to maintain his charities.

The will, in part, reads:

"I, Charles P. Steinmetz, of the city and county of Schenectady, N. Y., do hereby make, publish and declare this my last will and testament, in manner following, that is to say:

"First, I direct the payment of all my just debts, funeral and testamentary expenses.

"Second, I give and bequeath to my younger half-sister, Margarethe Mache, living at Victoriastrasse, 114 Breslau, Germany, the sum of $1,000, if she be living in the event that the said Margarethe Mache shall not be living, so as to receive the above legacy of $1,000, I give and bequeath the said $1,000 to the half-sisters of the said Margarethe Mache, viz.: Clara Mache and Hedwig Mache, residing at Breslau, Germany, equally, share and share alike, if both be living, and if only one be living she is to receive the entire legacy of $1,000.

"Third, I give and bequeath to my elder half-sister, Marie Schimmel, residing at Gielwitz, Oberschlesien, Germany, the sum of $500.

"To Carl F. Krueger, right and option for two years of purchasing real estate held at Vischer's Ferry for $900, its actual cost.

"To Clara Steinmetz, half-sister, picture which she painted."

The will, made on May 1, 1918, names J. Leroy Hayden, the adopted son of Dr. Steinmetz, as sole executor, and Clara Steinmetz, his half-sister, as primary beneficiary, she to receive the residue of the trust fund of $24,000 for the term of her natural lifetime, after which it will revert to the Hayden heirs.

The $1,500 insurance carried on the scientist by the General Electric Company has been paid to Clara Steinmetz, his half-sister, who was named as the beneficiary.

Harvey added that some of the newly elected Western Senators were probably unaware of this tradition, but that they would soon come to appreciate the general Senatorial opinion that anybody who had ever sat in their midst was pre-eminently qualified to fill any position within the President's appointmental power.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, with their granddaughter, Dorothy Thompson, will leave London Friday afternoon, sailing on the Aquitania for New York Saturday. They plan a two months' visit to Honolulu after spending a few weeks at home.

Other Powers Silent on Search.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Secretary Hughes is without official information from the British Government concerning the reported agreement by Great Britain to the proposal for extending the zone of search for liquor. Officials today expressed satisfaction with the terms of the British acceptance as reported in press dispatches from London.

The British stipulation that it should be expressly understood that there is to be no general extension of territorial waters from three miles to twelve, is entirely satisfactory to this Government, as Secretary Hughes has made it clear that he is not seeking such an extension. In return for the British granting the right to search vessels outside the three mile limit, the United States would agree to permit foreign ships to enter American territorial waters with liquor under seal, to be consumed on the outward voyage.

No reply has been received from any of the other principal maritime powers which were addressed on the subject of extending the zone of search. It is known that these countries included France, Belgium, Italy and Japan. While there is nothing official on the subject it is assumed that the other nations addressed have been waiting to see what attitude Great Britain would take.

It is believed that if Great Britain and the other maritime powers addressed agree to the Hughes plan, it will set a precedent which the smaller countries will probably follow. To make the scheme fully workable all maritime countries, including even the republics of Central America, must be parties to the agreement, as it would be possible for liquor runners to transfer their ships to the flag of any country not a party to the plan.

Wheeler Uncertain on Effect.

"Until the complete provisions of England's reply on the search of rum-smuggling ships outside the three-mile limit are known," said Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, tonight, "it is impossible to say whether it will be helpful to law enforcement. The most hopeful indication from the report is that search will not be denied outside the twelve-mile limit under certain conditions. This is important in view of Sir Brodrick Hartwell's plan to deliver liquor to rum runners twenty miles from shore.

"I do not believe that even a treaty provision to allow liquor to be transported into our three-mile limit for the beverage use of foreign crews would be legal. The Constitution, not the Volstead act, prohibits such transportation for beverage use.

"There is a division of opinion about the legality of the transportation of beverage liquor not for use within the three-mile limit. It is quite probable that such a treaty provision would hold as against the Volstead act. Representatives of the shipping interests have, however, expressed opposition to such a proposition because it gave to foreign ships a privilege denied our own ships. It is pointed out that foreign ships, under the cloak of liquor under seal, have abused the privilege flagrantly for over two years, and would do so again unless new and stronger safeguards are provided."

SHIPSTEAD ASSAILS KELLOGG.

Senator Says the Appointment Shows Coolidge a Reactionary.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 31.—The appointment of Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota as Ambassador to the Court of St. James's was criticized today by United States Senator Henrik Shipstead, following the ridicule of the Ambassadors' "little black pants" by Senator Johnson at Duluth yesterday.

Senator Shipstead, who defeated Mr. Kellogg in the Senatorial election last year, said:

"It is the kind of an appointment I would expect the President to make, knowing his public record. It shows that he is a reactionary, as I had feared."

Mr. Shipstead said that he thought the appointment showed a disposition to ignore the "prevailing political sentiment of the Northwest."

11 SHIPS TO BRING QUOTAS HERE TODAY

As Many More Have Been Diverted to Other Ports to Relieve Congestion.

RACING IS AGAIN AVOIDED

Immigrants for Ellis Island Number Around 10,000—Majestic Docks Tomorrow.

Eleven steamship with immigrants for the November quota are expected to arrive here today and eleven other liners have been diverted to Portland, Boston, Providence and Philadelphia to lighten the congestion at Ellis Island. It is expected that there will be about 10,000 immigrants on the ships without counting the cabin passengers and aliens who are allowed to land under the exempt clause.

About 1,500 of the immigrants will be taken to the island today and 2,000 a day commencing tomorrow until the November quota will have been cleaned up. Since last Saturday the number of arrivals in this port of all classes has been very light, which has given the staff at Ellis Island an opportunity to enjoy a little rest.

There was no racing into port last night, as the steamship companies had arranged that the time should be taken passing the Ambrose Channel Lightship.

The Byron of the National Greek Line from Piraeus was the first to enter Quarantine. Other vessels expected to reach their piers during the day are the Albania, Celtic, Cleveland, Columbia, Conte Rosso, Orca, Patria, President Arthur, Volendam and Suffern.

The White Star liner Majestic will not dock until tomorrow forenoon and has the largest number of passengers she has ever carried, 2,625 which includes 1,418 third class.

The Cunarder Berengaria will also arrive tomorrow with a large number of passengers.

The liners which have been diverted to other ports are the George Washington, President Polk, Tuscania and Seydlitz, to Portland, Me.; the Madonna and Asia to Providence, and the Carmania, Franconia, Baltic and Martha Washington to Boston. The Lithuania will go to Philadelphia.

The George Washington and President Polk of the United States Lines and the Cunarder Tuscania and North German Lloyd liner Seydlitz will land 4,200 passengers in Portland today and tomorrow.

Four Liners to Dock at Portland.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 31.—Four liners, bearing a total of 4,863 passengers including immigrants, are to dock here tomorrow and Friday. The President Polk of the United States Lines, with 550 passengers steamed into the inner harbor this morning, and is awaiting docking facilities.

The George Washington with her tonnage of 26,596 gross tons, is another to come here and dock Friday, and she is the largest ever to visit Portland.

Among her 1,735 passengers are U. S. Senator Robert M. LaFollette and Jules Jusserand, Ambassador to the United States from France.

Boston Awaits Immigrants.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 31.—Thousands of aliens will be landed at this port tomorrow and Friday, eight liners bringing them in. Among the ships due is the White Star liner Baltic, and one of the cabin passengers is John S. Sargent.

The first vessel scheduled is the White Star Megantic, which sailed from Halifax. She has 200 cabin passengers and 898 in her third cabin. The other vessels include the Devonian, the Samaria, the Martha Washington, the Carmania and the Franconia. More than 5,800 aliens are aboard the Samaria, Carmania and Franconia.

Snowballs Fly in Jamestown, N. Y.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Several inches of snow fell here today in the first snowstorm of the season. The youngsters celebrated Hallowe'en with snowballing tonight.

PRINCESS SUES HER SISTER.

Says She Won Affections of Prince Lipski—Asks $100,000.

Through the filing of a petition in the Supreme Court yesterday, it became known that Princess Elaine von der Lippe-Lipski, the former Mrs. Wendell Phillips, has begun an alienation suit for $100,000 against her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Schroeder, of 410 West 110th Street, charging her with winning the affections of Prince Nicholas Vladimir von der Lippe-Lipski, one-time friend of the Czar.

The Prince and Princess, who have a home at Atlantic Highlands, were stopping at the Biltmore until the discovery by the wife of the alleged transfer of the affections of her husband about ten days ago. Since then she says she does not know the address of the Prince.

Joseph A. Shay, attorney for the Princess, submitted an affidavit giving details of a visit to the apartment of Mrs. Schroeder in an effort to find the Prince. This was a week ago last Friday. When the party arrived at the apartment, the Princess said she heard the voices of her husband and her sister as they stood waiting outside the door. According to the affidavit, Mrs. Schroeder would not let the visitors search the bathroom, and so they departed, taking some clothing of the Prince with them. In a vest pocket, it was alleged, they discovered a key to the apartment.

Mrs. Phillips and the Prince were married in this city on June 16, 1923, and soon after sailed for Europe. According to Mr. Shay, when they returned from the honeymoon Mrs. Schroeder came to live with them, and it is alleged that it was during the time when the three lived at Atlantic Highlands that the friendship between the pair developed.

During the World War the Princess engaged in war work, and was mentioned in the newspapers for her work with the "Carry On" Association, which maintained a club for disabled soldiers.

2 INDICTED IN FIRE DEATHS.

William Ford and Raymond Anderson Charged With Murder.

Indictments charging murder in the first degree were returned yesterday by the Kings County Grand Jury against William Ford of 244 Bainbridge Street and Raymond Anderson of 185 Woodbine Street, Brooklyn, accused of setting fire to a house at 8,417 Nineteenth Avenue, Bath Beach, on Oct. 15, in which six persons perished. Among those who were burned to death was George F. Keim, father-in-law of Ford, against whom he was said to have held a grudge. It was understood the Grand Jury voted a third indictment, implicating a man who has not yet been located by the police.

Ford and Anderson were arraigned before County Judge McLaughlin. Through counsel they entered pleas of not guilty. It was learned that Luke J. O'Reilly, attorney for Ford, probably would make application for the appointment of a commission to examine into the sanity of his client.

An action brought by Keim against Ford, alleging assault, came up yesterday in the Gates Avenue Court before Magistrate Folwell. The Court dismissed the case, Detective McGovern formally reporting the death of the plaintiff. The papers were taken to the District Attorney's office for use in the trial of Ford.

SEEK AIR SPEED RECORD.

Lieutenants Williams and Brow to Try for New Mark Today.

Lieutenant A. J. Williams, former pitcher for the Giants, and Lieutenant H. J. Brow, both navy flyers, who captured first and second place, respectively, at the international airplane races in St. Louis last month, will attempt today to establish a new official world's speed record as well as to settle a good-natured argument as to which has the faster Curtiss pursuit plane.

The two pilots will race over a one-kilometer and a three-kilometer measured course at Mitchel Field, near Garden City, L. I. Electric timing devices will be used to catch the fraction of a second that the aviators cross the starting and finishing lines. At the St. Louis meet Lieutenant Williams covered the triangular course of 124.27 miles at the rate of 243.67 miles an hour, and Lieutenant Brow at 241.78 miles an hour. Today's race will be over a straightaway course and it was predicted that they would better by many miles an hour the speed made by Williams.

COUZENS RIDICULES FORD'S CANDIDACY

Senator Says Former Partner Fears Another Fiasco Like His Peace Ships.

CHARGES BROKEN PROMISES

Sees Politics in Muscle Shoals Row and Dreads Humiliation for "Best Friend" and Nation.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Oct. 31.—Ridiculing Henry Ford's political candidacy, which he said the automobile manufacturer does not announce for fear it will be "as great a fiasco as his peace ship," Senator James Couzens exploded a verbal bombshell at a dinner of the Detroit Republican Club in Hotel Statler tonight.

Mr. Couzens also sharply challenged the motive of his former business partner in his negotiations for the purchase of the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant, cited him as a national example of "unfulfilled promises and in retaliation to Mr. Ford's criticism of Mr. Couzens's speeches in behalf of 5 per cent. beer, declared it came with "poor taste" from one "so politically ambitious."

The Senator paid a tribute to Mr. Ford as a friend, however, spoke of his kindly, lovable nature and added that he "loved him as much as it was possible for one man to love another." He said he did not want to see Mr. Ford "humiliated" in entering a presidential campaign, nor the country "humiliated" in having him elected President.

Pleading for party responsibility, the avoidance of campaign promises not meant to be fulfilled, and for electing men upon their records, with the assurance they will be willing to uphold party pledges, Mr. Couzens declared that the record of the past was "a sad story, a record of the betrayal of the truth and of misleading statements made by all parties."

Charges Unfulfilled Promises.

"In this connection, the man I am going to have to refer to has for many years been a greater friend of mine," he went on. "I love him as much as it is possible for one man to love another. Yet I want to put him up as an example of the remarks I have just made about truthfulness.

"That example is Henry Ford. He has been quoted in recent newspaper interviews as criticising me on my desire to have the Volstead act changed to permit old-fashioned beer. I can find no fault with his opposition to my suggestion. But when he says I knew better than to propose such a change, he challenges my good faith and sincerity.

"It comes with poor taste from a man so politically ambitious. He has never gotten over his defeat as a candidate for United States Senator in Michigan on the Democratic ticket. This man, who has made more unfulfilled promises than any man in America, is now trying to guide or to criticise others."

The Senator took up Mr. Ford's recent criticism of Secretary Weeks.

"I believe that was an unwarranted attack on the Secretary of War, whose integrity is in all respects equal to that of his critic," said the Senator.

Sees Politics in Attack on Weeks.

"These charges against Secretary of War Weeks are made by a man who spent thousands to help elect a Democratic President. What Mr. Ford says about Muscle Shoals is said purely for political reasons.

"I would not have suggested the return of beer unless I sincerely believed in it. That would not even be good politics, Ford knows this.

"Ford wants to be President. His failure to withdraw his name from the Nebraska primary proves that. Why does he refrain from announcing his candidacy? Because he is afraid. He realizes that it would prove just as great a fiasco as his peace ship.

"I want to say that Ford has used Muscle Shoals more for political purposes than from a desire to manufacture nitrates for fertilizer. It is commendatory to the United States Congress and Government that a man so powerful has not been able to browbeat Congress into giving him unfair advantages in Muscle Shoals.

"Why Ford for President? It is ridiculous. How can a man over 60 years old, who has done nothing except make motors, who has no training, no experience, aspire to such an office? It is most ridiculous.

"Those who are proposing and agitating his candidacy are not thinking of what they are doing. Many are sincere in the belief Ford would make a good President. Others have ulterior motives. Some are dishonest citizens surrounding Ford in the hope of getting personal advantage or gain.

"If the American people stop to analyze Ford and examine his qualifications for the Presidency, his campaign will never get started.

"I want to save Ford the greatest humiliation of his career and save the United States Government the humiliation of having him as President."

In conclusion the Senator reiterated his reference to "kindly lovable" Mr. Ford, declaring "I had never thought so much of any other man 'in his place'" as Henry Ford.

Repeats Ford Will Not Run.

ONECO, Conn., Oct. 31.—Henry Ford has "rather definitely decided" that he would not accept a nomination for the Presidency, Judge C. B. Montgomery of this town was informed in a letter received today from the offices of Mr. Ford in Dearborn, Mich.

Judge Montgomery, who had been selected by the Ford-for-President Club to attend the conference in Dearborn in December, said that he would not go.

ment, but it was learned that concessions have been made by both sides, particularly in regard to Equity shop, which has been the chief issue to date. The Equity shop principle, which is already being enforced against non-members of the Producing Managers' Association, provides that theatrical companies must be either all Equity or all non-Equity—which would mean, in effect, that every actor would have to join the Equity.

Under the new agreement it is known that the members of the Actors' Fidelity League, formed during the strike of four and a half years ago, will be fully protected, and that this organization will continue in existence. Theatrical men who were interviewed last night, however, felt that a nominal Equity shop would be in existence, even though it did not bear that name, and that all newcomers to the acting profession would feel more or less obliged to join Equity.

Considerable speculation was indulged in along Broadway as to the extent of the concessions to be made by the Producing Managers' Association in return for the virtual abandonment of Equity shop. Equity's insistence upon this principle has been based primarily upon the fact that it would be unable to hold its membership and to collect its dues unless a strong weapon of this kind were placed in its hands, and that its gradual disintegration would inevitably result.

It is known that the managers, in negotiations conducted more than a year ago, offered to get around this difficulty by guaranteeing to collect the dues in behalf of Equity—a system corresponding to the check-off in the coal industry. Another proposition made at the time called for the managers even to pay these dues when members in their employ were delinquent. It was learned, unofficially that the question of the collection of dues had been "settled to Equity's entire satisfaction."

Lee Shubert and Equity officials are known to have been in recent negotiation. Mr. Shubert, John Emerson, President of Equity, and Frank Gillmore were together in Atlantic City last Sunday night, at which time it is believed the negotiations were concluded.

Augustus Thomas, when reached last night, said that he had heard only reports of the proposed agreement, and that he "did not believe them." The matter had not yet been laid before the Producing Managers' Association, he said, and was far from being settled. A. L. Erlanger is at present in French Lick and Sam H. Harris, President of the Producing Managers' Association, is in Baltimore with Woods, Florenz Ziegfeld and Morris Gest declared that they had heard nothing as yet about any settlement.

An interesting sidelight on the situation is concerned with the recent resignation of A. L. Erlanger from the P. M. A. and the fact that Florenz Ziegfeld's resignation is also before that body. If a settlement is concluded between the Equity and the P. M. A. as now seems certain, it is thought that these men might be persuaded to re-join the association. Otherwise they would be automatically subject to Equity shop.

ATTACKS ATTITUDE OF LLOYD GEORGE

Chairman of Defense Society Says Speeches Encourage Germany Not to Pay.

PRO-SOVIETISM CHARGED

Crowds Called Tribute to War Record and Not to Present Opinions.

In an open letter to David Lloyd George, Elon Huntington Hooker, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Defense Society, yesterday took issue with the public speeches in this country of the former British Prime Minister, particularly with reference to German reparations. Mr. Hooker charged that these speeches encouraged Germany to refrain from liquidating her obligations and tended to increase existing differences between England and France.

The letter, announced as written in behalf of the society and its thousands of members throughout the country, said in part:

"The American Government, through the Administration of President Wilson, and later that of President Harding and Coolidge, has definitely announced a policy opposed to recognition of Soviet Russia or engaging in trade relations with the Lenin and Trotsky regime, directly or indirectly, and contrary to your policy in England. It was because the American Government was in every legitimate way fighting the propaganda emanating from Soviet Russia and widely circulated in the United States, and for other reasons specifically set forth by Secretary of State Hughes, that America declined to participate in the Genoa conference, to which you insisted on inviting the Bolsheviki. It is, therefore, without malice and with real regret and reluctance that we deprecate your point of view, as expressed before American audiences when you stated that the progress of Russia was due in a large measure to the Genoa conference. We do not feel that 'the progress' alluded to has been in the right direction to any marked extent and we know that the Genoa conference was an utter failure and contrary to the policy of the American people as voiced by our State Department.

"Without questioning the sincerity of any speeches delivered by you, it can and must be said that there can be little doubt that the effect of your remarks on your audiences is not infrequently to leave the impression that your policy is definitely anti-French, pro-German and pro-Soviet. We feel that it is not an unfriendly or improper act to point out to you that the huge meetings which you have been addressing are tributes to your record in the war and do not indicate concurrence in the views which you express, in so far as they are hostile to France or friendly to Soviet recognition.

"As Americans have not forgotten your efforts to win the war, in like measure are they mindful of the fact that in 1922 the English people, by their emphatic action at the polls, emphasized the fact before the world that you no longer represent either the ideals or the aspirations of the British people. The same has been said of ex-President Wilson in Europe and should President Wilson in mind as to yourself here. In January, 1919, you obtained a majority mainly by your vigorous anti-German policy, the crux of which was prosecution of the war criminals and full reparation to injured Allies.

"In accordance with the Versailles Treaty, you, as Premier, then at the height of your prestige, united in demanding the sum of 132,000,000,000 gold marks, which was then deemed barely adequate for compensation to injured Allies. The world looked to complete harmony between the Allies, who had won the victory for the perpetuation of peace, and recognized that such peace depended largely on the co-operation between the Governments of England, France and Belgium. Both England and the United States realize that the future of Europe lies in harmonious relations between them.

"In conclusion, I believe that it is the view of the great body of Americans that your speeches delivered in America, whether this be your intent or otherwise, are encouraging Germany to withhold co-operation in the liquidation of her obligations; are thus definitely impairing France's opportunity of collecting her debt, and are tending to increase existing differences between France and England, which is against the best interests of the world. America has a definite policy of her own—an American policy—the square deal nationally and internationally—and will not be swerved from it by any plea, however plausibly expressed."

NAVY INQUIRY BOARD ORDERS TRIAL OF 11

strategic conception is rarely permissible, but in the tactical execution of the above much latitude must be allowed the subordinate. * * *

"The division commanders and individual ship captains are always charged with the safety of the unit under their command, no matter who leads, unless it be in the presence of the enemy, when destruction of the enemy and not the safety of your own unit are the guiding factors." *

The court, headed by Admiral Pratt, who since the death of the late Admiral Mahan has become known more and more as the present-day Mahan of the navy, declares that "no destroyer doctrine ever advocated the blind following of any leadership."

"On the contrary," says the report signed by Admiral Pratt, "the primary and strongest fundamentals are loyalty to the plan and in this way loyalty to the leader if the plan is correct, exercise of sound judgment on the part of the subordinate carrying out the plan, development of initiative on the part of the subordinate in order that the plan may be most efficiently carried out."

"Nothing can replace the use of sound common sense on the part of the subordinate," asserts the opinion, "and if he is not furnished with sufficient information by his leader to absolutely safeguard his own unit or to effectively carry out the plan he must ask for it himself, and, failing in this, he must use every effort of his own to obtain it, in order to better execute the general plan and by so doing aid the efforts of the leader. This is imperative and is believed to be much more in accordance with destroyer and fleet doctrine than to blindly follow the leader.

"The plan on Sept. 8 was to proceed to San Diego. The procedure at the time of the disaster was a movement in column formation. It mattered little, so far as detail went, how the plan was executed, so long as it was effectively carried out and the tactical details of execution were not at variance with the policy of the leader or would cause him embarrassment."

The court asserts that through unknown or unforeseen circumstances the leader may frequently err "as was the case when Tryon gave an order which resulted in the collision of the Camperdown and Victoria and the loss of the latter with consequent great loss of life."

The report declares that "had Nelson at Cape St. Vincent blindly followed the leader, John Jarvis would not have won the victory he did," and that if Nelson had obeyed Parker, "Copenhagen would not have been the monument to the British Navy that it is."

Finds Conditions Not Unusual.

In its review of the testimony, the court declares itself forced to the conclusion that no unusual conditions existed. It is true, the court says, there was fog and the lights which served as navigational aids were difficult to make, but it would have been better practice to have made Point Sur and thus to have obtained a later fix before approaching Point Arguello which was to be turned at night. It is also true, the court says, that a strong northerly wind would have helped augment the squadron's speed, but this, the court says, might be offset by bad steering.

"The sound navigator never trusts entirely to the obvious," says the court. "The price of good navigation is constant vigilance. The unusual is always to be guarded against, and when the expected has not eventualized a doubtful situation always arises which must be guarded against by every precaution known to navigators. When you cannot see, you hear and feel until you are sure. Dead reckoning alone can never be depended upon. It is always the captain who is sure in his own mind without the tangible evidences of safety in his possession who loses his ship."

Concerning the various degrees of responsibility the court declares there is nothing which will excuse the squadron commander, the captain of the Delphy and the navigating officer from accepting full responsibility for the accident.

"Their responsibility is full and complete," says the court, "and the court sees no extenuating considerations. In the case of the division commanders, the court finds they must be held responsible in a measure. The fact remains that they did too blindly follow the judgment of the squadron commander.

Lost Ships Mean Lost Commands.

"The responsibility of the division commanders is much less than that of the squadron commander, the captain and navigator of the Delphy—but a responsibility nevertheless. It was a responsibility which did not involve malfeasance, but it does involve nonfeasance to a limited degree."

Concerning the individual captains, the court says their case is a peculiar one, as they were not only following the squadron leader, but also their division commander, and in the case of the destroyers Lee and Farragut the division commander was personally on board these ships.

"Their position," says the court, "was a trying one and there are many extenuating circumstances. However, but to a lesser degree, the same responsibility which rests upon the shoulders of the division commanders rests upon them."

There is another aspect of the case concerning which the comment of the court is striking—the loss of command by those who lose their ships.

"The traditions of the sea are strong," says Admiral Pratt, speaking for the court, "the ideals high, the rules which seafaring men set for themselves rigid and hard. Only by living up to the most rigid standards may the lives of women and children entrusted to the care of seafaring men be safeguarded as far as human effort may make them safe.

"If a captain loses his ship, he loses his command even when attending circumstances point entirely to his complete exoneration from blame. The navy can do no less. Each captain that loses his ship must bear a responsibility due to that loss. Even though a court honorably acquits him of blame he must first assume the responsibility for the ship he commanded. Only by maintaining this standard can the high ideals and traditions of the navy be preserved."

LLOYD GEORGE HERE, PLEASED BY RESULTS

danger to civilization from the present unsettled economic and political conditions in Europe, and has declared that the reparations question is at the bottom of most of Europe's ills. He has advocated consistently the adoption of Secretary Hughes's proposal for an economic commission to inquire into Germany's ability to pay as the best preliminary step toward a just settlement.

A closer understanding and co-operation between the two English-speaking peoples of the world is another thing that Lloyd George has emphasized in his speeches as the only means of bringing about the rehabilitation of Europe and the elimination of war in the future. His audiences in every instance have taken kindly to the suggestion, judging from the applause it has evoked. In his most recent speeches he has sounded a warning also that democracy is in peril throughout the world, and pointed out that in many countries of Europe dictatorships have superseded democratic governments until the United States, Great Britain and France virtually are the only remaining democratic countries in the world today.

LLOYD GEORGE IN SCRANTON.

Tells Great Welsh Audience of Schwab's Aid to Allies.

Special to The New York Times.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—Presenting himself as "a humble private in the army of liberty and democracy in the world," David Lloyd George renewed before an audience of 10,000 this afternoon his plea that the United States go to the aid of Europe to save civilization. He pleaded again, and with even greater fervor than in speeches that have gone before, for a better understanding and a closer co-operation between the two English-speaking peoples.

"There are two peoples on earth—only two—who can save humanity and the world today," said the British statesman. "One is the people of this great commonwealth, the other the people of the British commonwealth across the ocean."

Job E. Hedges, who was one of several speakers who preceded Lloyd George at the big meeting, had expressed doubt that any "contractual" undertaking between the two nations for co-operation in the task of redeeming Europe would prove effective. Mr. Lloyd George in his address said he quite agreed with that.

"I agree with Mr. Hedges that not by alliance, not by contract, but by co-operation the end that we seek must be attained. I am as much opposed to entangling alliances by this great Republic as any one here could be. It is not necessary. Two peoples standing together for right and justice and humanity, determined to bring order out of chaos and insistent that their word when given shall go, will achieve that end—will save civilization and mankind and bring to the world the rich blessings of a peace that shall reign forever and ever."

The meeting was one of the biggest the ex-Premier has addressed since he came to America. It was almost entirely Welsh, as have been his reception and entertainment here. Charles M. Schwab, who has known Lloyd George since the days of the great war when he was Minister of Munitions and they were co-operating closely in the equipment of the troops on the western front with ordnance and shells, was one of several speakers who preceded the British visitor. Another was United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York. George W. Maxey, a prominent Scrantonian of Welsh descent, who has been host of the Lloyd Georges during their stay here, called the meeting to order. Judge E. M. Edwards, another Scranton Welshman, presided.

The meeting was held in the armory, the largest place of assembly in this city. Every seat was occupied half an hour before the meeting began and there were thousands outside clamoring for admission who had to content themselves with a glimpse of the British visitor as he arrived, and with listening in on the speeches and other exercises as they were reproduced by amplifiers for the benefit of those who could not get in. One feature of the gathering was the singing of Welsh melodies and some hymns in English by the Lloyd George Choir composed of 500 voices.

Mr. Lloyd George when he arrived at the armory, accompanied by Dame Margaret and Miss Megan, his wife and daughter, received a tumultuous greeting from a huge audience. Shrill cheers from women mingled with those of the men as the little Welshman stepped onto the platform, accompanied by his host and Mayor John Durkan of Scranton. Something like an hour and a half was consumed while the meeting laboriously went through a long program of singing and preliminary oratorical events and worked up to the climax when the British visitor finally got the floor. Then he was cheered again.

Tribute to Mr. Schwab.

Mr. Lloyd George at the very beginning of his speech paid a high tribute to Mr. Schwab.

"He is one man," said the War Premier," who from the very outset placed his genius and his great capacity for organization at the disposal of the Allies. He was the first man to come to our aid in organizing a more ample and efficient supply of munitions. The Kaiser offered him three times the price his great plant was worth in an effort to rob us of their support, but he stood by the Allies. You can therefore appreciate the feeling of a Britisher who took a leading part in the prosecution of the war toward a man who gave such chivalrous and generous aid to the cause of liberty when in jeopardy on the battlefields of Europe."

"Senator Copeland, who spoke before me," Lloyd George went on, "said that the world was in a bad state. So it is. Europe, in particular, is in a desperate and dangerous state. Another of your speakers, Mr. Hedges, said the blunt of the conflict fell on the countries over there. Well, we had from ten to fifteen million lives lost; from twenty to thirty millions mutilated. The pension roll in Great Britain is a gigantic one. It is half the cost of the whole national expenditure before the war. The whole structure of its commerce was shattered. In Central Europe at this very moment there are hundreds of mothers who do not know how to provide a sufficiency of food for their children. In our own country 1,000,000 are out of work and kept by the State from starvation. The world has been impoverished by the devastation of war. People are too poor to buy, or, if they buy, too poor to pay.

"I am no longer in official life of any Government. I shoulder no responsibility. I come to you as a plain citizen. In that capacity I am pleading with you, the people of a great and prosperous and happy nation, to help, help, help to put to right the distress of mankind. I think the two English speaking peoples can redeem civilization from doom—doom—doom.

"If you think I am speaking violent words, go to Europe and see for yourself how the peoples are suffering for fear—fear of some impending peril coming upon them, they do not know from where. And if the blow falls, it will be a war such as the world cannot conceive of in its horror. Civilization might have been shattered had the late war lasted longer than it did, and the consequences of a new war no one who knows anything about war dares picture."

The historical background to the visit of Lloyd George in this country and the high position he occupied in the councils of the great powers of the world during the war and the peace negotiations appeared to have been lost sight of in the tumultuous welcome he received at Scranton, which boasts the biggest Welsh population of any community outside of Wales itself.

To the enthusiastic Welsh people of Scranton Lloyd George was the great little Welshman whose big share in the events of recent world history had reflected credit on their race. They took him to their hearts as a Welshman, one of their own, and almost killed him by their kindness and the warmth of their hospitality. The city was en fête for his coming, Mayor Durkan proclaimed a civic holiday, the schools were closed all day and most of the stores and other business establishments from noon on.

At the home of Judge Maxey, where he was entertained, they kept open house and it was an almost continuous reception from the time the Lloyd Georges arrived to the time they left.

To the British statesman it was a proud day and a happy one, even though he admitted fatigue as a result of the welcome accorded him.

NOTE SAYS TREATY BARS RHINE STATE

Great Britain Warns France and Belgium Against Attempt to Dismember Germany.

PARIS RETURNS DISAVOWAL

French Delegate Reminds Separatist Leaders That They Have Not Yet Been Recognized.

LONDON, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—By notes delivered to the French and Belgian Governments today, the British Government puts into formal form the announcement made recently by Premier Baldwin that the Government cannot view with equanimity the creation of separate States in Germany or the dismemberment of that country. The notes declare that Great Britain cannot recognize an independent Rhineland republic, defacto or de jure, because such a republic is contrary to the Treaty of Versailles.

British action in this respect is inspired in the first place by the realization that the disintegration of Germany would leave no central government which could be held responsible under the Versailles Treaty, and, in the second place, by the fact that recognition of the Rhineland republic would cause endless embarrassment to the British Government in the Cologne zone, where the British troops might become involved in the delicate task of keeping order among the contending German factions.

While British troops are kept on the Rhine—and many voices here recently have advocated their withdrawal—the Government is obliged to exercise every care to avoid embarrassing complications. It is argued in London that it might happen that the inhabitants of the Cologne district would prefer to remain loyal to the Reich, even if a Rhineland republic were established, and since much evidence has been forthcoming to prove that the French Government favors the creation of such a republic, this would bring the British Government into direct conflict with France at a time when, in view of the coming in of America to another reparations conference, it is more than ever necessary that nothing should happen to disturb the already somewhat strained relations between Great Britain and France.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—In a reply to a British note received this afternoon protesting against the setting up of a sovereign State within the borders of Germany as being contrary to the Treaty of Versailles, Premier Poincaré tonight responded to London declaring that the Rhineland movement was not a French creation and that it was developing freely without encouragement as without hindrances.

The British note called attention to Part II. of the treaty in which the signatory powers guaranteed the frontiers of Germany. It formally declared the signatory powers had not the right to create a State distinct from Germany and sovereign within the provinces of the Rhine. It also cast doubt on the sincerity and solidarity of the movement.

The Matin points out that M. Poincaré at the time of making the treaty fought vainly against guaranteeing the German frontier on the grounds that Germany at the signing of the Treaty of Frankfort did not guarantee the frontiers of France. It also hints that it was the siding of Belgium with England on this question that caused the French Premier to answer the British note with only a denial of French intentions.

The Matin intimates that as the stand of Belgium weakens the French stand on the question of the Rhineland republic, there is sure to follow a long interchange of notes between London and Paris on this subject.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 31.—A note from the British Government outlining its attitude toward the Rhineland Separatist movement was handed to the Foreign Minister this evening.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

COLOGNE, Oct. 31.—While acknowledging that the Cologne zone has been cut off from the other zones in the area of occupation by Separatists and that the district could be starved out, British officials here asserted today that they would keep their district intact against Herr Mathes and other Separatist leaders.

All Separatists caught inside the British zone will be given free board and lodging indefinitely. The British Army considers that it holds Cologne in trust for Germany.

When the Rhineland Commission receives it is understood that the British will call attention to the violation of two ordinances of the commission: (1) Against civilians carrying arms, for which the Americans always imposed penalties; (2) against civilians drilling, which Separatists have done at Coblenz under former German non-commissioned officers.

The British are keeping the arms, including carbines, of all German police in Cologne under lock and key. If the Separatists come the British will merely unlock the arsenals without recourse to troops.

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The young Rhineland Republic has lost ground during the last few days, according to the German newspapers, while a French circular letter which the German press publishes shows the Separatists have been reminded that they are not recognized by the French as in full control of the Rhineland.

The French communiqués today make no mention of the republic, but reports from German sources declare the Separatists have cleared out of the towns of Jülich Neuss, Stolberg, Esohweiler and München-Gladbach, and that the territory around these towns has been freed from republican control.

A dispatch to the semi-official Wolff Bureau from Euskirchen, near Bonn, declares that the French superior delegate of the Rhineland Commission has addressed a circular letter to all the burgomasters in his district advising them that the Separatists' republic has not yet been officially recognized anywhere, and that if and when such recognition were accorded the republic the authorities of each city concerned will be officially notified. Therefore, the circular letter adds, the old régime stands throughout the district.

The letter gives notice that the Separatists are not permitted to make requisitions or remove old officials from office, and that as heretofore all requisitions must be countersigned by the superior delegate or the military authorities.

It is said a similar letter has been distributed in the Bonn district.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Rhineland Separatists have occupied the public buildings at Worms and declared a republic, according to advices received here. The local workers are reported to have gone on a strike.

TRIER, Oct. 31.—The old town criers in the scattered mountainous districts along the Moselle, whose newspaperless villages are well known to the Oklahoma, Texas, California and other Western regiments of the early days of the American occupation, have been pressed into service by the Separatists.

The criers now walk the streets ringing their well-worn bells to attract the attention of the languid population, and then reading the latest news, orders and proclamations emanating from the Provisional Government headquarters at Coblenz.

TROOPS STILL PREVENT OUSTING SEPARATISTS

While Refusing to Recognize Them, French Allow Them to Lord It Over the People.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The London Times correspondent in the Rhineland sends the following under date of Cologne today:

"According to latest messages from Trier, where the Separatists have taken a particularly high hand, shopkeepers have been compelled by threats to exhibit proclamations of further restricting of such liberty as was left to the inhabitants by the ordinances of the High Commission. All newspapers have been definitely forbidden to appear until they declare their readiness to obey orders of the 'Provisional Government,' and imprisonment is threatened for non-compliance. Another proclamation states: 'Rhineland francs will become the currency at the end of the week.'

"Colonel Cochet, the local French delegate, is stated to have informed town officials that no alterations in the rule of the Separatists would be permitted until the population yielded and itself declared for the republic, when the present usurpers would be dispossessed. This attitude and that of suffering the Separatists to carry out arrests is difficult to reconcile with the fact that their public recognition by the French is still delayed. If they are not considered a Government, on what grounds are the police and population prevented from ejecting them from the buildings they have seized?

"In Mainz the French delegate has ordered the German authorities to submit all orders and proclamations to the Separatists before publication. The French arrested a guard posted by the Germans to protect notes at the printing press from theft by Separatists. Immediately afterward the latter broke in and stole several trillions of marks.

"The French delegate at Coblenz, in contrast to his colleagues at Trier, has forbidden the Separatists to arrogate to themselves control of the press, which is already exercised with great strictness by the French.

"The group of armed hooligans in the Coblenz Kaiserschloss is behaving in the usual way. Cupboards and drawers have been broken open and valuable articles stolen. Women of bad character frequent the headquarters, which already are in a terrible state of disorder, and the leader of the band is stated to have admitted to Rhineland officials that he had no control over his men.

"It now is revealed that in the middle of the night, before the arrival of the Separatists, French gendarmes arrested forty of the town officials and expelled them, thus leaving the population leaderless when the Separatists marched in. On the following day armed men fired on a crowd outside their headquarters, wounding two municipal employes, one of whom was shot through the lungs.

"The chief Separatist civilian official in Coblenz after Herr Matthes is Dr. Kremer, who was at one time a clergyman.

ELECTS FELLISCH PREMIER.

Interdiction Against Saxon Assembly Withdrawn by Gen. Mueller.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

By CYRIL BROWN.

DRESDEN, Oct. 31.—General Müller, having revoked his order that the Saxon State Assembly must not meet for some time, that legislative body convened last night and after interrupting its session several times, finally at midnight elected as Prime Minister Karl Fellisch, the Socialist who served before in the Saxon Cabinet as State Secretary of the Interior.

Herr Fellisch, who is known as a cool-headed politician, received 46 out of 64 votes, the Communists refraining from voting while the German Nationalists had previous left the meeting demonstratively in a body. Herr Fellisch's only opponent, Dr. Kaiser of the German People's Party, received 18 votes.

The Socialist Party, although it received assurances from the Democratic and German People's Parties that they would support the new Prime Minister, absolutely refused at first to share the Cabinet seats with any member of these two parties and insisted upon a purely Socialist Cabinet. This morning, however, Herr Fellisch received several members of the Democratic and German People's Parties who, it was said, persuaded him that it would be better for the longevity of his Cabinet if friends of theirs were appointed.

The functions of Commissioner General Heinze, who dismissed Prime Minister Zeigner and his colleagues, ended automatically with the election of the new Prime Minister and he withdrew immediately. General Müller, however, remains at the commandantur, from which he can overlook the market place with August the Strong's imposing equestrian statue that is heavily gilded from his crowned head to his horse's hoofs.

Yesterday this statue was surrounded by angry masses of laboring men and women who had been ordered on a general strike b ytheir organizations to demonstrate against the revival of dictatorial methods. For once the military authorities refrained from interfering with the excited people, who finally became tired of frowning at the massive walls of the commandatur and went home.

When THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent called at the Commandantur early Monday morning he found the place in feverish activity, armed sentinels being on duty and intelligence officers reporting themselves and waiting orders, and General Müller closeted with Commissioner Heinze in secret consultation.

"We have the situation well in hand," said Adjutant Baumbach answering a question.

The correspondent expressed some astonishment that there was so much military activity while the city seemed quite tranquil.

"Well, you see, Germans must feel a heavy hand sometimes or they will get unruly," explained the Captain. "In Germany nowadays people talk too much, especially German Parliaments. We shall teach them to work and keep their mouths shut."

Then you are determined not to let the legislature meet? questioned the correspondent.

"It will certainly not meet before we are convinced that it can do no serious harm," came the reply emphatically.

That was early in the morning. About noon the correspondent drove up to the modest cottage in the garden suburb of Lauschwitch, about eight miles from Dresden, where lives Dr. Zeigner, the man who twenty-four hours previously was Prime Minister of Saxony.

Dr. Zeigner's residence was surrounded by a force of Secret Service men, not in the employment of the Government but of the Socialist Party, which feared an assault on the pretty little cottage by monarchist or militarist elements. The late Prime Minister himself was not present, the guards in front of his house being only a blind to mislead his enemies, but Frau Zeigner consented to receive the correspondent. Frau Zeigner, who seemed very well informed concerning politics, expressed her contempt for the procedure of Commissioner Heinze and General Müllen in most candid terms.

"They went far beyond their power when they ejected the Cabinet members from office," she said. "Why, this very morning we got telegrams from both President Ebert and Chancellor Stresemann assuring us that they never gave their consent to those actions and promised satisfaction."

"Do you think, then, that your husband will return to office?" she was asked.

"No, not at present," was her reply. "My husband will probably go to the Ruhr district on a special mission."

Frau Zeigner intimated that her husband was in consultation with Socialist Leaders Dittmann and Wills, who had come from Berlin early in the morning to persuade the Saxon Socialists to separate from the Communists and form a new purely Socialist Cabinet.

New Saxon Ministers.

DRESDEN, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The Cabinet is composed entirely of Socialists. The following Ministers were named by Dr. Fellisch:

MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR—Herr Lieb.
MINISTER OF FINANCE—Herr Held.
MINISTER OF LABOR—Herr Graupe.
MINISTER OF JUSTICE—Herr Neu.
MINISTER OF EDUCATION—Herr Fleissner.

AUTHORESS FEARS FOR LIFE.

Frau Reuter, in a Thuringian Villa, Tells of Situation There.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BAD KOESEN, Thuringia, Oct. 31.—"In our little town we do not feel much of the Red Government, and the workmen of the Leuna nitrate works, who for the most part live here, have the word of their bosses that they never will have work again if they do not keep quiet. So till now they have preferred to get their wages and work."

Vividly illuminative of Thuringian conditions is the above statement made by Frau Gabriele Reuter, the famous German novelist.

"But, of course," she went on, "there are many unemployed who go around and gather in the peasants' fields. As I am alone with children and my friends in a villa it may well be that we shall be slain and robbed one of these days. But one must not think of such things in advance."

General Pershing Visits Verdun.

CHAUMONT, France, Oct. 31.—General Pershing motored through here this afternoon on his way to Verdun, where he visited the Franco-American War Monument, unveiled in June. The American commander called on the Mayor, and promised on his return to pay a longer visit to Chaumont, which he made his headquarters during the war.

PARIS TO SPECIFY 'PRESENT CAPACITY'

United States is expected to go forward before the end of the week.

A note presented by the British Ambassador today contains a proposal to the French Government to send a joint British-French-Italian-Belgian invitation to the United States to be represented on the committee of experts. The joint invitation will express thanks to the United States for its collaboration and beg the Government to appoint delegates through its observer on the Reparation Commission. Thus it can be seen that the British note neither raises objections nor asks the French Government to specify its intentions, as has been reported from London.

The semi-official newspaper Le Tempa deals severely with the British foreign policy in an editorial today. Great Britain is described as seeking to induce the United States to enter upon a conversation which will inevitably result in the conclusion that the interallied debts ought to be reduced. She is trying to prove to the Americans, on the eve of an electoral campaign, the newspaper declares, that it is to their interest to lend money to Europe without demanding the integral payment of the European debts.

"This is the delicate task which England is pursuing methodically," the writer states.

France, he adds, has no reason to undertake similar action toward the United States; her doctrine is that Germany can pay and even enrich herself in doing so, provided it is gone about in the right way.

WASHINGTON TO ACT QUICKLY.

Experts Will Be Chosen to Allay Fears of Approach to League.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—American Government officials, while awaiting official word from Great Britain that the Allied Powers had agreed to a conference of economic experts to unravel, if possible, the reparation tangle, arranged today to move expeditiously with regard to participation by the United States in the discussions.

With the situation in Germany recognized as daily growing more serious, officials here are mindful of the need of prompt action. An intimation came from an official source today that action in connection with American representation on the Advisory Committee might be expected with as much expedition as marked the step leading to the decision to hold the conference.

Officials generally were still emphatic today in their assertion that the manner of selecting American committee members had not been given any great consideration. The impression was given, however, by some officials in close touch with the situation, that the Administration desired more than one member, possibly three, and that in the selection of representatives consideration would be given to differing groups of interests and to geographical considerations.

Apprehension expressed in some quarters that the United States might, through participation in the experts' conference, become involved in the affairs of the League of Nations, is being given some thought by Administration officials, and it was indicated that the American members would be so selected as to allay any such fears.

Secretary Hughes had half an hour's conference late today with President Coolidge and although no statement was forthcoming from either the White House or the State Department as to the nature of his call it was believed that the reparation question had been up for consideration.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Sir Robert Kindersley, director of the Bank of England, is being considered by the British Government as its representative on the proposed committee of experts to deal with the German reparations question.

According to the Foreign Office there have been no discussions between the American and British Governments regarding any special American as a member of the commission.

RUHR OUTLOOK IMPROVED.

Real Return to Work Is Now Generally Expected.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 31.—Herr Krupp von Bohlen's period of freedom has been prolonged seven days in order that negotiations may be continued for the resumption of work in the Ruhr. Only questions of detail now remain to be discussed with the French engineers.

Conversations with the Stinnes group have been suspended until Friday, following yesterday's all-day sitting.

Today a sub-committee of technical experts discussed practical difficulties. Altogether the atmosphere is much clearer, and the outlook is decidedly brighter today. Every one is beginning to talk about a real return to work, and the spectre of anarchy, about which there has been so much talk, has now been laid at least temporarily.

In addition to the more hopeful outlook regarding the future there also has been a more immediate reason for relief. The unemployed have received enough marks to feed them until the end of the week, while provision dealers, frightened by the threat of fines, have brought down prices of several foodstuffs. French food kitchens also have been busy distributing thousands of meals throughout the Ruhr.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The correspondent of The London Times in the Ruhr sends the following:

"From a very well informed source I learn there was this afternoon in Düsseldorf every prospect of an agreement being reached between the French and Stinnes and his colleagues which would enable the mines to keep their men employed.

It is believed the French are prepared to accept partial payment of the coal tax arrears and will be content for the present with a nominal fee in respect to the coal tax for quantities now to be produced. There are less hopeful prospects of an agreement being reached in respect to the heavy iron and steel industries.

"Herr Krupp von Bohlen and his colleagues are due to return to prison tomorrow to continue serving their long sentences of imprisonment, but a French report states that if they consent to sign the economic agreement demanded by the French, as they were due to do today, they will be definitely released.

"There is some hostile German comment to the effect that the Krupp directors would thus be paying a ransom to escape from prison at the expense of their workers," the dispatch adds, "but it must be remembered that by signing they hope to postpone at least the discharge of over 50,000 men and as the model employers of the Ruhr, they may be expected to have considered this as well as the advantage to themselves."

MONARCHIST FORCES AT THURINGIAN LINE

Bavarian Security Police Officers Drilling Recruits—Famous War Regiment Revived.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

WEIMAR, Oct. 31.—Two Thuringian police were wounded this evening when they attempted to halt a Bavarian mounted patrol scouting toward the town of Sonnenberg. The Bavarians retired.

Reinforcements are flocking to the Monarchist colors from all sides. Troops from Captain Ehrhardt's brigade, Herr Hitler's storm troops, the Oberland organization, the National Flag Association and many lesser known bodies have been identified.

The chief of the State Police here asserts that the total mobilization is being 20,000 and 30,000, with 15,000 Reichswehr at Bamberg ready to join the movement.

The Monarchists advanced slowly during the night and reached the Thuringian border at all points. Their air fleet is at Coburg now and consists of twelve fast planes sporting the swastika on their wings. Thirty motor trucks bearing machine guns also have been added to the extensive equipment reported previously.

It is reported that 100 Bavarian Security Police officers and many Reichswehr officers are instructing and drilling the Monarchists at Coburg.

The famous German 96th Regiment, which won many sharpshooting laurels during the war, has been reorganized. This body of men is from Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and was reviewed on Sunday by the former Prince of that State.

The troops identified at Coburg today included seven companies of the Ehrhardt brigade, two Ehrhardt machine gun companies, three companies of Hitler storm troops, two companies of the Oberland organization, five three-inch field guns and one signal corps company.

The main body of the Hitler troops is based at Bamberg. It is impossible accurately to identify all the organizations along the Thuringian frontier, but twenty different bodies, all evidently coordinated under Captain Ehrhardt, were reported.

ago declared that in the United States there was and could be no place for government by class or clan.

That the Klan is against Underwood and will fight him to the bitter end was shown at Dallas, where the Senator was ignored by every official of that Klan-controlled county and city. On the day before the city had welcomed Hiram Evans, the wizard from Atlanta, and even policemen wore Klan "welcome ribbons." More than 10,000 heard Evans speak, less than 1,000 listened to the Senator from Alabama.

The McAdoo organization in Texas has been functioning for months past, while the Underwood forces are just beginning to organize. Behind the Underwood movement are scores of the leading business and professional men of the State, leaders in the farming and cattle business, men who are urging the endorsement of Underwood because he is not only the best known Southern Democrat but also because one of the most independent men in political life.

Despite the opposition of the Klan, and many of the politicians who are not of the Klan, Underwood's friends say he has a good fighting chance to win the Texas delegation. At any rate, he will figure prominently in the fight that is already under way to take Texas out of the Klan column.

The Governorship will be even more bitterly contested. Governor Neff may be a candidate for re-election, and in that event the Klan may not name a member candidate. Neff has not fought the Klan. On the contrary, from the beginning of his second administration he has been what one of the anti-Klan leaders described as a "friendly neutral" so far as the Klan and things it stands for is concerned.

In the event the Klan names one of the "hooded brothers" as its candidate for Governor it will have a big field to choose from. The most prominent among the Klansmen who are being mentioned as possible candidates are W. A. Hanger, Fort Worth lawyer; Lewis T. Carpenter, the Klan leader in the Texas Legislature, and V. A. Collins, a lawyer of Dallas.

The anti-Klan candidate for Governor may be ex-Governor A. O. Colquit, who, is said to know more about the fiscal affairs of Texas than any man in the State. Or he may be T. W. Davidson, the anti-Klan Lieutenant Governor, who, when Governor Neff leaves the State, calls out the Texas Rangers and works them overtime in an effort to bring masked law breakers to justice. It was Davidson who, during the absence of Governor Neff recently in Washington, directed the inquiry into the assassination of Otto Lange, the Somerville, Texas, mechanic who was killed by masked men on the night of July 2, last. The exposures of the masked outrages perpetrated in Amarillo, Port Arthur and Wichita Falls were also directed by Mr. Davidson during the absence from the State of Governor Neff.

There is no man in all Texas whom the Klan so bitterly hates as it does the Lieutenant Governor. When a Klansman mentions the name of Davidson in nine out of ten cases he will refer to him as "T. Walton Davidson."

The anti-Klan forces have not yet settled on their candidate. There are several men besides Mr. Colquit and Mr. Davidson who are being considered, but whoever gets the anti-Klan indorsement will be the target for a bombardment on the part of the Klan such as no man ever faced in all the political history of Texas. At least that is the way it looks now.

The United States Senatorship may, as in 1922, produce another sensational fight in 1924. Morris Sheppard of Texarkana, the senior Senator from Texas, is a candidate for re-election. To date he has not disclosed his position on the Klan issue. There are some Texans who assert that Mr. Sheppard would like to leave the Klan out of the campaign entirely, but in Texas next year they are going to demand that all candidates, for whatever office they stand, shall show their colors, whether for Klan or against it.

Mr. Sheppard has one big advantage, and that is his record as a bone-dry prohibitionist. He was the author of the prohibition resolution in the Senate and he drafted the law that made the National Capital dry a year in advance of the ratification of the prohibition amendment. Therefore, he will have the backing of the Anti-Saloon League, which, by the way, supported Mayfield, the Ku Klux Senatorial candidate, in 1922, and the memory of that service in the hour of its greatest need is said to have been appreciated by the Klan and may work to the advantage of Senator Sheppard.

Few people in Texas believe that Mr. Sheppard has at heart any sympathy for the Klan and the things the Klan stands for. No one expects him to endorse the Klan openly; nor are there great numbers who think he will take a bold stand in opposition. If this should develop, the Senator's "neutrality" may prove to be his undoing, and he may find himself opposed by the Klan, as well as by some of the most prominent of the men identified with the growing movement to win Texas from Klan domination. Should Senator Sheppard fail to take sides in the crucial test that is just ahead, Governor Neff, according to the Klan in Texas, may enter the race, and in that event the Klan might list him as "favorable," as it did in 1922. The entrance of Neff would further complicate matters so far as Sheppard is concerned, for the Governor is just as dry as is Mr. Sheppard.

One of the reasons advanced by the friends of Governor Neff for his alleged inactivity concerning men who have figured in certain masked outrages in Texas is that the Governor has been an busy "putting the bootleggers out of business" that he has not had time to go after the masked offenders.

Again, the Klan might make Carpenter its candidate. Hangar is also eligible for the Klan endorsement.

The anti-Klan position on the Senatorship depends to a great extent on Mr. Sheppard. If he should line up with the antis he will have the backing of the anti-Klan forces. On the other hand, if he assumes an attitude of "friendly neutrality" the opposition will bring out a candidate. The name of Nelson Phillips, Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court, who was considered for an appointment to the Supreme Court in Washington by President Harding, and who is one of Senator Underwood's chief supporters in Texas, would unquestionably be the anti-Klan choice if he could be induced to stand. There is no more finished orator in Texas than Judge Phillips. Even the Klan concedes that he is a great Texan. But being anti-Klan, as in the case of Underwood, the Klan will have nothing to do with him.

Of course, there will be a fight for every other office in the State. Members of the House of Representatives in Washington, the State Legislature, all other State, county and municipal offices, including the Judges of Courts and prosecuting attorneys, Texas, according to all the signs, is going to be very much in the spotlight in the campaign of 1924.

Klan Supreme in Arkansas.

Arkansas comes next. As in Texas, the Ku Klux Klan is in the saddle in Arkansas. The conditions are as much alike as two peas in a pod.

Thomas C. McRae, the Governor of Arkansas, like Governor Neff, is in every sense of the word a "friendly neutral" in the matter of the Ku Klux Klan issue. Not one word has he said against it, and there is no reason to think he is going to attack the Klan at any time. McRae is understood to be a candidate for a third term, and his friends are counting on the support of the Klan. The Governor's Secretary, C. P. Newton, is a prominent Klansman, and his word will go a long way when the time comes for the "realm of Arkansas" to pick its gubernatorial candidate next year. McRae will also have the support of the road district organizations.

The opposition to him will come from thousands of farmers and other taxpayers who are victims of the Arkansas highway taxation system. Arkansas is the only State in the Union where there are hundreds of farms in the hands of receivers, because of the inability of the owners of those farms to meet the mountain-high road taxes, which in scores of instances are in excess of 100 per cent. of the assessed value of the land. The Governor recently signed a new road law that it is said will take a part of the interest burden off the land, but the road business will be the big issue so far as State officers are concerned, and indications are that the Klan will line up on the side of the Governor.

They are also to elect a Senator in Arkansas next year, and the Klan will not oppose Senator Joseph T. Robinson, who is slated to be the Democratic leader in the new Senate. Like Mr. Sheppard in Texas, Mr. Robinson is pursuing a policy of silence in the matter of the Ku Klux Klan, and the general opinion is that he will not attack and repudiate it, as did Senator Underwood, his predecessor as Senate leader. A prominent Klansman is authority for the statement that the Klan will not oppose Robinson, the reason being, as he expressed it, that Robinson is a "national figure." On the other hand, as in the case of McRae, the anti-highway element may put up a candidate to oppose Robinson. At this writing, however, no serious opposition is in sight.

Senator Robinson's Arkansas colleagues in the lower house of Congress are in the same boat. They are silent when it comes to taking sides in the Klan fight. One member of the delegation, Heartsill Reagan, who takes his seat for the first time on Dec. 3, was elected as a Klansman.

In one respect—an important one—Arkansas is not at all like Texas, and that is in the matter of opposition. There is apparently no organized movement under way to challenge the domination of the masked organization. There are, of course, thousands of citizens who have no sympathy with the Klan and its doctrine of hate and bigotry, but they are not up and fighting, as are their brother anti-Klansmen in the great State to the south. All signs, therefore, are for a continuation in 1924 of Klan control of the State of Arkansas.

Klan Losing in Oklahoma.

The third State in this trio of Klan-controlled Commonwealths is Oklahoma. For weeks past Oklahoma has been in the limelight, and the Ku Klux Klan has had a big part in the unpleasant advertising to which the State has been subjected. It is asserted that the Klan has a majority in the lower house of the Oklahoma Legislature and that a majority in the Senate is friendly to it. Governor Walton, whose troubles have stirred the nation, maintains that he is a victim of the hooded knights and that his impeachment trial is due to a conspiracy originated by the Klan for the purpose of removing him from office. In this instance, however, it is only fair to point out that there is evidence that Governor Walton himself tried to get into the Klan and was turned down. Subsequently, when the campaign for his impeachment got under way, he raised the cry of persecution and charged it to the masked order.

Aside from the case of Walton, the fact is that the Klan, as in Texas and Arkansas, is at this moment the dominant force in the politics of Oklahoma. The Grand Dragon of the order has even sought to bring about the enactment of a Klan control bill that would meet the approval of the Kloncilium in Atlanta. But in this he may fail, for in Oklahoma the Klan is on the defensive.

As in Texas, there is a strong opposition that is going to assert itself in the 1924 elections. At this writing the Klan is strongly entrenched and controls the offices and political machinery in some of the most important cities and counties in the State. Oklahoma is a doubtful State so far as national politics are concerned, and the claim of the Republicans is that the Klan is Democratic in politics. But it is known that its membership includes both Democrats and Republicans, as in Texas and Arkansas. James Comer, the Grand Dragon of Arkansas, for instance, calls himself a progressive Republican.

The battle in Oklahoma next year will involve a United States Senatorship, the Legislature and eight members in the lower house of Congress. Senator Robert L. Owen, the Democratic incumbent, is a candidate for re-election. Mr. Owen is not a Klansman, but he has not declared himself an enemy of the organization. Owen will have opposition for the nomination, probably in the person of ex-Attorney General Prince Freeling of Oklahoma City.

Being on the defensive, there are many who are of the opinion that the Klan will not be much in evidence in Oklahoma in the coming election. It will seek to operate under cover. There is every indication that the crest has passed, and while the Klan is still a menace of major proportion, the signs are not wanting that its control in Oklahoma will not survive much longer. Many of its former members, among its strongest, have left the organization. The Legislature, when it has finished the trial of Walton, is expected to enact an anti-Klan law more drastic than any so far passed by the Legislature of any State in the Union.

The situation in the Southwest would, therefore, appear to be that the Klan is passing in Texas and the overthrow of the masked organization in 1924 is possible. In Arkansas opposition has not yet organized, and the end is not now in sight. In Oklahoma the Klan is on the defensive, deserted by hundreds of its strongest men, and the end as a political power is not only possible but probable.

KLAN'S ASSETS IN JULY TOTALED $1,087,273

Audit Introduced at Atlanta Receivership Hearing Shows They Quadrupled in a Year.

ATLANTA, Oct. 31.—The reading of the deposition of N. N. Furney, cashier at the Imperial Palace, was continued today at the hearing in Fulton County Court in the suit of H. N. Rittenhouse of Philadelphia and others for a receiver for the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

In the deposition taken by the plaintiffs Mr. Furney was closely questioned about advances for expenses to the various field men and his ways of paying out the money. He said that he advanced the money to the various field men on the request of the Imperial Wizard, H. W. Evans, and that he did not know for what purpose the advances were made. "He is my superior officer," Mr. Furney said.

Affidavits designed to disprove charges of waste and mismanagement on the part of the present regime in the Imperial Palace were introduced by the defense.

A statement setting forth an audit of the books of the Klan by a firm of expert accountants showed that on July 31, 1923, assets were $1,087,378.49, as compared with $403,173.15 on the same date in 1922. Liabilities on July 1, 1923, were given as $1,705, as against $247,227.59 in 1922.

Charles J. Orbison of Indianapolis in an affidavit told of the efforts of a commission of eight, of which he was a member to adjust litigation between W. J. Simmons and H. W. Evans. He also told of a consent decree reached between the two sides and of a meeting of the Imperial Kloncilium which reviewed this decree.

$19,257 SITE COST NATION $105,000

Yet L. B. Johnson, Seller to Veterans' Bureau, Named Only $186 Profit in Tax Report.

ARCHITECT OVERPAID MORE

Hines Declares $33,000 Was Given by Controller for Plans Against His Protest.

COMMITTEE IS TO INQUIRE

Investigators of Bureau Plan to Call McCarl or His Representative to the Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Paying $19,257 for the site on which the Livermore (Cal.) Veterans' Hospital was to be established, Lucien B. Johnson of San Francisco sold it to the Government for $105,000. He added $26,674 in improvements to the property. Yet his income tax return to the Government reported a net profit on the deal of only $186.53. This disclosure was made today before the Senate committee investigating the affairs of the Veterans' Bureau.

Negotiations by the Veterans' Bureau for the Livermore site were entered into by Charles F. Cramer, Last March, after he had resigned as general counsel of the bureau, Mr. Cramer committed suicide. Evidence was introduced today that Mr. Cramer had strongly urged the purchase of the Livermore site for $150,000, telling Charles R. Forbes, then Director of the bureau, that an option had been obtained for that price. Colonel Forbes held off, and eventually ordered the purchase from Johnson at $105,000.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, the present Director of the bureau, testified that three weeks ago, against his protest, Controller General J. R. McCarl authorized the payment of $33,000 to Matthew O'Brien, an architect of San Francisco, for revising the plans so that they would fit the contract for the Livermore Hospital. Earlier in the hearing it was developed that $64,000 already had been paid to O'Brien for the original plans, which had never been used. O'Brien's total fees were thus $97,000.

Members of the committee indicated that the Controller General would be asked to explain why General Hines's letters and the protests of his representatives were ignored and the additional $33,000 was paid to O'Brien. Friction with Secretary Denby over payments to naval officers has brought Mr. McCarl into the public eye lately. He is reported to have stated that he is responsible practically only to Congress for his decisions on matters of claims.

Johnson Says He Gave Away Money.

Johnson on the stand went into details regarding the real estate transaction and his profits. He valued the property at $46,000 after making improvements. He bought it for $19,257 from the Cresta Blanca Wine Company of which he is a stockholder.

Explaining his deductions for income tax purposes, he said that gifts caused the biggest share of the reduction of his net profit from $59,000 to $186.53. He gave away $33,000. Of this sum $22,000 was paid to a man named Eccles, who, in turn, represented Thomas O'Day, a real estate dealer. In addition, Johnson explained that he charged off $25,000 of the $59,000 profit for operating expenses and depreciation.

General O'Ryan, counsel to the committee, read correspondence between Mr. Cramer, then counsel for the Veterans' Bureau, and Colonel Forbes, in which Mr. Cramer said that Matthew O'Brien, the architect, had obtained an option on the Johnson property for $150,000.

Johnson testified that he had given no option to Matthew O'Brien, but that his deal with O'Day was that he would be assured of $77,500 for the property. At any rate the O'Day option expired and the Government at once, according to Johnson, offered him $105,000 for the property for which, after the expiration of the option, he wanted $112,000. He accepted the $105,000.

General O'Ryan introduced from the Veterans' Bureau files a communication sent by Mr. Cramer to Colonel Forbes in which Mr. Cramer urged immediate purchase under the $150,000 option price. Instead, Colonel Forbes wired an offer of $105,000 on Jan. 1,7 1922, and reported to President Harding on Feb. 13 that the transaction had been closed.

Letters introduced by General Hines at the request of General O'Ryan showed that when O'Brien, the architect, asked for the additional $33,183 on Aug. 7 last, General Hines wrote to Mr. McCarl Sept. 18 disapproving the claim, and saying the architect's bill had already been paid in full. According to his further testimony, the next thing General Hines knew of the matter was when he discovered on Oct. 26 that Mr. McCarl had written him a crisp note, Oct. 8, saying the claim had been paid, the warrant being issued the next day.

General Hines also asked Mr. McCarl to review the O'Brien settlement and in future, when the Controller intended to allow a claim against the advice of the Veterans' Bureau Director, to give some notice of this intention and to defer the issuance of the warrant until the matter could be taken up again.

"The Controller over your protest paid that money without notice to you?" asked Senator Reed.

"That is correct."

Senator Reed demanded that Mr. McCarl send some one to explain this course on the part of the Controller.

Explains Real Estate Dealings.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—Lucien B. Johnson of San Francisco, who sold the Livermore Hospital site to the Government for $105,000, testified that he bought the land in October, 1920, from the Cresta Blanca Wine Company for $19,257 and before the sale to the Government put on it improvements costing $26,674, including a residence, garage and other buildings.

"I at no time tried to sell this property to the Government," Mr. Johnson said, adding that he first was approached about the sale by Thomas O'Day, a real estate dealer, in September, 1921. The month following a ninety-day option on the tract was given to Frank Tynon, an employe of O'Day.

The price fixed in the option was $100,000, but later two other options were written and the time extended ten days. Provision also was made that Johnson was to receive a net price of $77,500, and the witness explained that the remainder was to be the agent's commission.

Johnson denied that he had given an option to Matthew O'Brien, the architect, or had discussed the matter with him. He added that at the time he gave O'Day the option he did not know to whom the sale was to be made.

Reading from the income tax return of Johnson and his wife, Augustine B. Johnson, General O'Ryan disclosed that Johnson had deducted from his return of profit on the sale of the hospital site a total of $33,272.88 as selling expenses. Of this amount $22,000 went to O'Day, $5,063 to E. J. O'Brien, $4,000 to Mrs. Johnson, $2,000 to Frank Silva, Johnson's attorney; $506 to L. Biro and $500 to J. E. Morse.

Johnson testified that the $22,000 for O'Day was paid to O'Day's partner, Owen W. Eccles. He said Eccles asked for the money in currency and it was so paid to him. There was no legal obligation on Johnson's part to make this payment, he said, as O'Day's option had expired. It was in way of reimbursement, he added, for expenses and trouble O'Day had in attempting to sell the property.

E. J. O'Brien, Johnson continued, had undertaken some time before to sell the property to the City of San Francisco.

Johnson explained the $5,063 payment to him by saying that he felt sorry for him because he had been unable to dispose of the property. Johnson said E. J. O'Brien was no relation to the architect, Matthew O'Brien. He added that he had known the latter for many years, and that he had designed some of the "very best" buildings in San Francisco.

Questioned by Senator Reed, Chairman of the committee, the witness said he did not know what Eccles did with the $22,000, except that he took the money away from the bank where the payment took place. The payment was made on the day Johnson got the $105,000 from the Government.

General O'Ryan read into the record a report from A. E. Graupner, Chairman of the American Legion rehabilitation committee in California, showing that the assessed value of the Livermore hospital site and improvements for taxation purposes was $9,320 in 1920 and 1921, and $11,460 in 1922. Mr. Graupner's report said the county assessor made his assessment at 50 per cent. of the real valuation.

Immediately after the sale had been consummated Colonel Forbes reported to President Harding in a letter dated Feb. 13, 1923:

"In accordance with the understanding reached at our conference on Thursday afternoon, January 12," the letter said, "I have secured for a consideration of $105,000, three parcels of land, including all of the property originally offered to the Bureau at $150,000 and also two other valuable tracts facing the county road so that the hospital site will be bounded on the east entirely by the county road and will include all of the creek known as Arroyo Del Valle, which was excluded from the original offer on account of valuable water rights which the owner wished to retain."

General O'Ryan asked Johnson if it was not common rumor at Livermore that some cases of wine had been sent to Government officials at Washington from the Livermore wine plant.

"I read it in the newspapers," Johnson replied. "I don't know anything about it. You can't give wine away from bonded warehouses that belong to the Government."

General O'Ryan, reading from the Graupner report, asked Johnson if he ever had threatened to "squeal" if he did not get the grape crop.

"I never made any such statement," Johnson replied. "Squeal on what; on whom?"

Johnson said he had promised to split the crop with O'Day if he got it, adding that he had cultivated the crop at his expense and believed he was entitled to it.

ASSAILED BEFORE TENANTS.

Assemblyman Jesse Accused of Trying to Harass Postal Clerk.

An alleged attempt of Assemblyman George N. Jesse to obtain the transfer of a "100 per cent." postal employe because of the activities of his wife in working for Jesse's defeat, was charged at a tenants' meeting at P. S. 115, St. Nicholas Avenue and 177th Street, last night, by Captain Harry Allen Ely. Captain Ely, who is President of the Federation of Tenants' Associations, the Audubon Community Council and the Washington Heights Tenants' Association, made public correspondence between himself and Postmaster Edward M. Morgan of New York and President Coolidge.

The reply from Postmaster Morgan stated that the clerk, William Blust of Station M., according to a report to him, "was making himself obnoxious by his pernicious political activities and consequently an investigation was made." He quoted from postal laws which enjoin employes from using their official positions "to control elections," and added that no mention of the clerk's wife was made in the report. "Clerk Blust stated that he was not engaged in any political work, and that statement was accepted," he wrote.

Blust has been in the Post Office 26 years. His wife is leader of the Twenty-third A. D. branch of the Audubon Community Council and the Washington Heights Tenants' Association. According to Captain Ely's letter to Mr. Morgan, she was "most anxious to defeat Jesse for re-election because of his antagonism to legislation in behalf of tenants."

HELD IN $100,000 BAIL.

Alleged Auto Thief Also Suspected of Two Recent Hold-Ups.

When William Axelrod, 35 years old, of 544 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, was committed to the Tombs yesterday in default of $100,000 bail on an indictment charging him with the theft of an automobile, Assistant District Attorney Maloney told Judge Mancuso in General Sessions that the prisoner was suspected of being connected with two holdups and the high bail was necessary to prevent him from fleeing.

He said that Axelrod was suspected of being implicated in the theft of $15,000 and the killing of one of two employes of Rothenberg's store in West Fourteenth Street several weeks ago when they were leaving the Thirteenth Street side of the store with the money, and also was suspected of being one of three men who stole $4,000 in gems from a showcase in the lobby of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel during the holdup there in the early part of the month.

"This man has been identified in the Ritz-Carlton robbery and also in the Rothenberg holdup," said the prosecutor, replying to the protest of Hyman Bushel, counsel for Axelrod, that the bail was too high. When the prosecutor added that an indictment against Axelrod was expected in the Ritz-Carlton holdup, the Court said he would let the bail stand.

CALL INQUIRY ON DOGS' NOISE

New Petition Against Ehlerman Kennels Filed at Greenwich.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 31.—Because it is declared by neighbors that the kennels on the estate of Mrs. Helen Hotchkiss Ehlerman, on the Stanwich Road here, are a nuisance, the barking of dogs at night keeping the residents awake, a petition has been filed with Oscar D. Tuthill, first Selectman of the town of Greenwich, asking that he take steps toward abating the condition.

A temporary injunction was filed in the Superior Court at Bridgeport by Mrs. Ehlerman through her counsel and under an order of Judge Haines the Selectmen here were restrained from taking action in the matter. The action in the Superior Court is returnable the second Tuesday in November.

It became known today that a second petition had been served on Selectman Tuthill by those aggrieved, the signers being Dudley Hall, Jesse M. Bowman of the Dr. J. E. Bowman Sanitarium, near the Ehlerman estate, and Camlla Curtis Bird.

Selectman Tuthill said today that he had called a hearing in the case for Monday afternoon, when the Selectmen will preside in the capacity of judges.

justment process in various industries, and for this reason I believe the future will show good, substantial profits to any one using discretion in buying at prevailing prices stocks of corporations that are well managed and not over-capitalized."

In explaining his reasons for the changing of his views from those expressed six months ago, when his now-famous bearish statement was issued, Mr. Livermore's statement says "that with 90 per cent. of our agricultural products selling at higher prices than the farmer ever received for them, with the exception of war time prices, the business of the United States could not suffer any prolonged period of business depression. You only have to look at the volume of sales of the large mail order houses to see how far the present prices of commodities have gone to restore the buying power of the agricultural districts of the great West and South.

Doesn't Look for Boom Times.

"During the last six months there has occured a severe readjustment in prices in a large number of securities due to special reasons pertaining to their respective industry—such as the oil industry. But with crude oil selling at present prices, the incentive for carrying on extensive drilling campaigns in new territories has ceased, and it will only be a matter of a short time when our present enormous demand for fuel oil and gasoline will take care of the excessive supply on hand, and normal market prices will have been restored in the oil industry. I don't look for boom times and I don't believe that any one who has the interest of our country at heart wishes that either, but as long as our great agricultural sections are receiving high prices for what they produce and labor is well employed at high wages you cannot very well have bad times in this country.

"The only industries that want boom times are those that built up excessive ouput capacity during war times to take care of an abnormal demand that existed at that time, in the same way as the farmers were induced to plant an excessive acreage of wheat during the war and received fabulous prices for their product. The European war is over and the people of those countries are back planting their normal wheat acreage. They do not need to import wheat on an extensive scale any more. Therefore the need of American farmer to produce a large surplus of wheat for export is past, and the American wheat grower should realize this and cut his acreage to the needs of our domestic consumption. When this is done, the wheat grower of the United States will receive a price for his product that will compare favorably with other commodities. The same readjustment will have to be made in a large number of other industries that have too great an output capacity for our present needs.

A summary of several important bank, agricultural and industrial reports as to the prospects for a bumper Christmas for business men presents among other points the following statements: The country's agricultural position is the best it has been in three years and the index of purchasing power of farm products (as reached by the official United States Department of Agriculture statistician) is 79 points as compared with 64 a year ago; foreign trade is growing; the crisis in the oil industry has been passed; wages are at or near the high point of the year and commodity prices are tending upward; new construction is urgently needed, and with the temporary let-down in building activity there is some evidence that the Winter program can be carried through without the additional burden of bonuses to building labor; retailers' shelves are not overstocked and there is no reserve stock of goods on the hands of manufacturers or wholesalers; the public is spending money more freely and there is no evidence that consumption will lessen.

The packing industry, according to the Armour & Co., review, "has had a fairly successful month despite receipts of large supplies of live animals."

There is no justification for fear or pessimism, according to J. H. Tregoe, Secretary of the National Association of Credit Men who is sending his Nov. 1 review of trade conditions to more than 30,000 manufacturers and bankers. Quiet confidence, he says, should prevail in business, although "it is evident that production and distribution are far from regular; that there is much spottiness in the situation; that there are maladjustments in the flow of commodities to consumers' markets, and in the flow of funds from consumers' markets."

Farmers' Position Good.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The country's agricultural position is the best it has been in three years, the Department of Agriculture announced today in its monthly review.

"Purchasing power of farm products, though still at a disparity as compared with industrial products, is now at the highest point in three years," the review states. "Moreover, farm prices are higher at a season when farmers actually have something to sell.

"The Spring wheat territory continues in distress. Farmers in this territory also are discouraged at the low price of potatoes and incidental crops. There is considerable talk of diversification, and especially of increasing dairy stock.

"Prices of crops as a group in September were slightly higher than in August and 28 per cent. higher than September a year ago. Prices of live stock products as a group made the largest gain of any one month since February, 1922.

"By specific products, advances were made in cotton, wheat, hogs, eggs, butter and lambs. Corn and potatoes registered declines.

"The index of purchasing power of farm products as a group is placed at 75, as compared with 73 in August and with 64 in September a year ago.

"The run of hogs and sheep to market continued heavy, although many sheep were redistributed for feeders.

"Exports of wheat, including flour, for the first nine months of 1923 were 45,000,000 bushels less than during the corresponding period of 1922, whereas exports of lard show an increase of 226,000,000 pounds and of bacon, hams and shoulders of 144,000,000 pounds."

Burglars Loot Tarrytown Home.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Thieves last night entered the home of Mrs. Russell Hopkins in Sunnyside Lane and ransacked it. Mrs. Hopkins is in New York and the theft was discovered by an employe of the lighting company who went to the home to read the meter. The police do not know yet what was stolen. There is talk, in view of recent burglaries here, of forming a citizens' vigilance committee such was organized two years ago at Ardsley-on-Hudson when thieves were so active there.

CONEY BOARDWALK RIDE CHEERS HYLAN

Watches Winter Bathers From Wheelchair, Making Journey Without His Physician.

AUTO RIDES TO BE DAILY

Whole Trip Took Three Hours, and Dr. Ferguson Says It Proved Very Beneficial.

Another automobile trip to Coney Island appeared to have benefited Mayor Hylan to such an extent yesterday that it was said later at his home, 595 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, an automobile journey would be made to the resort every pleasant day in the future until he had recovered. The Mayor was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Hylan and Miss Edna Steiger, his nurse.

When the Mayor came out of his home his physician, Dr. John A. Ferguson, was not with him. The Mayor made his way down the stoop on crutches and, smiling at a group of his neighbors on the sidewalk, entered the automobile, assisted by Mrs. Hylan, the nurse and Detective Sergeant George Neun, the chauffeur.

Neun drove through Prospect Park to the Shelburne Hotel at Coney Island, where Inspector Byron Sackett and Captain Gillen, with a number of detectives and uniformed policemen, awaited the Mayor. Sackett, Gillen and Neun steadied the Mayor as he got out of the machine and seated himself in a wheel chair, his heavy overcoat buttoned up closely. Furs then were thrown around his shoulders to protect him from the stiff sea breeze, and a clerk in the hotel, Alfred Gonzales, propelled him along Ocean Parkway to the Coney Island Boardwalk, with policemen forming lines on each side of him.

Hundreds of persons waved greetings to the Mayor, and despite the manner in which he had been muffled in furs he frequently freed his right hand sufficiently to raise his hat. When he reached the foot of West Twelfth Street the Mayor paused to view the antics of seven Winter bathers, waving to them as they came out of the water to greet him.

"How are you feeling?" inquired one of the young women.

"Fine," replied the patient. "How's the water?"

"Fine," replied the bather.

"I feel much better today," the Mayor said when he got back to the hotel. The Mayor was away from home for almost three hours. Dr. Ferguson said last night the trip had been very beneficial.

LIVES 18 YEARS IN BIN, DIES WHEN TURNED OUT

'Old Paul,' 75, Picks Padlock Put on by New Landlord, but Grief Kills Him.

Eighteen years ago when Louis Freese bought an apartment house at 460 Willis Avenue he allowed Paul Schlossnies, a handy man, then about 57 years old, to live in a coal bin in the cellar. With bits of cast off furniture, Paul—he came to be "Old Paul" to the neighborhood by and by—made the place habitable.

A few months ago Abe Freidman of 212 Ellis Avenue bought the place. Schlossnies, 75 and too old to be useful, got orders to move. Tears and pleading went to no avail. Paul, however, ignored the order. One night he crawled into the cellar and found a padlock on the door of all the home he had known for eighteen years. He picked the lock with a piece of wire and went to bed. Then to make the bin less habitable, the door was taken off entirely. Old Paul stayed on, but it was noticed that he was aging rapidly and getting very feeble. He seemed to grieve all the time. Last night he was found dead alongside the coal bin.

ACQUIT HER OF MURDER.

Jury's Verdict Brings Cheers in Court at Mays Landing.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 31.—Spectators in the courtroom at Mays Landing this afternoon cheered when the jury acquitted Mrs. May MacNeill, 65, the wife of George MacNeill, a decorator, of this city, charged with the murder of her foster aunt, Mrs. Hannah Seeley, 72, of Egg Harbor. The jury was out only seventeen minutes.

Mrs. Seeley was found with her throat cut on the front porch of her home on Sept. 16, 1922. After a year's investigation Mrs. MacNeill was arrested. Counsel for the defense contended that Mrs. Seeley ended her own life because of worry over the death of her husband and failure to hear from her son in four years.

Scholarship for Decorating.

A $500 competitive scholarship, providing transportation to and from France and a year's tuition in the Paris branch of the New York School of Fine and Applied Art, offered by E. A. MacDougall, is announced by Frank Alvah Parsons and a committee of judges, including architects, decorators and society leaders. The purpose is to stimulate interest in interior decoration and architecture. The prize will be awarded to the student submitting the best decorating and furnishing scheme for a five-room apartment. The competition closes Jan. 31, 1924. Plans should be presented to the Secretary, J. Mitchell Thorsen, 9 East Forty-sixth Street.

SIMPLER TAX FORM FOR SMALL INCOMES

Washington Makes Computation Easier in the Case of Salaries Under $5,000.

4,000,000 ARE AFFECTED

Attention Is Called Again to Penalties Incurred for Delays and False Returns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—More than 4,000,000 persons, or about 70 per cent. of those who are required to file individual income tax returns annually, will be affected favorably by the revision and simplification of Form 1040A, copies of which will be available on Jan. 1. The Internal Revenue Bureau has endeavored to change the form so that the taxpayers whose incomes are not in excess of $5,000 will be relieved of many worries and doubts about the information they should send to the Government.

Form 1040A has been revised in the interests of the largest class of taxpayers—salaried persons and wage earners. Heretofore used for reporting net income of $5,000 and less, from whatever source derived, the new form will be used for reporting net income of not more than $5,000 derived chiefly from salary and wages.

Reducing to a minimum the problem of correctly making out an income tax return, Form 1040A consists of a single sheet, in which space is provided for answers in relation to income to only three questions: "Salaries, wages, commissions, &c.; interest on bank deposits, notes, mortgages and corporation bonds; and, other income." On the reverse side are instructions for making out the return.

Formerly Form 1040A has consisted of six pages, the questions pertaining not only to salaries and wages, but to income from business and professions, sale of real estate, income from royalties, partnerships and other sources.

Persons, any part of whose income is derived from business or profession, sale of property or rents, though the amount is $5,000 or less, will be required to use the larger form, 1040. The use of Form 1040 will be required in all cases, also, where the net income is in excess of $5,000, regardless of whether from salary, business, profession or other taxable sources.

Forms for filing individual returns of income will be sent to persons who filed returns for the year 1922. In view of the fact that it is impossible to determine at this time the form desired by the taxpayer, he will receive both the 1040-A and the 1040 form.

The period for filing returns is from Jan. 1 to midnight of March 15, 1924. The bureau also announced that receipt by Collectors of Internal Revenue of numerous improperly executed sales tax returns has resulted in the issuance of an order by Commissioner Blair that penalties be imposed in such cases. Every mercantile business selling taxable articles is affected by this ruling.

In many instances the returns are accompanied by unsigned checks. Where a properly signed check is not received prior to the expiration of the legal period of payment, a penalty of 5 per cent. will be imposed.

Sales tax returns sworn to by the name of a company or firm will not be accepted. The oath must be made by an authorized individual, who should follow his name by some descriptive word such as "owner," "partner," treasurer," &c. When a return received within the legal period is returned to a taxpayer for proper execution and the necessary action is not taken within a period of ten days, a penalty of 25 per cent. will be imposed if the corrected return, when received, is delinquent.

Returns covering the transactions of the preceding month and payment of tax due Are rekuired on or before the last day of each month.

16 LANDLORDS ARE FINED.

Municipal Court Collects $565—Nine Sentences Suspended.

Sixteen landlords paid fines totaling $565 in the Municipal Term Court yesterday when Magistrate Alexander Brough found them guilty of violating the tenement house laws. Nine others received suspended sentences. The cases of fifteen more were adjourned.

There were two fines of $100 imposed upon Harry Oscar, owner of a house at 304 West Sixty-ninth Street, and Morris Goldman, lessee of the premises 119 West Fourteenth Street. Samuel Shapiro, who owns the house at 511 West 151st Street, paid a $50 fine.

Revocable Trust

It means that if you make such a Trust you have the privilege—

"To annul or make void by recalling" (Standard Dictionary)—

And just because you are at all times complete master of the situation—

The Revocable Trust is becoming a very popular way to fix your affairs as you wish—

And enjoy the comforting assurance that you can change the arrangement at any time without consulting anybody—

That's a pretty fine thing to be able to do—

For instance, if you create a Revocable Trust naming us as your Trustee—

And you make yourself or others the beneficiary—

And you deposit with us under such Revocable Trust your securities, or such of them as you wish—

You can sell all or part at any time, or you can add to them, or do just whatever you please—

In other words, you are always the sole and only master of this situation—

And you have at all times the knowledge that while things are arranged today just as you wish, you can change things tomorrow, if you wish—

Isn't that a good arrangement—so much better than not having a definite expression of your intention recorded anywhere?—

The average man does not understand the great elasticity, safety and comfort in having under his own supervision—

A Revocable Trust made to his own order—

Come in and let us talk to you about it—

You won't be sorry and we will be pleased to meet you.

No Discontent

History reports of Titus, the son of Vespasian, that he never suffered a man to depart out of his presence with discontent.

If he had been a storekeeper he would have had a larger store than ours. Doing our best and doing our utmost, we have not reached the Roman Emperor's high altitude.

Yet we have never for a moment swerved from the principles to so serve the people that they should be thoroughly satisfied.

If any one has a grievance please stop nursing it at home and bring it and lay it inside of our front step.

No person having business with us shall be discontented after we know the reason why and do our best to undo the discontent.

As we said, there are all kinds of neckties

But they are not all like these, unfortunately—nor are they all so low-priced. Months ago we told a necktie maker to be on the lookout for high grade silks. Told him we planned to hold a sale of ties—but we wanted to have ties in it that were uniformly good—not just a few good ones to carry a lot of mediocre ties out of the store.

He finally found a silk man who wished to sell certain of his imported and domestic silks, chiefly in short ends. We said "Buy." To the superb collection of silks thus obtained, the tie maker added some of his very best silks in short ends. Then he made up the ties—12,000 of them—as we wanted them made. Big, generously cut ties. Carefully made so that they will wear. Bar-tacked by hand and carefully inspected before boxing.

This morning at 9 o'clock

This morning they go on sale. There will be plenty of room, plenty of salespeople to care for you, plenty of ties—for a time. But even 12,000 ties can disappear quickly—especially as Christmas is nearing, and they will make splendid gifts. Street Floor, New Building

SPECIALIZED SERVICE—STREET FLOOR

SPIEGEL REHEARSES THEATRICAL WRECK

Promoter Comes From Sanitarium for $1,000,000 Bankruptcy Hearing.

NINE ENTERPRISES FAILED

Details Losses on Nora Bayes, Richard Carle and Many Shubert Shows and Theatres.

Max Spiegel, theatrical promoter, who failed for more than $1,000,000 last December, and who for months has resisted attempts of creditors to get him to testify at bankruptcy proceedings, came to New York voluntarily yesterday from the sanitarium in Connecticut to which he was committed as insane before he failed. He appeared at the bankruptcy hearing before Referee Harold P. Coffin, accompanied by an attendant, and testified fully.

Spiegel said he had no money put away, but would do what he could to help his creditors and offered to produce an audit of his accounts up to a month before the crash. After the hearing Spiegel returned to the sanitarium with his attendant, promising to come back for the next hearing on Nov. 8.

Spiegel testified that he lost money in practically every venture he went into during 1920, 1921 and 1922. It was in this period that he borrowed large sums of money, which he was unable to pay back, to promote theatrical productions and to build or buy theatres and office buildings. He said that he was handling fourteen or fifteen big enterprises and had heavy losses in nine. According to Spiegel, he lost $150,000 in musical comedies, which he backed in association with the Shuberts. One of these was the Nora Bayes show, "Queen of Hearts," which closed after four weeks in New York and two weeks on the road, costing him $60,000. Two other Shubert shows, "Success" and "Full of Pep," he said, cost him $35,000 each.

Lost in Shubert Enterprises.

He swore that he lost about $100,000 backing the Shubert vaudeville shows. He said that he lost on stock he bought in the Affiliated Theatres Company, a Shubert corporation organized in connection with the vaudeville shows, and also lost on leases he and the Shuberts took on vaudeville theatres in various cities. He said he suffered $30,000 in operation losses on the Parsons Theatre in Hartford, besides refurnishing and recarpeting it at a cost of $17,000; and also lost on Shubert theatres in Cleveland, Albany, Buffalo and Toronto. He denied that owed the Shuberts $140,000, as they claim. "If there is any money due the Shuberts from me," he said, "it is a very small amount."

According to Spiegel, the building of the Sheridan Square Theatre, which he put up with Sol Brill, a Brooklyn theatre owner, and William Rafferty, a Syracuse promoter, cost him heavy losses. He said this theatre cost $175,000 more than the original plans called for, making a total cash investment of $500,000. He said he still had at least $60,000 equity in the theatre, although Rafferty has testified that Spiegel had no equity at all.

Spiegel said that he also had an equity of $400,000 in the Newark Rialto Theatre, which he took over with Brill and Rafferty. He said that the same two men were in with him in deals involving the Allentown Theatre in Allentown, Pa., and the Wedgeway Strand in Schenectady. Admitting that he had occasionally signed Rafferty's name with his own to checks, Spiegel was asked by Edward Otterbourg, counsel for the trustee, whether Rafferty had known about it.

"I told him afterward," said Spiegel. He added that Rafferty had signed Spiegel's name to checks.

Another enterprise in which Spiegel lost heavily, he testified, was in the production of Columbia burlesque on a percentage basis at the Grand Theatre in Hartford, which he owned. He said the theatre lost $25,000 in 1920 and $35,000 in 1921. He testified that he lost $50,000 starring Richard Carle in "Furs and Frills," which he bought from Arthur Hammerstein in 1920; $30,000 in a burlesque theatre in Trenton; $20,000 in a basement restaurant, and another large sum in backing a team of comedians named Murray and Mark.

Broadway Building Deal.

According to Spiegel, Harold Kirby, a real estate broker, proposed to him in 1912 that he acquire the property where the Strand Theatre, operated by the Mitchell H. Mark Realty Corporation, now stands, get a building loan from the Sutphen estate, which then owned it; and put up a combination hotel, theatre and office building, the rent from the hotel and offices paying the carrying charges and leaving the theatre rent free. Spiegel said he persuaded his father-in-law, Mitchell H. Mark, and the latter's associates to finance a theatre and office building, without the hotel. Kirby later assigned a claim against Spiegel, and the assignee recently got a judgment of $400,000, which Spiegel described as "a mathematical absurdity."

Russell W. Leary, representing Samuel T. Pitt, the largest creditor, said that Pitt had told his bank not to renew a loan of $70,000 which Spiegel had to pay Oct. 1. A committee was appointed to confer with Spiegel's counsel and other creditors about this note.

BARNES ASSAILS BONUS IN CASH TO VETERANS

Head of Chamber of Commerce Says That Taxes Must Be Cut to Let Industry Recover.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 31.—Opposition to a cash bonus for World War veterans was reiterated by Julius H. Barnes, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in an address here tonight.

"The Chamber of Commerce of the United States," he declared, "must here and always reaffirm its opposition to the cash bonus because, entrusted as it is with the leadership of industry upon which employment and opportunity rest, it must continue to demand such progressive relief in taxation as shall not hold constantly over America the shadow of industry discouraged and depressed to the point of widespread unemployment."

During his address, which was before the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Barnes said that aside from the sacrifices which war demanded of all classes of citizens, whether in or out of the military service, the financial cost will be borne for generations by the American people.

"War itself," he said, "in spite of its immediate apparent results, has always proved a social injury. Its destruction of property, its diversion of the productivity of man power to destructive occupations, and, more, the burden of war's enormous expense casting its shadow over many generations; these prove that in the last analysis, war is really a drag on human progress.

"In the World War America was fortunate that actual war did not cross its own frontiers. It was fortunate that before its own entry into war it had for three years sold the products of its industries into the imperiled nations of Europe, nations afterward, allied with us in a common defense. It is true, nevertheless that America, finally drawn by its own moral convictions into that war, assumed, because of it, burdens which rest today on all industry and levy on the income of every citizen. These burdens have certainly checked both national and individual welfare.

"It is of first importance, that economy in national administration, self-restraint in national expenditures and sanity in national taxation shall reduce this burden at the earliest moment and to the largest degree. It is of first importance that the discouragement of heavy taxation upon individual and corporate enterprise shall not create again a condition of four million unemployed such as that faced two short years ago."

The Case For Prohibition

Its Past, Present Accomplishments, and Future in America

By CLARENCE TRUE WILSON, D. D., General Secretary, and DEETS PICKETT, Research Secretary, Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

An authoritative study of the prohibition movement in the United States, based on the results of a most thorough investigation—a book dealing with facts rather than fancies. Carefully written in a clean-cut, attention-holding style; keen in analysis; copious in the use of historical and statistical material; and revealing wherein and why prohibition has failed as well as showing its successes, "The Case for Prohibition" commends itself to every thoughtful person.

WHALEN DEFENDS FERRY OPERATION

Costs City More Than Railroads Because of Tides Municipal Boats Battle, He Says.

HANDS PAID BETTER ALSO

Commissioner Replies in Detail to the Criticism of the Merchants' Association.

Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, issued two statements yesterday in reply to the criticism Tuesday of the city's management of ferries, made in a letter to Acting Mayor Hulbert from the Merchants' Association. It was asserted that it cost 67 per cent. more to operate city ferries than railroad ferries.

Calling the Merchants' Association statement "as brazen a piece of misrepresentation and jugglery as was ever fed to the public on the eve of an election," Commissioner Whalen declared that for many reasons the ferry lines operated by the railroads could not be compared with those operated by the city. Some of the factors affecting the municipal ferries, he said, were operation against heavy tides for a distance of five miles, larger coal costs and higher wages.

"The Commissioner of Plant and Structures," he said, "does not control the fixing of wages of those employed on municipal ferries. These are fixed under law, according to the prevailing rate of wages.

"It may be that I have displeased the Merchants' Association because I have stepped on the toes of its former President and now Chairman of the Board of Directors, William Fellowes Morgan, because, in 1922, I had the timerity to jack up the rental of the building occupied by Mr. Morgan 66 2-3 per cent."

The building referred to was the plant of the Brooklyn Bridge Freezing and Cold Storage Company under the Brooklyn Bridge.

In a supplemental statement, Commissioner Whalen took up the Merchants' Association report in detail. He said that in several respects the situation was misrepresented, asserting that with "all these added and padded items, the cost per route mile of municipal ferry operation cannot be jacked higher than $10.93, which is a dollar under the $11.96 set down by the Merchants' Association."

A revision of the figures in accordance with the facts, he said, would decrease the figure to $9.

"If the service and cost of the operation of the municipal ferries and the railroad ferries were comparable, item for item," the statement said, "there is no doubt in my mind that the municipal ferries would prove to be the more efficiently and more economically managed. Their concern at the moment about the operation of the municipal ferries is due to the fact that there is an election for the Assembly, which will have before it the question of municipal ownership and the operation of the transportation lines within the city limits."

William Fellowes Morgan Jr., when asked to comment on Mr. Whalen's statement, said that the rental for two of the eight arches under the Brooklyn Bridge occupied by his company was increased from $3,000 to $5,000. The Merchants' Association had never heard of the increase, he declared. Mr. Morgan explained that the space which the company occupies is divided into three sections, subject to different leases. Two of them are for long terms, but the arches on which the rental was raised, are rented under yearly leases.

A representative of the Merchants' Association, when Commissioner Whalen's statement was read to him, said that the essential facts were contained in the association's report. Taking the item of labor alone, he said, the rates paid by the city for boat employes were higher than the prevailing union scale paid by the railroads.

M. P.'S FAIL TO SOLVE WIVES' NATIONALITY

Committee Finds No Relief for English Women Married to Americans.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—An English woman married to an American is without nationality in law and without chance of immediate relief in the matter, as under American law the woman remains English, but under the British law she becomes an American.

A select committee of members of both houses of Parliament has been considering this complicated problem, but reports that it is unable to come to an agreement. The members have directed that their proceedings, with the evidence collected, be laid before the House of Lords and House of Commons.

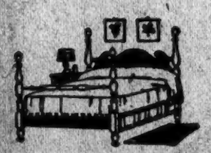
THREE BEDS

IN CONSIDERING what is the right bed for a room, your difficulties are practically removed at the first suggestion of a Colonial four-poster. And when you add to this an attractive day-bed, you have rendered further selection superfluous.

An effective design becomes doubly attractive in twin beds, as in the case of this four-poster. Both the foot and the head posts reach the dignified height of 53½ inches. The price for twin beds is $30 each.

A day-bed is not confined to a particular room. It will look well and serve well wherever it is put. This one of quaint design and mahogany finish is offered at $50, complete with spring mattress.



Perhaps the guest room needs just the stately touch of this ample four-poster. For that matter, it will be a boon to any bedroom, for it is authentically Colonial, well built, and moderately priced. $50, full-width size; $45, twin size.

Four-posters are to be had for as little as $25, and day-beds as low as $22.

Be Kind to Your Eyes

SOME eyes are stronger than others. In time, however, the best eyes will tire and weaken if compelled to work in glaring or misplaced light.

Eyes behave better and last longer when working with a light that suits them. Daylight is the best working light because Nature made it right for eyes. That is why every Emeralite has a special screen which changes ordinary electric light into soft, eye-saving daylite

You cannot BUY eyesight, but you can INSURE it with Emeralite.

Emeralites are those good-looking, practical lamps that you see in the best offices everywhere. They harmonize with and enhance the dignity of any environment. You will find them in use wherever eyesight and the economy resulting from standardized equipment are appreciated. They are also ideal for home use.

Genuine Emeralites are branded and have the Daylite Screen. Look for trade mark. It is your guarantee of satisfaction.

SAYS SHE CAN BRING OUT SPIRITS AT WILL

Illinois Woman Comes to Submit to Test by Committee for $2,500 Award.

SEANCE NEXT WEDNESDAY

New Claimant for Psychic Honors Asserts She Has Had Success for 35 Years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Allen Thomson of Highland, Ill., who, it is said, has been producing snow white figures out of a roughly constructed cabinet for the last thirty-five years, arrived in New York yesterday, to appear next Wednesday evening before the investigating committee of The Scientific American, which is offering $2,500 for the genuine production of objective psychic phenomena.

Mrs. Thomson was accompanied by her husband, Dr. Thomson, and her 16-year-old daughter. She is living "somewhere on Long Island," it being explained that if her precise whereabouts were revealed she might be subjected to disturbing influences which would damage the prospect of a successful séance next Wednesday.

J. Malcolm Bird, associate editor of The Scientific American, who is making the arrangements for Mrs. Thomson's appearance, said that Mrs. Thomson was the first applicant for the $2,500 award when it was announced on the first day of this year. For one reason or another, Mrs. Thomson delayed her visit to New York, her chief objection being the cost of the journey and expenses during her stay here. Since then two applicants have appeared before the investigating committee without success, the most recent being the Rev. Mrs. Joel E. Stewart, pastor of the First Independent Church at Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Thomson, it is understood, will appear before the same committee which pronounced verdict upon her predecessor. This includes Dr. Walter Franklin Pierce, principal research officer of the American Society for Psychical Research; Dr. Hereward Carrington, noted research worker in psychical phenomena; Austin C. Lescarboura, managing editor of The Scientific American, and Mr. Bird.

The third aspirant to appear for psychic honors came to the attention of The Scientific American through Mrs. Jean Comerford of Chicago, who is institutional visitor for the State of Illinois, and who, incidentally, has the training of mental unfortunates. Mrs. Comerford traveled with Mrs. Thomson from Chicago yesterday, and while here will act as her "philosopher, guide and friend."

"Mrs. Thomson," said Mrs. Comerford, "claims to be able to produce genuine objective psychic phenomena, such as figures clad in snow white garments, which emerge from a cabinet. The figures come one after another, and sometimes at one session she will produce as many as forty. To my knowledge, in thirty-five years of psychic effort she has never been exposed, though she has been subjected to the most rigorous tests and examinations. No one has ever been able to explain how these spirit figures appear. They just emerge, as it were.

"The cabinet from which the spirits from beyond visit this earth is of the rudest form known. A pair of curtains stretched across any one corner of a room is sufficient. Indeed, Mrs. Thomson could give a séance in any office in New York without the slightest difficulty. We leave it to the investigating committee of The Scientific American to select the room in which the cabinet shall be erected. It does not matter.

"It is necessary to have colored lights because white lights mean motion, and that would disintegrate the figures, just as a white light will spoil the negative of a photograph. Often the spirit figures will change from a man into a woman, and vice versa. Sometimes a figure will lift the curtain and show that psychic sitting in the cabinet securely bound."

BRIDAL PAIR FOUND DEAD.

Overcome by Gas While Wife Was Preparing Breakfast.

Joseph Martino, 20 years old, and his bride of a few weeks, Albina Martino, 20 years old, were found dead yesterday morning lying fully dressed across the bed with the table set for breakfast. The house was filled with gas.

The young couple lived at 132-37 Metropolitan Avenue, Richmond Hill. It is believed that the wife was preparing breakfast, unaware of escaping gas, and that both, feeling dizzy, lay down for a moment and were overcome.

Martino was a builder with an office in Jamaica. About three months ago he was overcome by gas but was revived. The bodies were found by Joseph Santamaria, a tailor, who occupied the second floor of the two-family house. He smelled the fumes and entered the apartment.

ROME GIVES OVATION TO PREMIER IN FETE

Outburst for Mussolini Marks Observance of the Fascisti Anniversary.

KING PARDONS PRISONERS

Thousands Are Moved to Tears Over Tribute at the Unknown Soldier's Tomb.

ROME, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The culminating event of the anniversary of the Fascista march on Rome was the procession of 8,000 "black shirts" which today wended its way before the Royal Palace in review, with Premier Mussolini as the central and much-applauded figure. It was a spectacle for a Roman holiday.

The sun shone brightly on the beflagged streets. Masses of the people, including visitors to the city, witnessed the parade. Many persons spent the night in the open in order to see the celebration.

Fresh from his triumphs at Bologna, Florence and Perugia, Premier Mussolini arrived in Rome in the morning and drove in an automobile in the procession from the Piazza del Popolo past the royal palace. The procession stopped at the Piazza Venezia, where Mussolini alighted and walked, bareheaded and with his arm extended in the Roman salute, past the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier, around which disabled men, war widows and war orphans knelt in prayer. Thousands of onlookers were moved to tears.

The Roman salute was given again, when the Premier passed the gayly bedecked palace, where King Victor Emmanuel stood on the balcony and returned the greetings. There was thunderous applause from the grounds.

Shouts of "Long live the King!" and "Long live the House of Savoy!" were unceasing during the five hours in which the Fascista legions passed the palace. Each section of the parade dipped banners in salute as it passed.

Overhead cruised a squadron of dirigible balloons and 300 airplanes, their manoeuvres adding to the picturesqueness of the celebration.

The celebration ended at night with a reception in the Venezia Palace, which was attended by members of the royal family and 200 of Italy's foremost citizens.

King Victor Emmanuel today issued a decree granting amnesty for prisoners guilty of political, economic or social offenses punishable by sentences not exceeding three years' imprisonment.

HARVARD AWARDS IN FRANCE

Two French Students Get Scholarships at the University.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 31.—The scholarship in memory of Lieutenant Charles Henry Fisk 3d of the Harvard class of '19, who was killed in the World War, has been awarded for this year to R. A. Higonnet of Tournon-sur-le-Rhone, France, a student in the Harvard Engineering School. Robert Francillon of Paris, a first year student in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, received the scholarship offered by the Harvard Club of France.

Announcement was made today of the appointment of Dr. William Healy as lecturer on social ethics at Harvard and of Oakes Ames, Assistant Professor of Botany, as Curator of the Botanical Museum. Dr. Healy, who was a pioneer in this country in establishing the study of offenders in connection with the courts, has been director of the Judge Baker Foundation in Boston since 1917.

THEATRE CRASH IN COURT.

Trial Called to Fix Responsibility for Washington Building Collapse.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—An attempt to fix the responsibility for the crash at the Knickerbocker Theatre in this city on Jan. 28, 1922, in which ninety-seven persons were killed and 103 injured, was begun today in Circuit Court 1 before Justice Frederick L. Siddons. Justice Siddons, while sitting in Criminal Court 2 last Spring, threw out an indictment which charged five persons with manslaughter because of numerous alleged defects.

The cases now on trial are damage suits demanding $10,000 damages each. Two of the cases result from deaths and one from injuries. Nine of fifty-odd cases in all are pending in the Court of Appeals. The Knickerbocker Theatre Company is the defendant in three damage suits, while the architect, contractors, building inspectors and the theatre company are defendants in all the other cases.

UNION'S FINANCES TANGLED.

President of Stage Hands Asks Accounting by Predecessor.

William F. Canavan, President of the Stage Hands' Union, has sent a letter to all the officers and members of the organization advising them that Charles C. Shay, former President, who resigned recently after a clash with the General Executive Board, had not accounted to him for $79,650.47 of the funds of the union.

The letter also said that in the near future a summary report of the financial standing of the organization would be mailed to affiliated unions.

Neither Mr. Shay nor Mr. Canavan could be reached last night. It was said both were out of town.

RACE IS CALLED OFF AS COLUMBIA LEADS

Gloucester Schooner Shows to Advantage in Light Winds Outside Halifax.

HALF OF COURSE COVERED

With Only One Hour of Time Limit Left It Became Evident They Could Not Finish.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 31.—The second race of the series for the International fishermen's trophy was called off today for lack of wind with 16 miles still to go to the finish line, but the American challenger, Columbia cheered her supporters by demonstrating her ability in light airs.

In the first race Monday light breezes prevailed, supposedly Columbia weather, yet the big defender Bluenose of Lunenburg, famed for her rough weather performances, showed the Gloucester schooner her heels and defeated her by more than a minute over the 38-mile course. Today conditions were changed. With never a breeze above eight knots an hour the challenger led the champion, sometimes as much as half a mile ahead.

The efforts of skippers and crews to sail the second race of the series for the international fishing schooner championship were of no avail in today's weathers. With only an hour of the allotted six left not much more than half the course had been covered, and sixteen miles of a thresh to windward, slow going, lay ahead. The committee decided to call the contest off and wait for better sailing conditions.

While the confidence of the Gloucester men in the light weather qualities of their schooner was restored tonight, Bluenose backers professed to be unjaunted by their boat's showing. Members of the Canadian crew declared an unforeseen sufficient wind to enable the challengers to finish within the six-hour limit, the Bluenose will win, basing their belief on the fact that today just after the "no race" signal had been hoisted the wind freshened and the Lunenburg boat had the Columbia back to harbor. She had the advantage of the windward position, however.

As in Monday's race the Bluenose, on windward work seemed to thrive on the slop which the wind of last night threw up on the course, while the Gloucester sportsmen appeared to be thrown off somewhat by the movement of the water. Members of the Columbia's crew said they hoped to have quiet weather tomorrow, together with enough wind to take the schooner around the course in the time limit. There remains the possibility, as yet untried, that the Columbia may do her best in a heavy blow, beating the Bluenose in the weather for which the Nova Scotians have been praying. The fact that the Columbia is carrying ballast makes her supporters hope for such a result. The re-shifting of the American vessel's ballast, made possible by yesterday's idleness, helped her in light airs.

Today's race started on time with the Bluenose in the lead over the line. But the Columbia overtook and passed the Canadian boat in half an hour. The wind was from the northwest and the vessels spread their sails wing and wing for the run to the first mark, six and one half miles away. They were almost an hour and a half covering the distance, the Columbia rounding the mark at 10:29:29 and the Bluenose at 10:30:44.

On the second leg, an eleven mile reach, the Columbia increased her lead and they rounded the second mark in the following times: Columbia 12:24:35, Bluenose 12:28:36.

The third leg was another reach of nine and a quarter miles, and on this leg the position of the schooners varied from time to time, but generally the Columbia added to her advantage. The race was called off at 2 o'clock before the third mark was reached. The wind had varied between four and eight knots, at times dropping so that the vessels could not maintain steerage way.

CARRIERS OPPOSE DEMANDS

Many Offer Counter-Proposals in Replies to Brotherhoods.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—Heads of the transportation brotherhoods have heard from several hundred railroads throughout the country in reply to the train service employes' request for increased wages, and the replies in most every case show uniform counter proposals to consider the elimination of the payment of time and one-half for overtime and other working rules, D. B. Robertson, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said today.

A number of contracts between the brotherhoods and railway systems expire today, but brotherhood officials said the negotiations for wage increases with these roads would continue. Many other contracts between the railroads and the brotherhoods do not expire until Dec. 1 next.

The brotherhoods are seeking the restoration of the 1920 scale, an increase of approximately 12 per cent. over the present wage.

GREAT burly ulsters, debonair ulsterettes, smart single breasted box coats; all of them authentic in style and bristling with quality; their colors and designs rich and variegated. In the box coats the raglan sleeve predominates; in the ulster the set-in sleeve.

Worsted-faced soft materials have been used for this collection because those fabrics will wear like the proverbial iron.

A particularly attractive feature of these overcoats is the warm and beautiful plaid backs which are woven into the reverse side of the fabric. The pockets are strongly stayed, and made of plush which is as durable as it is soft to the touch.

NEW FIGHT STARTS FOR GOULD FORTUNE

Frank J. Files Objections to the Accounting by Late George J. of Father's Estate.

$20,000,000 IS INVOLVED

Heirs of Jay Gould Allege That Amount Was Lost Through Improper Handling.

A new fight over the $80,000,000 estate of the late Jay Gould was begun yesterday when lawyers for his son, Frank J. Gould, filed objections to the accounting made several years ago by the late George J. Gould and other trustees. Objections by other heirs of Jay Gould will be filed today, and hearings on the objections are expected to begin within a week.

The hearings will result in a decision by former Justice Edward W. Hatch, appointed as referee by the Supreme Court, as to whether the estate of George J. Gould must pay his father's estate more than $20,000,000, which the contesting heirs say is due because of alleged improper acts by George Gould as trustee.

Judge Hatch's decision, which may be postponed for months or even years on account of the complexity of the case, not only will settle whether the heirs of Jay Gould shall receive the money which they say George Gould lost from his father's estate, but may also vitally influence the fight over George Gould's estate between his second wife and her children and the children by his first wife.

Referee Hatch will also have to decide whether the other trustees of Jay Gould's estate are liable for any part of the money alleged to have been lost through George Gould's acts. The trustees during the period covered by the accounting were George, Howard and Edwin Gould and Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard.

W. B. Walker, attorney of record for Frank J. Gould, who filed the objections to the accounting with Referee Hatch yesterday, declined to give any information as to the nature of the objections.

It was learned, however, that Coudert Brothers, attorneys for Anna Gould (the Duchess de Talleyrand), and Sullivan & Cromwell, for the children of the Duchess de Talleyrand, intend to file objections today.

The objections to the accounting, it is understood, deal with acts for which George Gould was removed as chief executor and trustee of his father's estate by Supreme Court Justice Whitaker in 1919.

TRADERS VIEW NEW LINER.

Arcadian Is Destined for Royal Mail's Bermuda Service.

Leading business men were the guests of the agents of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company at a luncheon and dinner yesterday on board the Arcadian, the new cruising steamer which has just arrived from Belfast to enter upon the New York-Bermuda service, beginning Saturday. After inspecting the liner, the visitors praised her palatial appointments.

The Arcadian is a twin screw vessel of nearly 13,000 gross tonnage, 535 feet long and 62 feet beam. She is fitted with the latest appliances for safety and comfort. There are bedsteads and hot and cold running water in every cabin, luxurious public salons, swimming pool and gymnasium and two large dining saloons so that all the 500 first-class passengers, the only class carried, can be seated at one time. The Arcadian is an oil burner and can maintain an average cruising speed of seventeen knots.

HOLD WOMAN AS GUNMAN.

Cecelia Brady, 23, Wearing Man's Clothes, Faces Cleveland Court.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 31.—Cecelia Brady, 23, bob-haired and wearing the same male attire she is said by police to have worn in the hold-up of half a dozen soft-drink parlors here, was arraigned before Police Judge Greene today and held to the Grand Jury in $10,000 bail on two charges of robbery. She admitted to Judge Greene that she had taken part in the hold-ups "while dressed as a boy."

She was arrested yesterday morning dressed in men's clothes after police charge, she and two male companions held up and robbed a cafe. The men also were bound over to the Grand Jury in $10,000 bail, each on two charges of robbery.

The alleged "gunwoman" and taxi bandit walked into court wearing a black silk cape over her man's suit, and a black hat with a half veil that replaced the cap which the police say she wore when she participated in the hold-ups.

CATSKILL HOTEL BURNS.

Overlook Mountain House Is Destroyed While Unoccupied.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The Overlook Mountain House was destroyed by fire today. The hotel was unoccupied. It was at this establishment in the Catskills that, according to revelations made by the United Mine Workers in September, the Communist Party of the United States was organized in May, 1921.

During the early days of the World War there were many rumors that the hotel was used by German spies as a base for transmitting information by radio, but inspections by State troopers and Ulster County authorities disclosed that they were without foundation.

The hotel could be seen for many miles from its location on top of Overlook Mountain above Kingston and the Hudson River Valley.

Believe Boy With Sling Hit Hermine

DOORN, Holland, Oct. 31.—The injury to Princess Hermine's ear, caused by a stone that struck her while she was walking near Doorn Castle, is painful, but not severe. The culprit has not been found, but an eyewitness of the incident believes that the stone was accidentally tossed from a sling with which he saw a boy playing.

STATE LOSES CLAIM ON AN OLD ESTATE

Court Upholds Bequests of Last to Inherit $150,000 Graham Trust Funds.

HOSPITAL GAINS BY RULING

Demand That One-Eighth Share Be Paid to Public Administrator Is Denied.

The State of New York yesterday lost its claim for one-eighth of the estate of Bernard Graham, member of an old New York family, who died on May 14, 1865. The estate, amounting to about $150,000, was divided into trust funds for the benefit of his eight children. The will provided that the incomes should pass to their issue, and in the event of any of the children dying childless his share was to pass to the surviving beneficiaries.

All of the children died childless and their shares finally descended to Mrs. Mary T. Hillyer. She died some years ago leaving her estate to the Sacred Heart Academy, St. Francis Xavier College and to the New York Foundling Hospital.

In an opinion denying the State's claim, Supreme Court Justice Erlanger said: "Mary T. Hillyer died leaving neither husband nor next of kin, and with her death the family stock became extinct. As no attempt was made in the lifetime of any of the eight children to dispose of his share by will (or otherwise) Mrs. Hillyer became entitled to the whole thereof, which was alienable and devisable by her."

The State based its claim on the theory that the trusts were not here as to principal, but only for income-yielding purposes, and that in disposing of her property she did not dispose of her own particular trust. It demanded that her share be turned over to the Public Administrator. Lord, Day & Lord, attorneys for the Bankers' Trust Company, as trustees of the Graham trusts, asked for the Court's ruling on the final disposition of the estate, including the question raised by the State.

WEEKS ORDERS INQUIRY INTO CONVICT'S STORY

Will Investigate Charge That Cunningham Was Brutally Treated at Leavenworth.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Secretary Weeks today ordered an investigation of charges that William Cunningham, formerly a non-commissioned officer in the army, now serving a ten-year sentence at Fort Leavenworth after conviction for theft of property at Kelly Field, Texas, had been so mistreated during his imprisonment that he was a physical wreck.

A number of affidavits have been filed with the War Department alleging that Cunningham was "framed" in order to protect officers who, it is charged, were involved in the theft of several million dollars' worth of Government property.

Cunningham's case has been reviewed eight times since his conviction, and, according to War Department officials, nothing has ever been disclosed to indicate that he was not justly punished. Secretary Weeks said today that more than a year ago the case came up to him on an application for clemency, and he himself went over the records, but could find nothing to indicate that there was ground for his intervention.

However, in view of the most recent complaints, the Secretary has ordered a review of the case, directing that the charges of brutal treatment be particularly investigated.

War Department officials remark that the only army officers mentioned by name in the latest charges are dead, and they also point out several irregularities in the statement attributed to Cunningham.

As an example of alleged inaccuracies in the charges now placed before the War Department, they note that the statement says that Colonel Archie Miller gave orders to "clean up" Kelly Field of crooks and thieves in January, 1920, whereas, according to departmental records, Colonel Miller, who has since died, did not take command of Kelly Field until March, 1920.

It was denied at the department that there had ever been charges of the theft of "between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 worth of property" at Kelly Field, or that the department had ever investigated such charges. It was also pointed out that the department would in all circumstances have assigned a non-commissioned officer to the task of investigating a theft of such magnitude. It was admitted that Cunningham had been placed in solitary confinement at one period, but for an entirely different reason than that alleged.

The case for Cunningham is now being pushed by William Keating, Secretary of a committee of the Central Committee of Public Opinion of Brooklyn.

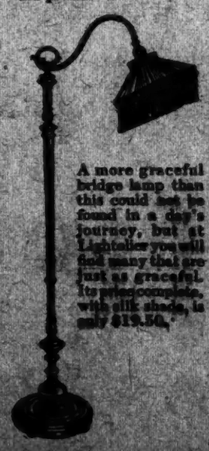
You cannot afford to overlook Lightolier when making your selection

Tables, tables, tables—Lightolier has tables for the hall, for the dining-room, for the side wall and for the bridge game—and they are all distinctive, not only as to style, but as to their most reasonable prices.

An infinite variety of the much-sought-for small reading lamps, with attractive hand-painted opalescent glass shades and convenient handles for carrying, are on display at the Lightolier Galleries.

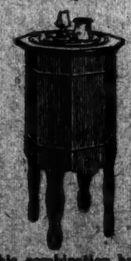
Candle shades and shields of silk or parchment to add to the attractiveness of your home, are to be found in our showrooms in splendid profusion.



A more graceful bridge lamp than this could not be found in a day's journey, but at Lightolier you will find many that are just as graceful. Its price complete, with silk shade, is only $19.50.

This Chinese porcelain lamp is a possession to be prized. Complete, $52.50. It is but one of the many exquisite lamps to be found at Lightolier.

The high quality and low price of the many varieties of Lightolier furniture is exemplified in this solid mahogany, Molly Pitcher sewing table—priced at only $90.



This combination humidor and cellarette reflects the spirit of the times and protects your own spirits. The sliding top has a secret combination lock. Only $31.50; another of many desirable opportunities in desirable furniture.

Attractive in design and price at Lightolier

LIKE VAST enchanted grottoes, gleaming here and there with the colorful light of some beautiful lamp and accentuated now and again with pleasing pieces of unusual furniture, are the Lightolier Galleries.

For here, the dreams of artistic fantasy are wrought into innumerable lamps of exquisite design and form. And yet, while sheer beauty is ever preserved, mere cost is not forgotten.

For Lightolier customers have long since discovered that here, attractiveness includes both the things you buy and the prices you pay.

BRUSHING cleans your teeth for only a moment

Your mouth glands should keep them clean every hour in the day

Good teeth depend on healthy, active mouth glands, not on ordinary brushing alone.

Only the mouth glands can keep back the dangerous, constantly-forming acids that destroy the enamel. But today these glands have slowed down, through lack of exercise.

Pebeco, by gently stimulating the mouth glands, makes them active—and keeps them so.

As soon as Pebeco enters the mouth, it starts the glands working, sending full, normal quantities of their salivary fluids throughout the mouth and throat and in between the teeth, neutralizing the acids and washing them away.

In addition to cleaning your teeth perfectly, Pebeco leaves your mouth in a healthy condition which keeps your teeth clean.

Solely to introduce a new product—

—PALMOLIVE—

After Shaving Talc

That well-groomed look

Professional men and successful business men—doctors, bankers, lawyers—know that a clean, fresh, well-groomed appearance is a valuable asset. Palmolive After Shaving Talc gives this fresh, clean look. The after shave "shine" must be removed. And yet a man's face should not look "powdered." This new talc for men meets both important requirements.

WE have perfected a new creation—of especial benefit to men's faces.

This offers you a chance to try it—almost without cost.

It is a powder for men, providing two unusual features:

First: It is invisible. Men don't like powder to show.

Second: It is a scientific combatant of skin roughness—keeps your skin smooth—improves your appearance.

Removes that after shave shine

And leaves your skin fresh as a daisy; clean-looking and comfortable. Gives that well-groomed look successful men all have.

Not an ordinary talc—Palmolive After Shaving Talc is essentially a man's powder.

We believe you'll say it's the best talc you have ever used. If we weren't sure of this we wouldn't even ask you to try it. And that is exactly what we urge you to do—today.

Take advantage of special offer —Good this week only

Thousands of men have already turned to it. And have thanked us. Go today to your druggist. Take advantage of the 3-way offer above. Everyone knows Palmolive Soap; millions of men use our Shaving Cream. Palmolive After Shaving Talc is an achievement equally important for men.

Try it. In one week, note results—the clearness of your skin, the smoothness, the wonderful feel after shaving.

Wives and Mothers:

—If your menfolks overlook this extraordinary offer, remind them of it.

Or do the buying for them. Their thanks will repay you—for these are comforts every man enjoys.

The bargain is unusual. And it is for a limited time only. Go to any druggist listed here.

University Paper Declares Institution Should Not Be Influenced by Specious Arguments.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—That the Ku Klux Klan is on the verge of "sweeping through the colleges of the country as it has swept through the masses," was the assertion of Bishop Alma White, founder of the "Pillar of Fire," a religious sect, and the head of a small institution called the Alma College, fifteen miles north of Princeton at Zarephath, in an interview published this morning in the Daily Princetonian. "Princeton University will soon be vitally interested in the principles and aspirations of the order," said Bishop White, who has just returned from a tour through the East and Middle West, where she addressed Ku Klux meetings.

"For Princeton to try to remain indifferent to the Ku Klux Klan, if indeed it is trying to," she said, "is for Princeton to revolve, detached in her own little eddy of oblivion, while the rising tide of the greatest moral and political movement of the generation sweeps by.

"At Princeton thus far you probably have felt little of its influence. This is because Princeton is, as a university should be, secluded somewhat from the every day world, but the Klan is on the verge of sweeping through the colleges of the country as it has swept through the masses.

"There is no reason why the Klan should not be secret. No fault is found with the secret meetings of other secret organizations. In the colleges, for example, you have the windowless buildings of the secret societies at Yale and they are accepted without question."

In reply to Bishop White, the Daily Princetonian in an editorial this morning attacked the Ku Klux Klan as opposed to the principles of Government in the United States. The editorial in part says:

"America is fundamentally sane with only occasional lapses. In Princeton likewise we are supposedly intelligent and so should not be influenced by the specious arguments of any grand imperial muckamuck of the Ku Klux Klan. If oblivion is destined for these who oppose the 'invisible empire' we will at least keep our heads above the 'rising tide' of tar."

Wave Sweeps Fisherman Into Sea.

PORTLAND, Maine, Oct. 31.—Raymond D. Bouchie, one of three brothers from Nova Scotia on the fishing schooner New Dawn, was drowned when a great sea swept over the vessel, caught in a storm 30 miles outside Portland lightship late yesterday. The schooner put in here today. Bouchie was assisting his brother Edgar at the wheel. His hands were torn from the spokes by a big wave, but Edgar, clinging to the wheel with one hand, grasped his brother's wrist with the other. A moment later a towering mass broke over the bow and carried Raymond overboard.

No need now to "watch the furnace"

Women now go out without a trace of the old worry about drafts, checks and dampers. They know this wonderful mechanical servant will act for them, doing everything they could do. The house will be just as comfortably warm when the husband gets home from work, the children from school. The Minneapolis Heat Regulator gives women added hours for shopping or pleasure. Applied to any type of heating plant, furnace, steam or hot water heat. Holds the house temperature at any desired point. And automatically changes the temperature at any desired time.

You set the clock and indicator, for instance, to maintain 70° during the day, to drop to 60° at 10 P.M. and return to 70° at 7 A.M. That's all. When the blizzard comes it takes more heat to maintain 70° inside. The Minneapolis Heat Regulator meets this situation automatically.

By avoiding over and under-heating, it saves ⅓ to ½ on fuel bills, soon paying for itself in this way. Quickly installed on new or old heating plants by service experts. Enjoy the comforts, conveniences and economies of the "Minneapolis" this winter. Our monthly payment plan makes the purchase an easy matter. Call, write or telephone for information.

FOR OIL BURNERS
A complete success for oil burners as well as all other types of heating systems. Adapted to both power and gravity burners and furnished as standard equipment by leading manufacturers. To protect yourself, ask before you buy if the burner is Minneapolis-equipped.

The first Pierce-Arrow truck purchased by Fisher Bros. Company of Cleveland now is ten years old. Today it isn't worth a dollar—on the books; but it is doing a full day's work every day, and it has traveled more than 175,000 miles.

As a result of the performance of this and subsequent Pierce-Arrow trucks, Fisher Bros. Company has standardized upon Pierce-Arrow equipment. A fleet of twenty-seven trucks serves the 168 Fisher grocery stores.

New York Knows Whites

White Trucks are almost daily changing mixed fleets to White fleets—proof of their greater performance. The largest truck fleets in all lines of business appear on the Roll Call of White owners. Most of them grew from one-truck or two-truck installations. Performance, beyond all other considerations, determines a truck's showing on the balance sheet. You want trucks with power to earn.

Only our own politicians can hurt us

Business Is As Good As WE Make It!

Above are the titles of five full page advertisements through which The Chicago Tribune wishes to convey to the business world its interpretation of business conditions. It is a common human trait for men to imagine that others are more fortunate than they. Today we have the extraordinary phenomenon of vast numbers of men with the opposite sort of illusion. Each one admits that his own business is good, but fears that he is about to be injured by the contagious influence of other men's misfortunes. To hold some of these bugbears to the light is the purpose of this series of advertisements.

MR. LUGUBRIOUS BLUE: "A man is a fool to enter on business ventures in this radical age. The same bolshevik doctrines that wrecked Russia are spreading to this country. Even the farmers are turning socialists. Think of North Dakota and the Non-Partisan League. Politicians get elected to office by promising to subsidize the farmer, carry freight free of charge on the railroads, and mine coal with oratory. Investments aren't safe."

EUROPE can't wreck our prosperity, nor can a world wheat surplus, nor high wages.

Our own politicians can.

They can leave us defenseless before lustful military might.

They can admit a flood of cheap labor to bring on unemployment—kill buying power.

They can flood us with cheap foreign merchandise undermining our tremendous industrial structure.

They can plunge us into the maelstrom of foreign intrigue and commit us to expensive international police work and possibly to fresh wars.

They can strangle our transportation system, our essential arteries of commerce, with quack rate and wage systems.

They can poison with politics the great federal reserve banking system which has brought us through the incredible strains of the last nine years without a panic.

The congress which meets in December can imperil our prosperity—but it won't!

There are misguided enthusiasts and there are shrewd demagogues, both in House and Senate, who are preaching policies that would mean economic disaster. But their noise far exceeds their power. Their mandate comes from the most intelligent, well educated, prosperous democracy in the world.

Strongest insurance that the United States will not go wrong is the American press. Democracy is workable only with a free, courageous and informed press. The United States has such a press—has it in such generous measure as no other country even approaches—and in the forefront of this press stands The Chicago Tribune.

For generations The Chicago Tribune has been building an appreciation of political economy throughout the Central West. In thousands of communities it has been an educational, broadening, uplifting force every day for scores of years.

Ever expanding its service to its readers, this newspaper of the prairies now maintains the largest staff of foreign correspondents of any publication on earth. The Chicago Tribune has in excess of nine hundred thousand subscribers and is read by an even larger number of voters. This is one newspaper—and there are many others similarly engaged in building up a well-balanced, thinking American public competent to protect our precious heritage.

It is 148 years since the Declaration of Independence and during that century and a half this democracy has flowed steadily onward gathering strength like a mighty river.

Sometimes there are eddies, and in the shallow water along the banks it seems that the river is flowing backward—but the main current continues onward.

Surely we shall overcome the present mania for legislation—the craze which threatens to strangle business with tens of thousands of weed-like laws.

But those who have a stake in the continuation of our present prosperity must be on guard at the next session of Congress lest the sanity of a hundred million people be overridden by the hysteria of a few hundred thousand. Not only business but government is what we make it.

"INFLUENCE" AND GRAFT.

The Senate committee investigating the Veterans' Bureau brings out every day sordid and disheartening details. It is sickening to think that the great effort of a generous people to care for disabled soldiers, regardless of expense, should have been attended by such a vulture flight of grafters. But it is evident that the latter got a great deal of aid in their unscrupulous schemes from political quarters. The Missouri politician, for instance, who sold to the Government land and buildings for a hospital at a price which was, to put it mildly, exorbitant, and which was very nearly a dead loss to the Veterans' Bureau, as nothing was done with the purchase, testified that he resorted freely to Congressional influence in order to get his project put through. He could not remember exactly how many Senators and Representatives had responded to his appeals to bring pressure to bear upon the Director. He specified one Senator who went to the White House in his behalf to take the matter up with the President. And he freely admitted that but for all this political activity in his interest the sale would not have been made.

It is not to be inferred that all or any of these Congressmen were corrupt. They telephoned and wrote letters and had personal interviews in order to "oblige" a powerful politician. But ought not even their good nature to have been on guard against his approaches? A really shrewd and conscientious Senator or Representative would easily have seen that some kind of plot was afoot and would have refused to lend himself to it. And what shall be said of public officers who change their minds and surrender their best judgment simply because political pressure is mobilized against them? In such obviously concerted endeavors to sway them they ought to have seen convincing proof of their duty to resist, rather than yield. Any doubts which they previously had about the plan laid before them should have been redoubled by the very fact that its supposed beneficiary had resorted to influences of the partisan kind.

No law can be drafted to prevent such abuses, but prudent rules might be adopted by all concerned. A Congressman might make it an invariable custom never to interest himself in a transaction involving the Government of which he personally did not know all the ins and outs, while knowing the persons connected with it to be absolutely honest. And a responsible official might make it his practice never to take up, and especially never to reconsider, a proposal privately and ignorantly urged upon him by Congressmen. It is so easy to grant a request to "call up" the Director and ask as a favor that some veteran be put on the rolls or that some hospital project be approved. But when the bills come to be paid, particularly when they come to be exposed to the public view, it must be hard for Congressmen not to see how their careless recommendations have resulted in great waste or actual thievery.

THE GOVERNOR'S LECTURE.

Governor SMITH appeared on the lecture platform for the first time Tuesday night. "We will lecture tonight on the subject of bunk." So he began a speech full of humor and good old Alfredian blunt common sense, sincerity and courage. It is not necessary to agree entirely with his analysis of the eminent public character whom he classifies as an "editor-politician" to appreciate its keenness and force. The Governor accused him of "venting his personal spleen against the Democratic Party because in its wisdom it saw fit to throw cold water over his personal aspirations for a high political office." This is plausible, but is it just? Advocates of the saint might maintain that "not measures, but the man of men," is his motto. He is interested in lofty plans for the public betterment, but he feels that their success depends upon their being carried out by the one fittest person.

If his fire-tipped pen was cold when the Syracusan schemes were before the Legislature last Winter, it was because he felt that the cause of virtue wasn't in the right hands. The Democratic Party of New York married the wrong man, so to speak. It is his duty—never his pleasure, so genial is his soul—to attack that man. He has fulfilled it, doubtless in pity for the victim, not to exhibit "the pageant of his bleeding heart." If he is making no effort to elect a Democratic Assembly, if he has made "a deal with the "opposite party to wreak his vengeance on the leaders of our party," it is because his high transcendental conceptions can be accomplished only by the one true chieftain whom the confounded tribe will have none of. If this dealer talks about a deal to elect a Republican Assembly in consideration of the election of the Democratic judicial ticket, "the children of our public schools," according to the Governor, "know that this is pure eighteen-karat, unalloyed bunk."

Children may know it, Grown-ups may know it. Millions may grin at the Governor's remark about "monumental fakers"; yet sympathetic souls should make some allowance for the Great Misunderstood. Turning from this character study, Mr. SMITH basted with ridicule the Republican pretense of a non-partisan judicial ticket and smashed easily some of the Republican "charges" against him. He corrected the errors of Speaker MACHOLD about the Governor's course in regard to the public school system. "There is no excuse," he said, "for "Mr. MACHOLD'S cold-blooded, willful "and deliberate misrepresentation of "the whole situation." The Governor is a little too severe. He should distinguish between fact and campaign romance, between common, ordinary, homespun truth and political "truth." Even St. JEROME admitted that in the Greek Fathers you had to differentiate between what they wrote "dialectically" and what they wrote with absolute personal conviction, without any thought of mere argumentative superiority. "ED" MACHOLD is sometimes furiously "dialectical."

PRESIDENTIAL POLITICS IN MEXICO.

Whether ADOLFO DE LA HUERTA or General PLUTARCO CALLES, or a compromise candidate, is to be the next President of Mexico, fears of armed conflict are probably groundless. Mexico has had enough of insurgency for the present. Turbulent scenes in the halls of Congress and street casualties in political parades merely indicate that the Mexicans are taking a brisk interest in the campaign. Parties mean little in Mexico, personal leadership everything. To be a Huertista or a Callista calls for robust assertion in the presence of heckiers of the other side. As almost every adherent carries firearms, there is bound to be shooting. When 70,000 followers of General CALLES paraded in the City of Mexico on Oct. 21 five partisans were killed and a score were wounded. The General is the candidate of the radical element; HUERTA represents the conservatives. No one in Mexico can now aspire to the Presidency unless he appeals to the old revolutionaries, the anti-Clentificos. The spirit of DIAZ does not go marching on. Ten years of insurrection for constitutionalism made Mexico progressive.

So DE LA HUERTA is in no sense reactionary. As Secretary of the Treasury he proved his capacity for practical affairs, and what he stands for is development of Mexican resources with the aid of foreign capitalists. The calibre of General CALLES may be judged from this passage in a statement recently issued by him:

> I promise to support the principles of the Constitution of 1917, especially Articles 27 and 123. I also promise to use all my efforts to raise the moral, intellectual and economic level of the working classes. I promise to sustain the principles of the revolution without permitting the Constitution to be misused by capitalists. My opponents criticise my sincerity. I repeat I do not accept the reactionist movements that are supported by the forces of reactionary Governments. Others say that to the United States and Europe my candidacy is not acceptable. That does not worry me.

DE LA HUERTA is as much an advocate of the welfare of the working classes as is CALLES. No element in the republic is in more need of protective legislation. But the former acting President and Secretary of the Treasury does not ring the changes on Article 27, which the Obregon Government is pledged to interpret without injury to the legitimate property interests of Americans, nor does Señor DE LA HUERTA stir up hatred of the foreigner to attract votes. His integrity while in office has been assailed by ALBERTO PANI, the present Secretary of the Treasury. The charges have been made with the approval of President OBREGON. In defending himself the accused reminds them that no moneys could be paid out of the Treasury without the signature of the Controller of the Currency and that the President had his own auditors. The deficit, Señor DE LA HUERTA maintains, was caused by "acts of "Congress ratified by President OBREGON." The ugly charge of "looting" is declared to be "purely political propaganda." It is significant that a large part of the Obregon following is supporting DE LA HUERTA, and that many of the Carranzistas and Villistas also favor him. Mexico cannot prosper industrially, nor can her finances be stabilized, without the co-operation of the United States and Europe, which the conservative candidate would be glad to accept and which the radical candidate affects to disdain.

CONTROLLING THE BUDGET.

The Citizens Union's attacks upon the 1924 city budget re-emphasize the need of more stringent control of expenditures. It is charged that salary increases amounting to almost a half million dollars have been added this year, and that the savings made last year on the debt service and the requirements for State taxes were spent instead of being saved by way of reducing the total cost of the City Administration.

One of the weaknesses of the present control of the city's finances lies in the fact that justified increases in salary can rarely be made without entailing others that are superfluous. When one city department asks for a "raise" it is hard to hold back others. To eliminate this element is one of the purposes of the budget system. For the same reason some politicians oppose a budget director, fearing that he might not be sufficiently pliant. As one objector frankly put it, "the whole thing smells of a reform proposition." The human element, he said, would be forgotten and the employes would become mere machines. In other words, it might be harder to pull down the plums.

The Citizens Union also attacks the appointment of a budget director, but for different reasons. Obviously the office of Director of the Budget would itself be a very juicy plum for any one of the "boys" who might be so fortunate as to get it and use it for purely political purposes. The Citizens Union, however, opposes it on the ground that under the Board of Estimate system of control the director would actually be without power, inasmuch as each Borough President and the Controller could disregard his recommendations. This argument, however, is not so much against a budget director as against one who has no power. The principle of unity of control is inherent in the budget system, and the experience of other governmental units which have adopted a budget system shows the necessity and advantage of a single director. In theory such a director should be altogether outside of politics and should have sufficient power to check extravagance.

SIGNS OF PROMISE.

There is no need of proof that this country is more prosperous than any other. Even across the Atlantic the trade facts contradict the political pessimists. A cable printed in THE TIMES last week on the French budget policy pointed to an offset to the deficit in the shape of 254,197 houses rebuilt, after being damaged or destroyed by the invaders. A crop area of 3,141,931 hectares, practically the total in the devastated region, has been fully restored, while 2,400 kilometers of important railway lines have been repaired. France would have lost four years if she had waited for German reparations to do this work. The taxes have yielded two billion francs more than last year.

French foreign trade indicates recuperation. By quantity the imports were 16 per cent. above 1913, and exports 3 per cent. above. Weights and measures for the foreign trade of other nations are not yet available, but calculations of the changes in it by percentages have been made. They reveal the fact that several countries have improved the ratio of their exports to their imports in comparison with the last peace year. France has increased the ratio of her exports to her total foreign trade to 46.3 per cent. in 1922, compared with 44.9 per cent. in 1913. For England the percentage was 45.2 in 1913, and in 1922 it was 45. For the United States the ratio shrunk from 58.1 per cent. to 55.5 per cent. The most significant change of all is the increase of Canada's ratio from 35.6 per cent. in 1913 to 54.1 per cent. in 1922.

By choosing trade at the war peak as normal it is easy to view with alarm conditions which may be viewed with hope if the comparison is made with pre-war figures. The latter way is the better for those who are searchers for accurate information. Political conditions in Europe are worse than were expected four years ago, but trade conditions are better than were looked for six months ago.

WHERE THE KLAN FAILS.

Northward the star of invisible empire takes its way. The centre of gravity of the Ku Klux Klan has shifted from Atlanta to Dallas, and thence to Indianapolis. Out in Indiana everybody seems to belong. Easterners have been surprised at the ready conquest by the Klan of a State which seemed of all our forty-eight the least imperilled by any kind of alien menace. Mr. LOWELL MELLETT tells us in The Atlantic that the Klan in Indiana is primarily an anti-Catholic organization, and that the wildest tales of papal plots are readily believed by apparently sane citizens. This is not quite what we had expected of Indiana. Has the indolent geniality of the Hoosiers been drilled out of them by the stern philosophy of Nordic Protestantism?

We doubt it. For it must be observed that the Indiana Klan has dodged the chief domestic challenge to Protestant supremacy. There is in Indiana a militant Catholic organization, composed of men specially chosen for strength, courage and resourcefulness. These devoted warriors lead a life of almost monastic asceticism, under stern military discipline. They are constantly engaged in secret drills. They make long cross-country raiding expeditions. They have shown their prowess on many battlefields. Worst of all, they lately fought, and decisively defeated, a detachment of the United States Army. Yet we have not heard of the Indiana Klansmen rising up to exterminate the Notre Dame football team.

On the contrary, all Indiana, Catholic and Protestant, seems to regard it as a valuable asset, an irreplaceable advertisement for the State, every Sunday placing Indiana on the front page of the New York sporting sections. The danger that we may wake up some morning to learn that Mr. ROCKNE'S shock troops have seized the South Bend Court House in the name of the Pope seems to leave Indiana cold. May even a Catholic be justified by his advertising value? Or is it merely that beneath the ceremonial nightshirt of the Klansman beats the same old simple and skeptical Hoosier heart?

AN UP-STATE JUDICIARY ISSUE.

In the Fifth Judicial District, comprising Herkimer, Jefferson, Lewis, Oneida, Onondaga and Oswego Counties, the principle of a non-partisan judiciary, the honorable tradition that insists upon the renomination and re-election of a faithful and competent Judge, has been violated by certain Republican leaders. The term of Justice EDGAR S. K. MERRELL, Democrat, ends with the year. He has served nearly fourteen years to the satisfaction of litigants, the bar and the public. Both Democratic and Republican leaders in most counties of the district agreed upon his renomination and that of Justice E. N. SMITH, Republican. The Democratic Convention kept the promise of the Democratic leaders. The Republican leaders broke their promise. The Republican Convention nominated Justice SMITH and in place of Justice MERRELL a Syracuse Republican, Mr. WALTER WELCH.

Personal bad faith is the least obnoxious part of this sorry transaction. The Republican organization deliberately proclaimed by its action its intention to make a Judgeship of the Supreme Court a piece of political spoils. There was instant, and there has been increasing, indignation among the independent and Republican voters of the district. Republican committees in support of Justice MERRELL were formed. In Lewis, his "home county," the independent Republican movement in favor of Justice MERRELL is particularly strong. So it is in Oneida, where Republicans have an almost immemorial dispute with those of Onondaga in regard to candidates for the bench. All over the district the importance of the issue is felt more and more as election day draws near. Indeed, the canvass has ceased to be local. It is watched by the whole State; and plenty of Republicans, some of them men of mark, do not hide their hope for a nominally Republican defeat that will be the victory of a salutary principle.

The situation is complicated and confused by local municipal and Assembly fights; in Utica, by Democratic primary frauds; and, variously, by personal or parochial feuds, recent or ancient. Into the prime question, however, these elements of discord do not enter. Shall an approved, experienced, upright, able Justice of the Supreme Court be thrown off the bench to oblige a little pack of politicians? The issue in the Fifth Judicial District is sharp and single. If politics can be made the standard of judicial merit there, we may be sure that the evil example will be followed in other districts and the sound custom of re-electing good Judges will be weakened. The voters of the Fifth District have it in their power to reaffirm the independence of the judiciary and to discourage politicians from trying to tamper with it. Keep the bench out of politics!

BIG BOSS AND LITTLE BOSS.

When MUSSOLINI, in celebrating the first anniversary of the Fascist triumph, declared that Fascismo would prevail not only twelve months but twelve years, and five times twelve years, he no more intended his words to be taken seriously than Orientals when they used to address the monarch with the pious, "O King, live forever." How long Fascismo will last, and what it will develop into, nobody can say. Internal difficulties, such as any successful movement must encounter, have already made trouble for MUSSOLINI; Italian papers talk of a variant of Fascismo, called "Rasismo," which seems likely to be powerful since it is rooted in one of the fundamental instincts of human nature.

The new term comes from the Abyssinian word Ras, a local chieftain, a man who has the practical independence of a feudal baron in the days of weak kingdoms. In other words, the local boss, such as we know him in America. He is a familiar enough figure in Italy; and already he has made trouble for MUSSOLINI. Behind the ordinary antagonism between big boss and little boss lies the antagonism between the capital and the provinces, not to mention the bitterness of adherents of a fanatical religion when they see their leader making what they regard as compromises in order to maintain and consolidate his power. Often enough, of course, these compromises are not only necessary but desirable; but local interest, private interest and doctrinaire enthusiasm sometimes combine to support the Ras against the supreme pontiff of the sect who has gone up to Rome.

Ordinarily, disputes between a big boss and a little boss can be settled, with tact, by a careful distribution of patronage. But this is not so easy in Italy, for MUSSOLINI is trying to cut down the expenses of the public services and increase their efficiency. An English correspondent, discussing some of the manifestations of Rasismo, reports that local bosses are in some places reviving the very blackmailing methods of the Socialists which helped turn public opinion toward the side of the Fascisti. He comes to the conclusion that there would be "terrible chaos" if anything happened to MUSSOLINI; "if he can with difficulty "keep the Ras in order, no one else "could succeed."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

He Understood the Man and His Work.

Of the many appreciations of CHARLES PROTEUS STEINMETZ printed since his death, none, perhaps, has been written either with more sincerity of admiration or with a better knowledge of the man and his work than that contributed to The Cornell Sun by Professor VLADIMIR KARAPETOFF of the Cornell School of Electrical Engineering. To him, evidently, the "little cripple with the giant mind" who passed the turnstile at Ellis Island only "because of the laxness of our immigration laws (or officials)" and yet, ten years later, was President of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, deserves high place among the country's great men.

That STEINMETZ was a Socialist his friend explains as due to the physical handicap which gave him active sympathy with those whom he believed to be handicapped economically. A better theory is that socialism was one of STEINMETZ'S many dreams, the others being those that enabled him to visualize before others could see them the enormous possibilities of science applied to electricity. The difference between the dreams that came true and the one that has not might be ascribed to the fact that as an engineer STEINMETZ started with a thorough training, while as a publicist and economist he had none at all.

To describe the freedom given to STEINMETZ by the General Electric Company Professor KARAPETOFF has evolved a happy phrase—"he was allowed to try to generate electricity out of the square root of minus one." That, doubtless, was what the man often seemed to be doing to those to whom mathematics as he knew it was equally incomprehensible and useless. Fortunately his employers—no genius ever had better and few as good—took a different view.

Genius Does Have Peculiarities.

That STEINMETZ was unlike other men in more than looks Professor KARAPETOFF clearly and sympathetically reveals. "It was impossible," he writes, > to make him do anything except what he himself desired to do. He stayed away from the works for days; he smoked in buildings in which the President himself did not dare to smoke; he used the clockwise rotation of vectors when everybody was using the opposite rotation; he insisted on saying "sw" for "the"; he wore a soft shirt and a shabby gray suit at formal functions, and he belonged to a political party which cussed his company and its principal customers for years.

Most notable is Professor KARAPETOFF'S article is the concluding paragraph, which deserves quotation in full, and one is glad that the final sentence is true—that America knew how to treat a man like this—a man whose life, instead of being happy and successful, so easily might have been a tragic failure:

> Modest, thoughtful, a prodigious worker, always ready to discuss an electrical problem on equal terms with any cub engineer, he was the very impersonation of the principle of losing one's self so as to find it again in bigger things. His contribution to our welfare and knowledge is beyond measure or computation, and his life is a shining example of a quiet, straight and unswerving path amidst the turmoil of conflicting passions, avarice, extravagance, cure-alls, pseudo-science, pseudo-patriotism, pseudo-life itself. And yet, withal, his life is also a glowing tribute to this great, broad-minded country of ours which early recognized his genius, took him lovingly in her arms and carried him steadily to the pinnacle of his fame.

An Army of Immigrants in the Harbor.

Apprehension as to what will be the state of affairs at Ellis Island from today on for several weeks is expressed by Major CURRAN, the Immigration Commissioner. With the bay crowded by big ships with big steerage lists, he uneasily foresees the overtaxing of his limited facilities, and expects to hear vehement complaints about hardships that are beyond remedying except by Congress.

With the end of November, five months will have passed of the year during which only 20 per cent. of the "quotas" allotted to the several countries can enter in a single month, and, as 5 times 20 is 100, several of the more important quotas for the whole year now are full or soon will be. Naturally there has been an especially eager rush to get in now.

The present quota law is for only a single year, and after that a new one will have to be passed. That there will be any relaxing of the restriction on immigration is not expected, but while the limit will not be increased and even may be narrowed, it seems probable that the monthly percentage will be changed from 20 to 10, thereby distributing arrivals over ten months instead of concentrating them in five. That done, Ellis Island facilities will become more nearly adequate, and justifiable complaints by the immigrants, it can be hoped, will be less numerous.

Bird Life Nearing Extinction.

Lamentable indeed is the confession of President PEARSON of the National Association of Audubon Societies that its efforts and those of other like organizations to protect the bird life of the country have failed, if not completely, at least to the extent that they have accomplished only the postponement of extinction for many species.

The game birds are going fast, he says, and are doomed to follow the buffalo and the passenger pigeons unless prompt measures are taken to save them. Song birds, too, are showing the effect of a merciless persecution, with the domestic cat named by E. H. FORBUSH, the New England ornithologist, as the most murderous of their enemies. He declares that cats every year destroy 10,000,000 birds.

That a huge number, and its roundness suggests that it is little better than a guess; but guesses, when founded on knowledge, may be close to the truth, and that this one is not far from it will be believed by anybody who has noted the suburban and country cat's assiduity and success as a hunter of birds. That is only cat nature, of course, and not a reason for hating an animal with many charms and some utilities—one of the only two animals which man has succeeded in really turning into what the biologists call a commensal. It is a reason, however, for considering seriously the relative value of cats and birds. The chance of saving both is not large, and there is no real doubt as to which has the greater worth.

Jefferson on Monroe Doctrine.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, Inc., according to THE TIMES of Sunday, announces as an important rediscovery the finding by ex-Judge Alton B. Parker of a letter from Jefferson to Monroe discussing the policy that took shape in the Monroe Doctrine. The Foundation's Secretary concedes that the letter may have been seen by a few bookworms who failed utterly to grasp its great historical significance. So it has been left to the Foundation to rescue it from a twenty-volume memorial set of Jefferson's works and let the world hear something about it.

Doubtless the circulation of this letter may serve a useful purpose, but it is in no sense a "find." It has long been familiar not only to students but to readers of popular history. It appears in full (Vol. VII., p. 315) in H. A. Washington's nine-volume edition of the "Writings of Thomas Jefferson," published in 1859. It is referred to in Worthington C. Ford's monograph, "John Quincy Adams and the Monroe Doctrine" (1902), as "too well known and accessible to require even a summary" of its contents, and reproduced (Vol. II., p. 340) in Willis Fletcher Johnson's "America's Foreign Relations" (1916). It is frequently referred to or quoted in more popular books, for instance: Turner's "Rise of the New West" (1906), one of the American Nation Series, so much used as a college reference work; Daniel C. Gilman's "James Monroe" (1900), in the popular American Statesmen Series; James Schouler's "Thomas Jefferson" (1898), in the still more elementary Makers of America Series; William Eleroy Curtis's "The True Thomas Jefferson" (1901). These are only a few random references from a bookshelf at the moment handy. There are doubtless many others. Historians have not failed to see the significance of the letter as a message of Anglo-Saxon unity. They have also not failed to point out how Monroe, after receiving Jefferson's advice, was moved by the sturdy common sense of John Quincy Adams from admitting any partnership of Europe in America's maintenance of its American policy.

ROSCOE C. E. BROWN.
New York, Oct. 28, 1923.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent remarks of Dr. Robert Donald in The New York Times, proposing to establish an Institute of English, similar to that of the French Academy, should be met with approval by all those interested in the preservation of our language. There is a day in the not far off future when there will be two distinctly different languages spoken in the United States and England if something is not done to establish a standard of good usage in both countries. Even at the present time there is a tendency to use different forms; and it is plain to be seen that if all English speaking countries do not use the same standards and forms there will never be a universal use of English.

A contributor to THE TIMES, criticizing Dr. Donald's proposal, states that the task is a big one and next to impossible. In the last fifty years the changes have been so remarkable in all lines that the impossible is not to be thought of seriously. Furthermore, if there were not an immediate need for some sort of authority the task would be an easy one and not worth while.

Members of the Institute could be made up of the representatives of authors, playwrights, editors, professors of English, and poets. They could meet in Washington and London, as suggested by Dr. Donald, and could thrash out the changes and additions. If the outcome were not perfection, there would at least be improvement.

Santa Barbara Archaeological Work.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I beg to draw your attention to an error in the article published in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, on Page 5, entitled "Santa Barbara Skulls Have Seven-Inch Mouths." In this article you refer to Dr. J. P. Harrington's archaeological work on the Burton Mound at Santa Barbara as being done for the Smithsonian Institution. The fact of the matter is that this archaeological expedition is for the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, of New York, and has been made possible through the generosity of Mrs. Thos Heye. Through the kindness of Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, Chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology at Washington, D. C., the services of Dr. J. P. Harrington were given to this institution to conduct this most important excavation. All collections obtained by Dr. Harrington from the Burton Mound are the property of this museum, and will eventually be exhibited here in New York. GEO. G. HEYE, Director.

MAH JONGG.

The small, smile-giving person across the table from me
Has her eyebrows gracefully pencilled,
And her hair like a folded flower.
They press on my heart with their loveliness.
It is not the time of plum blossoms,
But a perfume as from their white thickets
Is wafted by the amiable breeze of her fan.
The rosy clouds of the peach-boughs are paler than her cheek.
Between us rises the Great Chinese
Wall, mysterious.
With her pearl-pale fingers she has broken the wall.
Her West Winds come driving, sweeping down my Flowers.
With a hurtle of Bamboos, she beats my Characters to the earth.
And in a voice like silver bells of rain—
she cries . . . "Pung!"
In vain I deploy Green Dragons, to retrieve my losing fight;
She leads out a troop of Red Dragons and spreads them before me.
I am cut to the heart.
But the small, smile-giving person is full of joy.
Like the joy of blue islands.
With laughter like the clear water rippling over jeweled stairs—
She murmurs . . . "Mah Jongg!"
Ah! the small person has broken the wall of my heart!

Information for Voters

I.—The Amendments to the Constitution

NUMBER ONE. This is an amendment to get around the existing constitutional provision which forbids the voting of public funds for the private use of any individual or class. The intent is to make legal the appropriation of $45,000,000 as a bonus to ex-service men, to be granted indiscriminately. The objection thus has been summarized: "Everything for the disabled, nothing for the able-bodied." VOTE NO

NUMBER TWO. This is the so-called home rule amendment. It would prohibit the Legislature from dealing with municipal affairs except by general laws. No existing charter or law or contract would be affected, and the amendment is not to apply to the administration of the public schools. The aim seems commendable, though the practical effect remains in doubt. VOTE YES

NUMBER THREE. This amendment would open the forest reserve to the development of hydro-electric power. The general fear is that, however carefully the plan may be safeguarded, it is unnecessary and would be a dangerous precedent. VOTE NO

NUMBER FOUR. This amendment is understood only by taxation experts and even they differ in regard to its construction. The purpose is to leave the debt limitation of a city or county unaffected by the repeal of franchise taxes, heretofore put under the head of real estate. Some of those who favor the general plan are convinced that the amendment is badly drawn. With such serious doubts raised, it is better not to tinker with the Constitution as it stands. VOTE NO

NUMBER FIVE. This is an amendment to extend the law respecting absentee voters to the inmates of a soldiers' or sailors' home. The plan is equitable and unobjectionable. VOTE YES

II.—The Referendums

PROPOSITION NUMBER ONE. This is a referendum on the proposal to spend $50,000,000 over a period of years in enlarging and improving the facilities of the State hospitals for the insane and defective. Every argument of humanity and of civic self-respect favors it. VOTE YES

PROPOSITION NUMBER TWO. This submits to the voters of this city the question of increasing the pay of policemen and firemen. It is a matter now within the discretion and power of the city authorities. They should decide it without trying to take shelter behind a popular vote. VOTE NO

III.—The Judges

Ten Judges of the Supreme Court are to be elected in this district. The voter will have to make his selection among the twenty names on the two tickets, Democratic and Republican. The choice should be determined absolutely on non-partisan grounds. Re-election of sitting Judges who have served satisfactorily should be a cardinal principle in maintaining the independence of the judiciary. It is recognized in the nomination by both parties of Justices Bijur and Giegerich. It should also have been recognized in the case of Judge Proskauer and Judge Mahoney. All four of these Judges now on the bench should be kept there. On the Republican ticket appears the name of Mr. Robert McCurdy Marsh, who had a brief service as Judge by appointment, is eminently fit for the office, and should be voted for. One of the Democratic nominees, Mr. E. P. Ingraham, comes of a judicial family, and his candidacy is favored by many members of the Bar who know him.

Thus six names are indicated. A distinct choice of the other four is difficult to make. Voters will do their own picking, but ought to select their preferences without partisan bias from among the following: Herbert R. Limburg, William J. Millard, Edward J. Glennon, Frederick W. Seitzelberg, S. A. Cotillo, Aaron J. Levy, John J. Freschi and Gustave Hartman.

TURKEY MAKES AMENDS.

Admits Desecration of Doughboy's Coffin and Gives It Full Honors.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Turkish Government has made full official amends for the desecration at Alachata, near Smyrna, at the time of the Turkish advance of September, 1922, of the coffin of Private George Dilboy, A. E. F., who in 1917 was killed in action near Belleau and to whom was awarded posthumously the Congressional Medal of Honor, Secretary Hughes has been advised of this action in official reports and today authorized an announcement to that effect.

On receipt of reports of the desecration an investigation was made by American representatives in Turkey, the preliminary results of which have already been announced. The Turkish authorities having conveyed to this Government through the American High Commissioner in Constantinople an expression of regret, undertook an independent investigation which resulted in the recovery of the coffin at Alachata. The Turks, however, were unable to verify the report that it had at the time of the occupation of Alachata been covered by an American flag or to ascertain the identity of the person or persons responsible for the alleged desecration.

Nevertheless, in consequence of the representations by the American High Commissioner, the Turkish authorities consented to make such amends as would have been due if the charges had been fully substantiated.

On Sept. 7 at Chesmeh, southwest of Smyrna, to which the body of Private Dilboy was brought in 1922, an American detachment landed and was saluted by a Turkish guard of honor drawn up beside the coffin, which was covered by an American flag. The coffin was then formally delivered to the American officials and carried on board the Litchfield, full military honors being rendered by both detachments.

NOT TO CHALLENGE VOTERS.

Parties Agree Showing of Literacy Certificates Will Suffice.

An agreement was reached yesterday by Democrats and Republicans, as well as representatives of the Citizens Union and the Honest Ballot Association, not to challenge voters at the polls on Election Day next Tuesday who have registered and are able to produce certificates that they passed the literacy tests provided by the Board of Education.

The action was taken to overcome complications that might result because of the ruling during registration week of the Appellate Division, upsetting a decision of Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner leaving with the election inspectors the authority to conduct all literacy tests. The Appellate Division's decision, which was later upheld by the Court of Appeals, gave the Board of Education the sole authority to apply the tests.

Supreme Court Justice Van Siclen in Brooklyn yesterday granted an order restraining the Board of Elections from interfering with any inspector of elections in receiving the vote of any new voter whose name was properly on the registration books and who produced from the Board of Education authorities a certificate showing that he or she had passed the literacy tests.

BALDWIN HOLDS TWO SEATS

Wins By-Elections in Somerset and Lincolnshire.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The results of two by-elections announced today have encouraged Government supporters.

At Yeovil, Somerset, Major G. F. Davies, won for the conservative party with a majority only 922 less than that obtained by the former member last November, and at Stamford Lincolnshire, Mr. Smith Carrington actually increased the conservative vote, although his majority was 252 less than his predecessors.

Both these constituencies are largely agricultural, and the results suggested that despite the acute depression, the Government has not lost the confidence of the rural population and that the usual by-election swing against the party in power is not yet marked.

The vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Bonar Law will bring about a very interesting contest. He sat for the Central Division of Glasgow, and even the great prestige of his office of Prime Minister did not prevent his majority last year being cut down to only 2,500 on a poll of 20,000. Labor will make a big fight for the seat.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Howard Carter intends to make a tour through the principal cities of the United States and Canada next Spring to deliver a lecture illustrated by photographs on Tut-ankh-Amen and the marvels of his tomb. He will probably start for New York about April, when the exploration season in Egypt is over.

OPEN DRIVE TO FEED GERMAN CHILDREN

Committee Headed by Gen. Allen Plans One Meal a Day for 2,000,000 in Need.

ROSENWALD GIVES $100,000

American Society of Friends Will Take Charge of Relief, the Berlin Government Aiding.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—Major Gen. Henry T. Allen, who commanded the American forces on the Rhine, announced today on his arrival from Washington that plans were being made to feed 2,000,000 German children this Winter through the medium of the American Society of Friends.

General Allen declared that "a very grave situation and one with which Germany itself is not able to cope" exists. He has accepted the chairmanship of the American committee in charge of the campaign, which is said had been endorsed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover and is being participated in by many nationally known individuals.

"Four years' service on the Rhine acquainted me with the growing problem of undernourishment among the children of Germany," General Allen said. "My recent visit there convinced me of the necessity of immediate action to prevent wholesale starvation among German children."

General Allen came to Chicago at the invitation of Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former Director of the Budget, to outline plans for the national campaign at a luncheon conference of prominent citizens of the Middle West who are identified with the relief endeavors.

The committee's program provides for the feeding of a minimum of 2,000,000 children for a period of 141 days from Nov. 5 to April 16. One meal a day to each child, at a cost of approximately two cents, is the basis on which the program is founded, requiring $5,400,000. Part of the cost will be borne by the German Government.

General Allen declared that assurances had been received that no obstacles to the effective distribution of the supplies would be offered by the French occupation forces in the Ruhr.

"This work will be carried on in all parts of Germany," the former commander said. "No financial goal has been set for this campaign. Part of the cost will be borne by the German Government, which is co-operating in every way possible."

General Allen said that quantity contributions of food by manufacturers or by central shipping agencies will be acceptable contributions.

Contributions totaling $120,000 were announced by Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Chairman of the Chicago Committee, tonight, following an organization caucus. Julius Rosenwald, a member of the local committee, gave $100,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Secretary Hoover has given Major Gen. Allen a letter declaring there is need for charity work in Germany under existing conditions, and endorsing the proposal of the American Society of Friends to undertake it.

"The breakdown in the currency system and the rapidly spreading unemployment in Germany," Secretary Hoover's letter said, "is such that hunger and undernourishment are already spreading among the poorer classes in the large towns

WESTMINSTER TOMB FOR A. BONAR LAW

Former Premier's Body to Rest Among Those of England's Greatest Men.

PUBLIC SERVICE MONDAY

Premiers of All the Dominions to Attend Ceremonies in the Abbey.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Andrew Bonar Law, former British Premier, who died on Tuesday, is to be buried, with a public service, in Westminster Abbey at noon next Monday, after private cremation.

The offer of an Abbey burial was made to the late statesman's family, with full approval of Premier Baldwin, and will be made the occasion of an impressive ceremonial. It is expected the grave will be in the centre of the nave, between that of the Unknown Warrior and Doctor Livingstone.

A congregation of between 2,000 and 3,000 is expected, and it will be thoroughly representative of the nation. In it will be representatives of the royal family, the Prime Minister and all the members of the present Cabinet, all of the Dominion Premiers and former Ministers, Mr. Asquith, Mr. Balfour and Mr. Winston Churchill, who sat in the same Cabinets with the dead statesman, delegations from both Houses of Parliament and representatives of the army, the navy, the air force and political associations with which the former Premier was connected, will be present.

The services will be conducted by the Dean of Westminster and it is expected that the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London and leaders of other religious bodies will also be present.

How signal is the honor to be paid to the former Premier is shown by the fact that no Prime Minister has been buried in the Abbey since Gladstone. Unoccupied space for interments in the Abbey now is extremely limited, and great national figures, such as Lord Salisbury, Joseph Chamberlain and John Bright, were buried elsewhere. As it is, there is saw no room in "the statesmen's corner," and Bonar Law must find his resting place in the nave.

ARCHBISHOP LAUDS POLICE.

Rt. Rev. Patrick J. Hayes Favors Pay Rise for Them and Firemen.

The Rt. Rev. Patrick J. Hayes, Archbishop of the Catholic Diocese of New York, has indorsed the proposal, to be voted on at the election next Tuesday to increase the salaries of patrolmen and firemen of this city to a minimum of $2,500 a year. The Archbishop sent a letter to the Joint Committee of the Patrolman's Benevolent Association and the Uniformed Firemen's Association in which he wrote, in part:

"I have every confidence that the citizenry of New York, without regard to political affiliation, will vote, on Nov. 6 gladly and unanimously for this fair and just recognition of the uniformed men in the Police and Fire Departments of the City of New York.

"The safety of human life and the security of property are best guaranteed to the people of New York by the unparalleled gallantry of constant service and of ever recurring sacrifice, amid hazards of every description, on the part of our policemen and firemen. New York City is big in every way. Surely our people will not be small and ungrateful to public servants of the heroic type found so generally in the rank and file of the Police and Fire Departments."

The Brooklyn League for Professional and Business Men and Women has adopted resolutions unanimously endorsing the proposition.

M. J. BUDLONGS SEPARATE.

Husband Renounces Responsibility for Wife's Debts.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 31.—Members of the social colony were surprised today at an advertisement in Newport newspapers announcing that Milton J. Budlong of New York, a member of the Summer colony, would no longer be responsible for bills contracted by Mrs. Budlong.

Last Spring Mr. Budlong purchased The Reef, the Theodore M. Davis estate on Ocean Avenue, as a Summer home, and the family spent the Summer there. Mrs. Budlong entertained considerably and Miss Frances Budlong, her daughter, took quite a prominent place among the exhibitors, riders and drivers in the Newport Horse Show last summer.

Mrs. Budlong recently rented a cottage on lower Kay Street and with her daughter is to spend the Winter there, it being Mrs. Budlong's plan, it is said, to establish legal residence in Rhode Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Budlong made their home last Winter at 125 East Seventy-second Street. Their daughter, Miss Frances Budlong, was one of the season's debutantes, and her mother gave a large ball for her debut. Mr. Budlong is Vice President of the North Central Texas Oil Company.

Miss Helen Pardee Engaged.

The engagement of Miss Helen Lee Pardee, daughter of I. P. Pardee of Hazleton, Pa., to Captain Lawrence F. Stone of the United States Army Air Service, is announced. Miss Pardee is a granddaughter of the late Ario Pardee, pioneer anthracite coal operator, and her father is President of the Board of Trustees of Lafayette College, Easton. Miss Pardee attended the Misses Master's School at Dobbs Ferry and Miss Spence's School in New York City. Captain Stone served as Major with the Fifty-third Infantry in France during the World War and is now stationed at Scott Field, Illinois, as assistant commandant of the Airship Service Balloon and Airship School.

S. S. Guggenheim to Wed.

Seymour S. Guggenheim of 251 West Eighty-ninth Street, 24, took out a license yesterday to wed Miss Blanche Ruth Sperry, 17, a daughter of Albert J. Sperry of 300 West End Avenue. The marriage is set for Nov. 21 at the bride's home and Rabbi Nathan Krass of Temple Emanu-El will officiate.

Miss Lake Is Betrothed.

Former Governor Everett J. Lake of Connecticut and Mrs. Lake have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Sykes Lake, to Julian T. Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Melvin Leonard of Boston. No date has been mentioned for the wedding.

Chinese Actress Weds.

Miss Pauline Lee, 26 years old, of 923 Columbus Avenue, one of the few Chinese actresses to have played on Broadway, was granted a marriage license yesterday to marry George Cheong, 30 years old, a restaurateur of the same address. The couple was married later by Deputy City Clerk J. J. McCormick.

SOCIAL NOTES

New York.

William H. Vanderbilt, whose marriage to Miss Emily O'Neill Davies takes place in Grace Church this afternoon, will give a bachelor luncheon at the Ambassador just before leaving for the church, in honor of his best man, Robert S. Clarke, and his ushers, James H. Van Alen, Stuart Forbus, Fen McGrann, Edmund Stevens, Henry V. Brooks, Charles D. Sabin, Jr., William McG. Clarke, John S. Puttock, Joseph C. Baldwin 3d, and Frederick Martin Davies.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Brodhead of 50 West Forty-eighth Street will give a dance in the small ballroom of the Plaza on the afternoon of Nov. 29, to introduce their daughter, Miss Katherine Brodhead.

Mrs. J. Nicholas Brown has arrived at the Plaza from Newport, and will spend a fortnight at the hotel.

Mrs. Adolph Ladenburg entertained a party of friends at dinner last night at Sherry's.

Clement L. Despard, whose marriage to Miss Jessie Van Rensselaer Bond will take place on Nov. 3 in Green Spring Valley, Md., will give his farewell bachelor dinner tonight at the Racquet and Tennis Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Darling and family of Kew Gardens, L. I., are spending the Winter with Mrs. Darling's mother, Mrs. A. W. Kelsey, at Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.

The supper dance to introduce Miss Natica Nast, daughter of Condé Nast, has been changed from Friday, Nov. 30, to Tuesday, Dec. 4, at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mrs. Moses Taylor Pyne has taken an apartment at the St. Regis to remain until she opens her town house. Mrs. Charles De Rham Jr., also has taken an apartment at the hotel and will remain there for the Winter.

Mrs. Arthur B. Claflin entertained at luncheon yesterday at Pierre's. Her guests included Mrs. Edward Van Ingen, Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson, Mrs. Goodhue Livingston and Mrs. Robert P. Breese.

Mrs. S. Osgood Pell will give a large dinner and dance on Nov. 22 at Sherry's for her niece, Miss Catherine W. Dews. Miss Dews, who went abroad after the death of her father in 1922, is returning early this month.

John Sargent, the portrait painter, is a passenger on the Baltic, which is due to arrive here on Saturday from Liverpool.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Francis Clark have closed Wrentham House at Newport and have returned to 1,014 Fifth Avenue for the Winter.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—This afternoon's "varnishing day" of the Autumn Salon was a social event, with Parisians and Americans participating and thousands of paintings serving as a background. Considered as a whole the exposition presents no new impulse in art. The tendencies of the moderns, which have been followed for the past few years, are generally reasserted. A return to the Italian is noted in some of the most striking pictures of the collection, while again Japanese exhibitors, who have interpreted their own art in the modern spirit, have produced some of the best works in the exhibition.

Works of sculpture, though less numerous than formerly, are especially good. The work of an American exhibitor, Cecil Howard, is interesting.

There are also a number of worthwhile paintings by Americans. Among these are pictures by Ada Gilmore, whose water colors of outdoor subjects are remarkably well executed. George Biddle has an interesting collection including the head of a Kanaka. Charles Thorndike has a "Niagara," in which the colors and treatment are impressive, and George Parker shows picturesque views of St. Valery-en-Caux.

Picabia shows an "Animal Trainer," in which the tall figure of a man is silhouetted in black against a pale blue ground, with dogs done in brown and white. Van Dongen presents a portrait of the Marquis Boni de Castellane, which shows decided skill. Ethel Garrick-Fox shows a portrait of Olive Madox Hueffer, which is well executed.

Russians have contributed a number of paintings of considerable interest, among them being landscapes executed in gorgeous colors. There is a small group in porcelain by a Russian, which shows simplicity of line and at the same time depths of feeling.

NEW 'MRS. COOLIDGE' ROSE.

Yellow Variety Shown at Tarrytown Opens Into Bronze.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, Oct. 31.—The feature of the twenty-ninth flower show of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society, which opened in the Y. M. C. A. today was a new yellow rose shown by the F. R. Pierson Company and named "Mrs. Calvin Coolidge." It is remarkable in that as it opens it deepens into a rich orange color and it has no thorns on the stem. Nearly all yellow roses heretofore developed bleach as they open. The Pierson Company, which has been developing the rose for a year, wrote to Mrs. Coolidge and obtained her consent to use her name.

John D. Rockefeller had to take third place in the chrysanthemum groups. First place went to Mrs. H. N. Tilford of Tuxedo Park and second to Mrs. Frederick E. Lewis of Ridgefield, Conn. Mrs. Tilford's group is a blending of golden and bronze chrysanthemums and Autumn leaves. Mrs. Lewis's display was of white and pink chrysanthemums and Autumn leaves. In this display was found the largest chrysanthemum in the show, measuring twelve inches across. Mr. Rockefeller showed white, pink and yellow chrysanthemums.

Another fine exhibit was the display of fibrous rooted begonias exhibited by Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James. Tomorrow the principal interest will be in the rose and carnation exhibits and the dinner table decorations in competition for the cup offered by Mrs. Frederick E. Lewis. The show will close Friday night.

VISCOUNT IN AMHERST CLUB

Great-Grandnephew of Man for Whom College Was Named Honored

The Amherst Club of 273 Lexington Avenue announced yesterday the election of Jeffrey John Archer Amherst, otherwise Viscount Holmesdale, as an honorary member, the fourth on the club's roster. The election was made last Monday at a meeting of the Board of Governors.

Viscount Holmesdale, who is 27 years old, arrived from England last week for business training with an American firm. His last visit to the United States was a few years ago to attend the centennial of the founding of Amherst College. He is a great-grandnephew of Lord Jeffrey Amherst, after whom the college was named.

The other three honorary members of the Amherst Club are President Coolidge of the Class of '95; President George D. Olds and James Shelley Hamilton, author of the famous song, "Lord Jeffrey Amherst."

Gouzens Gives $110,000 to Charity.

DETROIT, Oct. 31.—Senator Couzens today pledged $110,000 to the Community fund, for which it is planned to raise $2,500,000 this week for organized charities in Detroit. Senator Couzens' subscription was the largest individual gift of the campaign. Henry Ford pledged $60,000, while his son, Edsel, subscribed $55,000.

J. SELIGMANN DIES; NOTED ART DEALER

End Comes in Paris Before He Finishes Book on American Collections.

BROUGHT FINE THINGS HERE

For Morgan, Altman and Others—Was Active in Exposing Fakes—Planned Museum of Them.

Jacques Seligmann, art dealer and connoisseur, is dead in Paris. The announcement came yesterday in a cablegram to his son, Captain Germain Seligmann, at the New York branch of Seligmann & Co., 705 Fifth Avenue. He had been ill about a week of pulmonary congestion.

Mr. Seligmann aided the late Benjamin Altman in building up the Altman collection left to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and also was adviser to J. P. Morgan in negotiations for numerous art objects. He was among the leading collectors of Europe and America. He often predicted that America would become the art centre of the world, because he said American wealth had proved such a lure that competition was difficult for even the most solidly established art institutions of Europe.

"I have been a visitor here ever since New York was a desert, ever since you had here hardly any art objects worth mentioning," he said. "And that was only fifteen years ago. Think of it! Then there were only three or four men here who knew and loved art well enough to buy good things. New York today is just beginning what promises to be an art conquest of the Old World."

Basing his judgment on forty-five years' experience, he was one of the first to analyze the American market and call attention to the increasing demand for Gothic art. He once said:

"The French collectors have a passion for the works of the period of Louis XIV. to Louis XVI. But the New World hobby is for the creations which date back to the Middle Ages and not more recent than the end of the sixteenth century. This epoch includes the Gothic and Renaissance periods."

One of the most notable Morgan purchases in which Mr. Seligmann acted for the buyer was that of the three tapestries of the Charles VII. period, for which Mr. Morgan paid $70,000. The Louvre had an option on those masterpieces, but at the end of a week was unwilling to meet Mr. Morgan's offer.

"Ten days later the Louvre directors made overtures to Mr. Morgan to buy back just one of the fabrics," said Mr. Seligmann in describing the transaction, "which one Mr. Morgan himself might decide. Mr. Morgan said he was sorry, but it was too late."

It was through Mr. Seligmann's influence that the late Mr. Altman obtained his fine Renaissance crystals from the Spitzer sale in Paris in 1893. The high esteem which he held by the leading American collectors, that in 1913 when he was preparing to hold an exhibition in Paris he announced that priceless pieces would be loaned to him by Mr. Morgan, George Blumenthal, William Salomon, Jules S. Bache, Mortimer Schiff and William A. Clark.

Mr. Seligmann contributed to most of the large American collections. He gave to the Metropolitan a cylinder desk of mahogany once owned by Louis XVI. of France, and $5,000. He was a founder of the Chateau de Madrid in the Bois de Boulogne as a refuge for the blind, guaranteeing its rental and stipulating that it was to care not only for the war blinded of France, but of America.

Once, discussing his plan to found a museum of fakes, he said:

"I have often entertained that idea. Every time I come to this country I feel more and more strongly that it is my duty to protect the buyers of works of art against clever forgeries and imitations which are bought here in great quantities and sold to confident collectors who cannot understand that art objects are so faithfully copied and counterfeited that they can be deceived. He was never afraid to expose the tricks of some art sellers of Europe. He said that through members of the nobility, who acted as dummies, they frequently held art objects, awaiting the demand from American buyers who eventually had to pay much higher prices.

Mr. Seligmann was 64 years old. He went to Paris in 1873 and slowly built up his business by himself. Many titled persons and other notables were among his patrons or visitors to his extensive collection in the Ancien Palais Sagan.

Mr. Seligmann had hoped to visit California next year to gather material for a book he was writing, called "American Collections and Collectors." He is survived by two sons, Captain Germain and André Seligmann.

MRS. McCORMICK'S FORTUNE

Inventory Shows She Left an Estate of Nearly $10,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick, widow of Cyrus Hall McCormick Sr., left an estate of nearly $10,000,000, according to an inventory filed today.

The inventory schedules only two kinds of bonds, of the total par value of $37,000, as "doubtful" assets.

Almost $3,000,000 was invested in stock of the International Harvester Company, holdings including 3,894 common shares of this stock, of a par value of $389,400, and 23,487 shares of the preferred stock, par value, $2,348,700.

The estate included Liberty bond issues in the aggregate of $362,250. Personal effects of Mrs. McCormick's two residences, one on Rush Street, the other in Lake Forest, were appraised at $110,000. Her jewels were worth $17,314.

Mrs. McCormick died July 5, at the age of 88 years.

NO CLUE TO PICKELNY BOY.

Police Search Homes on East Side in Hunt for Missing Child.

The Bureau of Missing Persons sent out a circular yesterday to the heads of all institutions and Police Departments throughout the country, asking them to make a careful checkup of all children answering the description of Irving Pickelny, 4 years old, who disappeared from in front of the home of his aunt, at 81 Orchard Street, last Friday afternoon.

Captain Cornelius Wilhemse of the Clinton Street station, who is in charge of the sixty detectives working on the case, reported that the police have not found a single clue. Thirty detectives yesterday searched every house on Orchard Street, from Canal to Houston Streets without success.

Mrs. Samuel Pickelny, mother of the missing boy, sent out an appeal to the people of the city, asking them to assist her in finding him. She asked reporters to make it clear that she would not prosecute anyone who has the child, if only he is sent back home.

Levy, Maurice E. Davidson, Leo Wolfenstein, Nathaniel Phillips, Michael E. Reflsen, Gustave Hartman, Samson Friedlander, Louis Lande, Isidor Enselman and Maurice W. Brandt.

OPERATION RESTORES A SOLDIER'S SIGHT

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—A case of restoration of sight by a simple operation to a soldier who was pensioned as totally blind has been reported to the Academy of Sciences by the operating surgeon, Dr. Bonnefon, of Bordeaux. The soldier, who is now able to read and write with ease and walk unguided through crowds, was present as testimony of his cure.

The soldier was wounded by an exploding bomb in 1916. His left eye was partially destroyed, and the right eye received a wound which tore the retina and detached it. A cataract formed on the right eye masking the retina definitely.

In explaining the operation, Dr. Bonnefon said when in June last year he saw the blind soldier for the first time he found in the cataract on the eye which would have warned any conscientious surgeon against an operation. He, however, observed that though the retinal sensual reflex was mediocre the pedomotor reflex was well preserved. He concluded that outside the optic centre of the retina which was probably destroyed there must subsist intact retinal regions.

The first result of the operation was disheartening. The patient was unable to receive the slightest preception of light. But commencing the day when the dressing was removed retinal sensibility commenced to develop rapidly. After a month the patient was able to walk without a guide. At the end of six months he wrote the doctor a letter announcing that he was able to see enough to read and write easily.

The doctor warned that too much hope must not be held out to the blind by this case, but at the same time asked his confreres if there were not among the war blind a number of other exactly similar cases in which sight might be restored.

MRS. LYDIA A. BOOTH DIES.

Former New York Woman Married Founder of Shipping Line.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Lydia Allen Booth died at Chelsea yesterday, aged 84. She was the youngest daughter of Benjamin Franklin Butler, former leader of the New York bar and Attorney General of the United States under President Jackson. In 1867 she married Alfred Booth, a member of an old Lancashire family, who founded in 1860 with his brother, the late Right Hon. Charles Booth, the firm of Alfred Booth & Co. This firm in 1866 entered the shipping trade as the now well-known Booth Line.

Mrs. Booth was born in New York in 1839, at 17 Washington Place. Her father was Benjamin Franklin Butler, law partner of Martin Van Buren, Attorney General and Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Jackson. She is survived by her six children. Mrs. Booth for many years was active in the work for the advancement of the cause of women and was long the President of the National Association of Women Workers of Great Britain.

STEPHEN A. NUGENT DIES.

Commissioner of Taxes and a Democratic Leader in Bronx.

Stephen A. Nugent, Commissioner of the Board of Taxes and Assessments and for fifteen years Democratic leader of the Fourth Assembly District of the Bronx, died late Tuesday night at his home, 1,115 Boston Road, the Bronx. Death was due to a hemorrhage. He was 54 years old.

Mr. Nugent had served the district successively as Inspector of Regulation and Grading and Receiver of Taxes, becoming in 1909 Deputy Clerk of the Bronx. In 1919 he was made Deputy Commissioner of Public Welfare. Due to ill health he was retired from that position on a pension in 1921. He soon returned to work, however, accepting the Tax Commissionership in the Bronx.

The Commissioner was a close personal friend of Major General John F. O'Ryan and Governor Alfred E. Smith. Mr. Nugent leaves a widow and a brother, George, an Assistant District Attorney of the Bronx.

The Rev. Arthur L. Burrowes.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 31.—The Rev. Arthur S. Burrowes, a Baptist clergyman, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., died today at his home in Brookline. He was 69 years old. He received his early education in Brooklyn and later held pastorates in Cambridge, Groton and Foxboro. He was chaplain of the Odd Fellows' Home at Worcester for a number of years. The Rev. Mr. Burrowes had contributed liberally to religious and educational publications. He was author of a textbook for ministers as well. He married Miss Sarah S. Wood of Brooklyn, who survives him, with three daughters and a son.

SIKES CHAIRS Office Easy Chairs

The Lazy Man Is the Real Efficiency Expert

Lazy men invented steam engines and automobiles because they got tired of walking. "Human dynamos" have never invented anything unless it is "nerves" or rest cures. Some years ago I got tired of being fagged out at the end of a busy day. So I set to work on the Sikes EASY Chairs for office use. I figured a man could make more money easier if he didn't tire his body by sitting all day in an uncomfortable chair.

Today some of America's greatest and most efficient business organizations equip their executives and employees with Sikes Office EASY Chairs. To mention only a few—there's the Victor Talking Machine Co., Studebaker and the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Co.

If you want to know WHY Sikes are the most comfortable chairs ever made for an office—there's ONE way to find out. Drop in on the nearest Sikes dealer and SIT in a Sikes chair. If you don't know who that dealer is—write me.

STATE ORDERS OUT TENANTS IN 30 DAYS

HOUSING SHORTAGE CITED

Argument Recognized by Courts in Similar Actions Against Other Landlords Advanced.

The question of whether the State of New York, as a landlord, can ignore its own emergency rent laws and force tenants to vacate in thirty days, the two apartment houses on the site of the proposed arsenal at Sixty-fourth Street and Third Avenue, Brooklyn, will be thrashed out in the Supreme Court. The tenants involved contend that the State has no more power than the average landlord.

The tenants were served yesterday with eviction notices which require that the State be given possession of the premises by Dec. 1. The notice is signed by the Attorney General. No condemnation proceedings have been taken.

Since the housing shortage became acute, the courts have given little consideration to landlords seeking to evict tenants in order to demolish tenements.

A committee of tenants has been organized to carry the matter to the Supreme Court on the ground that the notice is too short and that the forty-eight families occupying the two apartments to be demolished cannot find suitable living quarters within the thirty days allowed.

On Wednesday contracts were signed by Governor Smith, the Adjutant General and the Controller for the purchase of the block bounded by Second and Third Avenues and Sixty-third and Sixty-fourth Streets. The purchase price was $300,000.

The property is 700 by 200 feet, and is vacant, except for the two apartment houses.

The tract adjoins the Federal army base, and was sold by the estate of J. W. Bursch and Daniel Meenan. The appropriation for the Brooklyn arsenal was made by the Legislature last Spring, along with authority to dispose of the building at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street, which was sold at auction in July for $1,350,000.

How to make Good Coffee

NUMBER VII

Americans who have lived in Paris often prefer coffee made the French way. The Parisian has his coffee made very strong and served black, together with a pitcher of hot milk. Then he blends it either half coffee and half milk or as suits his individual taste. The French maintain that no other method brings out the delicacy and fragrance of coffee so perfectly.

No matter how you prefer your coffee served, you will admit that Yuban surpasses in depth of flavor any coffee that you have known. All the coffees of the world were reviewed that this particular blend might give you just this full-bodied richness. Its peculiar mellowness is only matched by the tantalizing aroma that is such delight to the true coffee lover.

How to Know
Good Clothes

The outer edge of the collar, on a good coat is never thick nor does it curl up, as sketched—

Point No. 19
To secure a thin edge the undercollar on a Goodman & Suss coat is not seamed on but left raw edge and is HAND SEWN to topcollar and supported by a correctly tailored canvas foundation to prevent curling.

In good clothing you will never find a thick seam where the collar is attached to the lapel nor where the collar is attached to the facing, as illustrated—

Point No. 20
To prevent this, the full length of seam joining collar to lapel and to facing is drawn together BY HAND with small invisible stitches, instead of lapping one part over the other.

The buttonholes of a good coat are never hard and stiff nor do they tear out through use, as illustrated—

Point No. 21
To secure this desired pliability and strength, the buttonholes of a Goodman & Suss coat are reinforced and made BY HAND.

Point No. 22
To prevent this, the sleeve vent is finished by hand. The top and bottom of sleeve lining is also HAND SEWN.

The bottom edge of a good coat never curls up or turns in. The lining never sags down in coat, as shown in sketch—

Point No. 23
To avoid this, the turn-up at bottom of a Goodman & Suss coat is HAND FASTENED its full length and lining is HAND SEWN to it.

The super-custom tailoring embodied in Goodman & Suss coats is also applied to vests and trousers. Tops of trousers are hand felled, pockets are hand turned.

Trousers are carefully shaped and shrunk by hand, and satisfactory wear is insured by the special reinforcement feature in crotch.

A booklet "How to Know Good Clothes", explaining in detail the "23 points of hand tailoring," including the above points, will be sent on request.

Why Guess About What to Wear?

You want your clothes to have the correct style, suitable to both your personality and taste.

Is it a smartly conservative suit or overcoat that you prefer—the sort of clothes worn by the successful professional and business men of your city?

Or do you prefer the smart, form-fitting, slenderizing styles of the successful men of the stage and the screen?

Or is your choice the free-and-easy, athletic style demanded by most of the eastern college men during their undergraduate years and for many years afterwards?

Goodman & Suss Clothes take all the guess out of WHAT TO WEAR for each type of man, by producing the correct clothes for EVERY type of man.

No need to GUESS about what to wear—with Goodman & Suss Clothes you KNOW.

They are clothes that have that Fifth Avenue custom-tailored appearance which is born of a profound knowledge of style, and bred of the "23 Point Hand-Tailored" workmanship put into them.

BANKERS PLEDGE AID TO SUPPRESS FRAUDS

Investment Association Is Told That Stock Swindlers Get a Billion a Year

AND CHEAT MILLION PEOPLE

Delegates Endorse "the Fundamental Principles Underlying the Rail Transportation Act."

FAVOR PRESENT LOAN LIMIT

John W. Prentiss of New York Elected New President of the Organization.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Investment Bankers' Association of America ended its annual convention here today after electing as President John W. Prentiss of New York, a partner in the firm of Hornblower & Weeva.

The bankers received a message from Postmaster General New asking for their co-operation with the Government to check sale of fraudulent securities, in the purchase of which, it was estimated by Government officials, the American public wasted $1,000,000,000 during the year.

Mr. New discussed the various operations of the Post Office Department and predicted that by the fiscal year 1925 the budget of the department would be made to balance, whereas in the past it had shown a deficit. He then took up the Government's efforts to check the sale of worthless securities. He said he had found stock swindlers "more rapacious" and "equally without conscience of anything you will find in the zoo."

Horace J. Donnelly, Senior Assistant Solicitor for the Post Office Department, urged the co-operation of the Investment Bankers' Association, the National Vigilance Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World and its affiliated Better Business Bureaus throughout the country, with a view to stamping out the mail swindlers and diverting to legitimate business $1,0 0 000,000 now collected annually as a tribute by the schemers.

"A million gullable Americans yearly lose $1,000,000,000 in money and property in mail fraud schemes," declared Mr. Donnelly, adding that these figures were not extravagant.

Many Fraud Orders Issued

Describing the drive inaugurated by Postmaster General New, aimed particularly at oil stock promoters, Mr. Donnelly said that already fraud orders have been issued against the names of 168 persons and concerns, of which 111 were against oil stock promoters. Hundreds of other promoters abandoned operations before they could be reached with fraud orders, he said.

"In addition to these fraud orders," he said, "the department has more than 500 criminal cases against promoters at Fort Worth alone. More than 200 persons have been arrested and indicted, and some brought to trial and convicted."

After telling how thousands of women had a certain 10-cent yards of silk thread, believing they were to get ten yards of "beautiful silk for making shirtwaists," and how thousands of men paid $18 for a dozen quarts of rye grain in the belief that they were getting pure Canadian rye, Mr. Donnelly turned his attention to the gigantic oil frauds centring in Texas.

In Fort Worth alone, he said, it is estimated that 500 men in the oil promotion business have taken from the public in excess of $100,000,000 during the last eighteen months or two years. About 10,000 persons in that city were dependent upon them for a livelihood. roads. The committee expressed doubt that any plan could be formulated which would result quickly and satisfactorily in consolidation on a basis satisfactory to the interests involved. The association, however, went on record as endorsing the fundamental principles underlying the Transportation act of 1920. The association believes that, while the act contains certain imperfections, it has nevertheless proved to be a long step in the direction of the solution of the American railroad problem, and that, subject to such improvements in operation as experience may suggest, it should stand as an expression of the cardinal principles involved in the complex relationship between the Government, the shipper and the private owner of railroad securities. Unless these principles are clearly formulated and fairly administered, it is obvious that private capital cannot be collected to provide extensions and betterments to the transportation systems which are so vital to the adequate development of the country."

The report of the committee on real estate securities also was a centre of interest, as there had been a division of opinion in committee and it was reminded that real estate bonds in recent years had found great popularity among small investors.

Opposes Higher Real Estate Loans.

The committee made this recommendation on the question of the practice of lending more than 60 to 66 2-3 per cent. of the value of improved property:

"Your committee has given consideration to the widespread discussion concerning a more liberal allowance of loan to appraisal than has obtained in the past, but is strongly inclined to the belief that, in view of the fact of greatly increased building and poor service of recent years, it would be most inadvisable to recommend a departure from the conservative rules which have governed the investment of savings banks and trust funds in the past, and have been the practice by conservative lenders of long experience.

"The great majority of the committee therefore believes that 50 per cent. of the present costs should be the standard, with 66 per cent. as a maximum. In arriving at this conclusion we are not unmindful of the viewpoint of those who maintain that, with the application of modern methods, rapid serial reductions in principal, periodical deposits of income, and with the added watchfulness of the investment dealer, a higher percentage may be loaned on first-class income producing property with safety. This could only be countenanced, however, if the investor is compensated for the added hasard by way of an interest return above the normal and knows what he is actually getting as security.

"It is conceivable that many real estate mortgage bonds are being offered today which, in fact, encompass bonds, preferred and common stock and founders' shares, all in one, without the investor knowing what he is really getting. An honest set-up of a new building corporate enterprise, which suggests itself would be to base the mortgage bond issue on 50 per cent. of sound value as determined by methods heretofore mentioned, let the balance of the sound value be represented by preferred stock, and let any capitalization of superior earning power be represented by common shares of no par value.

"The same principles recommend themselves, with slight modification, in the case of a privately owned enterprise."

Stresses Need of Safeguards.

The committee also called attention to the high level of costs of materials and labor, and its recommendations were accepted, not as prediction of a heavy slump in building activities and in values, but as urging that caution be exercised and every safeguard possible and consistent with sound business methods be erected.

According to the report, less than 1 per cent. of farm mortgages were foreclosed during the last year. From this the committee drew the conclusion:

"It seems that the average farmer is not as near bankruptcy as many of his self-appointed protectors would lead the general public to believe."

A minority report was rendered dissenting from "the portion of the majority report which fixes the criterion for the percentage of loan and savings bank and trust fund basis of 50 per cent. with 60 per cent. as a maximum."

The Committee on Marine Securities recommended—and its report was adopted—that the Government should drop the shipping business as soon as it could do so without disturbing present needs of trade.

The association went on record as opposed to a Federal bonus for former soldiers, but advocating liberal relief for all wounded or otherwise disabled veterans.

Association Officers Chosen.

In addition to the election of Mr. Prentiss as President, the Association elected the following officers:

Vice Presidents—Eugene F. Thompson of Crane, Harris & Co., Washington; Walter S. Brewster of Russell, Brewster & Co., Chicago; Philip S. Dalton, of Coffin & Burr, Inc., Boston; J. A. Fraser of the Dominion Securities Corporation, Ltd., Toronto, and Arthur Sinclair Jr. of Estabrook & Co., New York.

Secretary—Frederick R. Fenton of Fenton, Davis & Boyle, Chicago.

Treasurer—John J. Brogden of Strother, Brogden & Co., Baltimore.

Governors—Terms expiring 1926: Robert Stevenson Jr. of Stevenson Brothers & Perry, Chicago; Richard E. Norton of W. H. Newbold's Son & Co., Philadelphia; Robert H. Moulton of R. H. Ferris of Ferris & Hardgrove, Spokane; B. A. Tomkins of Bankers Trust Company, New York; Barrett Wendell Jr. of Lee, Higginson & Co., Chicago, and Henry R. Hayes of Stone & Webster, Inc., New York.

14 MORE ENDORSED BY CITIZENS UNION

Aldermanic Candidates Picked in Brooklyn Include Two Socialists.

Two Socialists, who are candidates for Aldermen from Brooklyn, have been endorsed by the Citizens' Union in its annual list of candidates and their records. Nine Republicans and three Democratic candidates for the Aldermanic Board, running in Brooklyn, are also endorsed.

The Socialist candidates are ex-Assemblyman Joseph A. Whitehorn, in the Forty-ninth Aldermanic District, and ex-Assemblyman Abraham I. Shipiacoff, in the Fiftieth District. Regarding Mr. Whitehorn's record, the Union says:

"He was a member of the Assembly in 1917-18. He made an excellent voting record on city measures and was able and effective; candidate for Supreme Court 1921. The best fitted candidate in this district."

The Republican candidate in this district is Deputy Sheriff Harry Meyer and the Democratic candidate is Joseph W. McHenry, the incumbent.

In the Fiftieth District the Democrats and Republicans fused, Isaac Frank, the incumbent. Mr. Shipiacoff was a member of the Assembly in 1916-18, where, according to the union's report at that time, he was "an industrious floor leader, did valuable work in retarding progress of several objectionable measures and continued his good voting record." He was a member of the Board of Aldermen in 1920-21 and a candidate for the board in 1921 and for Assemblyman in 1922. "His record in office," says the report, "gives promise he would be a useful Alderman."

The following Republican candidates in Brooklyn were endorsed by the union: Fortieth District, James T. Carroll; Forty-first, Humbert F. X. Savarese; Forty-second, Fred Smith; Forty-third, Allyn S. Crumm; Forty-fourth, John J. Keller; Forty-fifth, David J. Stewart; Forty-sixth, Fren M. Ahern; Forty-seventh, James G. Moore; Forty-eighth, John Wirth.

The Democrats endorsed were: Thirty-fourth District, Francis D. McGarey; fourth, Stephen A. Rudd.

In the Fifty-eighth Aldermanic District, Charles W. Dunn; Fifty-first, of Queens the union endorsed the Republican candidate, George U. Harvey, and in the Sixty-second Queens District the Democratic candidate, Samuel J. Burden.

EXHORTS VOTERS ON JUDGES

Miss Sarah Butler Pleads for Defeat of Tammany Ticket.

Miss Sarah Butler, Vice President of the Republican State Executive Committee and Chairman of the Woman's Executive Committee, appealed to voters yesterday to support the Republican judiciary candidates. Miss Butler, who is the daughter of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, said:

"With less than a week remaining before Election Day, every effort is being made to distract the attention of voters from the real issues and to get them to sanction extension of Tammany control. We owe it to ourselves and to our fellow-citizens to keep the clutches of the Tammany tiger off the Supreme Court of the State.

"We must give the people Judges in whom they can put the fullest confidence. The Republican nominees would make such Judges and it is the duty of each one of us to give them our vote."

BACKS TAMMANY TICKET.

Cleveland Democracy Endorses Party's Judicial and Other Nominees.

The Cleveland Democracy at a meeting of its executive committee at the Hotel Astor last night, adopted resolutions endorsing the entire Democratic judicial and local tickets. Former Magistrate Huth presided and former County Clerk William F. Schneider, presented the resolutions.

Mr. Schneider organized the Newberger-Smith campaign committee in 1918 and fought the Tammany ticket that year. He said last night that in view of the renomination of Judges Gavegan and Bijur by both parties there was no special issue in the present campaign.

Deer Feast on Cauliflower While Truck Is Stuck in Marsh

A five-ton truck load of Long Island cauliflower bound for New York fell by the wayside on Tuesday night. Yesterday morning it was found that the deer that abound in what little of Long Island is still rural had nibbled away the heads of the vegetables. The truck, owned by John Gates of Manorville, went off the road just outside that place and sank hub deep in marshland. It was impossible to haul the vehicle out with tackle, so the driver waited until he could get a house mover in the morning. The deer had eaten only the most delicate bits, but it was enough to spoil about twenty crates.

Total Decided Upon Is an Increase of $22,000,000 Over 1923—Hulbert Explains Gain.

The budget for 1924 was completed last night by the Board of Estimate, with total appropriations of $375,468,000, an increase of $22,117,024 over the allowance for running the City Government this year.

Controller Charles L. Craig, alone voting against the adoption of the budget, characterized it as "a travesty on the transaction of public business" and hinted at legal action to prevent acceptance of the budget as passed. Earlier in the day the Controller, at a closed meeting of the board, is understood to have referred to the possibility of injunction proceedings. Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert said after last night's meeting: "I suppose he means that he will try to get an injunction."

The Controller refused to make any comment on the budget other than his remarks during the board meeting. "I will not say anything tonight," he said.

Eleventh-hour pruning of salary items in the Controller's budget, which the board had tentatively accepted ten days ago, was the occasion for the Controller's opposition. The cuts were made at an executive session of the board's Committee of the Whole during the forenoon. The cuts were regarded by supporters of Mr. Craig as a personal slap at the Mayor's arch-enemy by the Hylan "bloc."

A total of $1,568,709 had been cut from the budget before it reached the form in which it was presented to the Board of Estimate for adoption. The total requests made originally by the various city departments and bureaus amounted to $394,490,691—$19,012,709 more than the total allowed.

When the board convened at 9 o'clock last night for ratification of the figures finally decided upon earlier in the day, Controller Craig said:

"I move that the action with respect to the engineers of the Department of Finance be disregarded, and that the budget carry those items as carried in the proposed budget."

A vote on the motion was lost, with the Controller and Benjamin Marvin, Commissioner of Public Works in Queens, recorded in the affirmative. The Controller had previously supported salary increases in the Queens budget.

The Controller made a similar motion with respect to other salary items in his department, which he did not specify. The vote was the same. A vote on the budget was then called for. After Acting Mayor Hulbert had voted affirmatively, Controller Craig said:

"I vote 'no' on this budget for the reason that it is a travesty on the transaction of public business of the City of New York, and for the further reason that the members have included items which are illegal and to which their attention has been directed."

Protests Signing Budget.

After all the others had voted, Acting Mayor Hulbert said that the budget would be passed around so that it could be signed.

"Nobody has any business to sign it," said the Controller. "If the budget comes to me with any signatures they will be stricken out."

"I am going to sign it as a means of indicating that it is the original document of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment," said Mayor Hulbert.

"The law does not require it to be signed," the Controller declared. "That is simply another indication of bureaucratic methods in everything. It will simply go in the waste basket."

Acting Mayor Hulbert, Acting President of the Board of Aldermen William T. Collins, Edward Riegelmann, Brooklyn Borough President; Julius Miller, Borough President of Manhattan, and William Flynn, Commissioner of Public Works of the Bronx, were those who were said to have joined in voting the cuts in the Controller's salary list. Borough Presidents Maurice Connolly of Queens and John Lynch of Richmond stood by the Controller, it was said, because the Controller had supported them in increases for their departments.

Acting Mayor Hulbert denied after the meeting that a deal had been concerted attempt to cut down Controller Craig's budget.

In some circles the cuts in the budget, particularly in the salary items, were regarded as an indication that Mayor Hylan, despite the loss of a voice in the budget conferences because of his illness, had seen to it that salary increases generally were cut down, along the line of frequent past assertions that he would do so.

Hulbert Issues Statement.

Acting Mayor Hulbert after the adoption of the budget, issued this statement:

"While it is the largest budget in the history of the city, it must be remembered that New York is the largest city in the world and that it is growing faster than any other city in the world. This rapid and constant growth of the city must be provided for.

Mr. Hulbert then explains the procedure in making the budget. Continuing, he says:

"The increase in the tentative budget of 1924 over the budget for 1923 was approximately $19,000,000, of which $16,000,000 is mandatory. Nearly half of that mandatory increase is the State tax, which is due to the fact that in prosecuting a system of economy on the eve of his candidacy for re-election, Governor Miller omitted from the State budget absolutely essential appropriations for carrying on work in hand and drew upon the surplus—never intended for that purpose—in order to reduce the tax rate, the folly of which is illustrated by the fact that the appropriations thus cut out were in reality only postponed, and the city's share now has to be included in the budget for 1924, which alone will account for any increase in the tax rate.

"Few of the items which make up the increase of the proposed budget over the tentative budget are mandatory, but are due to the increased necessities resulting from increase in population, such as additional policemen, fire companies, street cleaning equipment and the extension of activities in the Bellevue and Allied Hospitals."

HAYWARD FOR MARSH.

Federal Prosecutor Points Out Ex-Justice's Fitness for Bench.

An appeal for the election of ex-Judge Robert McC. Marsh on a non-partisan basis was made yesterday by United States District Attorney William Hayward.

"Ex-Judge Marsh has served as a Supreme Court Justice, and by his services has proved his fitness for the responsibilities of the position," said Mr. Hayward. "He showed during his incumbency, not only a thorough knowledge of the law, but the possession of those other qualities which make a satisfactory Justice. He was patient, humane and courteous. His natural quickness of mind and wide experience in life enabled him to dispatch the business of the court speedily and justly.

"Both parties should have nominated him on his record. I am specially interested in seeing that Judge Marsh gets a record vote. His patriotism was proved by his service in the World War and his public spirit by his career in the State Assembly."

Thousands Plan to Greet Woodrow Wilson At His Washington Home on Armistice Day

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Another demonstration in honor of former President Woodrow Wilson will occur on Nov. 11, the fifth anniversary of the armistice, when thousands of his friends and admirers will make what has come to be an annual pilgrimage to the Wilson home in S Street.

Mr. Wilson will receive the visitors on the front steps of his home. While he has not promised to make an address, it is expected he will say something with an important bearing on the present aspect of international affairs. Some speaker of reputation, whose name is yet to be announced by the Committee on Arrangements, will address Mr. Wilson on behalf of his friends.

This will be the third armistice day demonstration for Mr. Wilson since he left the White House. Large crowds filled the street on the former occasions. Two years ago Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, extended the greetings of the visitors to the ex-President, who, though deeply affected, made no reply other than to express in a few words his appreciation.

Last year Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, addressed Mr. Wilson, who responded in a five-minute speech, in which he said "the United States has remained content with the armistice and has not moved forward to peace," and denounced the enemies of his international policies as "the puny persons that are now standing in the way" who would "presently find their weakness is no longer to stand against the strength of Providence."

Huston Thompson of the Federal Trade Commission is Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements.

COL. HAYWARD FINDS MANY SMITH MYTHS

Says Governor Is an Expert in Fable, of Which He Professed Ignorance.

CITES "BEER AND WINES"

Federal Prosecutor Addresses Republican Meeting in Harlem Church.

Speaking at a Republican meeting at Randall Memorial Church, 122 West 129th Street, Colonel William Hayward, United States District Attorney, took Governor Smith to task for professing not to know mythology. He said he accused the Governor of being like "Janus, the boy who had two faces, one looking to the east and the other to the west," and quoted the Governor as saying that "the only Janus he was like was Elsie, because he, like she, is a sweet, wholesome creature with much intelligence."

"I do not pretend to know about the Governor's sweetness or his wholesomeness," said Colonel Hayward, "but I will agree that he is very intelligent. As for his pretended ignorance of mythology, I should have said that he is a great authority on the subject, for a myth is an ancient fable and Governor Smith has always run true to the form of the Democratic Party and has been the greatest political myth-maker in the history of our State. He and his party have created many myths that are now historic."

Colonel Hayward said there were many "Smith myths" and instanced the following:

"The myth of the inferential promise of the Governor about legalizing wine and beer? That was a myth of Governor Smith. Or the whopper about giving us economical government in this State, a funny Smith myth? I might inquire about the myth Governor Smith attempted to perpetrate and perpetuate when he said the State had made no progress for fifty years on its budget law when he knows very well that during the administration of Governor Whitman, Governor Miller and Governor the State developed a perfectly good budget law, similar to the national system, defective in his eyes only because it left the actual power of appropriating the people's money in the hands of the legislature instead of in the hands of the Tammany Executive.

"I might ask about that Smith myth when he removed Tax Commissioner Law on charges of extravagance, followed by the demand of the Governor for $250,000 more for the same department than Tax Commissioner Law had expended. He might tell us something about the Smith myth when he reduced the Republican appropriation of $11,000,000 for good roads down to $8,000,000 and then used many times that amount for additional Tammany officeholders of the State payroll. Governor Smith says that I do not know anything about the State Administration. What is troubling him all the time is that the people of the State have learned too much of the real facts about the Tammany State Administration under Governor Smith."

LIFTS BENCH FROM PARTIES.

Limburg Says Politics Should Not Affect Selection of Judges.

Herbert R. Limburg, candidate for the Supreme Court on the Republican-Fusion ticket, in a speech at Harlem Terrace, 210 East 104th Street, last night, declared that politics should not be considered in the selection of judiciary candidates. Their selection, he said, should depend upon their best service to the entire public and not upon their service to an individual leader of Tammany Hall.

"I do not wish at all to be understood as opposing political parties," said Mr. Limburg.

"On the contrary, strong political parties are essential for our democratic system of government. But partisan politics should have nothing to do with the control of our courts. Where we elect executives, administrative or legislative officials, political considerations are of primary importance. The political parties are responsible for the carrying out of their pledges, and, if the officials selected by them do not carry out these pledges, the voter may force his resentment against the party.

"There is, however, no platform for Judges to stand upon. The very assumption of judicial office by common consent renders it improper for a Judge to take any part in politics. He is to be a Judge not for one political party but for all the people. Any other conception of judicial functions is unthinkable."

COOLIDGE TALKS POLITICS.

Confers With Party Men at White House Luncheon.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Coolidge had a luncheon conference today with Walter S. Dickey, publisher of The Kansas City Journal, and a former Republican national committeeman from Missouri; William H. Barr of Buffalo, President of the National Foundry Association, and Former Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey.

None of the guests would discuss the subjects brought up, but it is understood that the political situation came in for prime consideration, as it did yesterday, when Mr. Coolidge had Charles D. Hilles, National Committeeman from New York, as a luncheon guest.

Mr. Barr was introduced to the President by Chairman Adams of the National Committee. Mr. Dickey has been in conference here with Chairman Adams and spent some time with Secretary Hoover today.

BETTING ON THE ASSEMBLY.

Brokers Lay 6 to 5 on Republican Chances.

Betting commissioners yesterday reported a slight increase in activity in anticipation of the approaching election. W. L. Darnell & Co. announced that they had $6,000 to place against $5,000 that the next State Assembly would be Republican. Several substantial wagers at 6 to 5 were made.

Odds on the chances of election of the ten candidates on the Tammany ticket for Justices of the Supreme Court have been shortened, it was announced, from 1 to 2 to 8 to 9.

SAYS MURPHY KNIFE IS OUT FOR 2 JUDGES

Professor Tompkins Charges Tammany Boss Didn't Want Bijur and Gavegan.

IGNORED AT RATIFICATION

All Other Judicial Candidates Were Cheered, Says Non-Partisan Chairman.

Charges were made yesterday by Professor Leslie J. Tompkins, Chairman of the Non-Partican Judiciary Committee, that Tammany intends to "knife" Supreme Court Justices Edward J. Gavegan and Nathan Bijur, who were nominated on both the Republican and Tammany tickets. Professor Tompkins bases his charge partly on the fact that the names of both candidates were received in silence at the rally at Tammany Hall Tuesday night. He said:

"Murphy was forced to put Supreme Court Justices Gavegan and Bijur on his ticket after he announced that he would not name them despite their fourteen years on the bench, a service which won hearty commendation of the Bar Association.

That Tammany is out to knife the two jurists was manifest at the ratification meeting held Tuesday night at Tammany Hall when the names of the ten Tammany candidates for the Supreme Court were called off one by one by George J. Gillespie, the Chairman. Applause and cheers greeted every name but those of Gavegan and Bijur. When their names were called the Tammany wheel horses and their friends who packed the hall maintained an ominous silence. Obviously Murphy, the maker of judges, who has no hand in the making of Gavegan and Bijur, had passed out the word to vote against these two jurists.

"What has James J. Hoey to say? He was on the platform at Tammany Hall Tuesday night when all this happened. Murphy made Hoey Chairman of the Tammany Judiciary Campaign Committee. Hoey kept silent when Justices Gavegan's and Bijur's names were mentioned. What is Hoey's explanation? Does he dare give it?

"People of Manhattan and the Bronx should not let this latest attack of Murphy on the bench go unchallenged. The way to answer the boss is to vote for the ten non-partisan nominees headed by Gavegan and Bijur, who were placed on the ticket only to save Murphy and his face after he knew the Citizens' Independent and Republican Parties would nominate them."

COLLEGE MEN AID MILLARD.

Five Hundred at Rally for Candidate for Supreme Court Bench.

A meeting of 500 college men in the interest of the candidacy of William J. Millard, Assistant United States District Attorney, for Justice of the Supreme Court on the Citizens' Independent and Republican tickets was held at the Hotel Pennsylvania last night. Every college and university in the East was represented.

Bernard K. Schaeffer presided and addresses were made by William M. Chadbourne, Prof. Leslie J. Tompkins, former Representative Thomas Jefferson Ryan, and Judge John J. Freschi and Michael J. Horan, also candidates for the Supreme Court on the same ticket with Mr. Millard.

TESTS FOR FIRST VOTERS.

Board Names Schools to Be Open Tonight and Tomorrow Night.

Examining centers in various evening elementary schools for literacy tests for first voters, will be kept open tonight and tomorrow night from 7:45 to 9:45, the Board of Education announced last night. This was made necessary by the number of applicants the examiners have not yet had time to accommodate, it was said. The schools named follow:

Manhattan—4, 19, 25, 27, 32, 40, 42, 59, 67, 70, 71, 72, 83, 89, 93, 95, 96, 103, 109, 147, 187 and 160.

Brooklyn—5, 13, 15, 40, 50, 64, 100, 112, 120, 123, 126, 136, 141, 144, 147, 148, 150 and 164.

All evening elementary schools in the Bronx, Queens and Richmond will remain open, according to the announcement.

MILLS ENDORSES O'CONNOR.

Tells Candidate for Congress G. O. P. Has Kept Promises.

In a letter of endorsement sent to John C. O'Connor, Reppublican candidate for Congress in the Sixteenth Congressional District, yesterday, Representative Ogden L. Mills said that the Republican Party is entitled to the support of New Yorkers because the Administration at Washington has kept all its promises made in 1920.

"It is a matter of public record that the expenditures of Government have been reduced almost two billion dollars and taxes nine million," said Mr. Mills.

The special Congressional election in the sixteenth district is to choose a successor to the late W. Bourke Cockran.

7 BROKERS INDICTED FOR FRAUD BY MAILS

Federal Authorities Say Victims Lost Millions by Series of Bankruptcies.

WILLIAMS FACULTY VICTIMS

New England a Fertile Field for Morse Brothers and Fields, Father and Son.

Seven stockbrokers, accused of bucket-shop operations that swindled thousands of investors out of many million dollars, were indicted yesterday on seven counts each by the October Federal Grand Jury. They were accused in each instance of using the mails to defraud. One of the complainants was a Williams College professor and several of his faculty associates were among the victims.

The indicted men were George W. Field, his son, Leon A. Field; Ralph L. Morse, his brother, George W. Morse; Louis T. Hall, Charles J. Anastasia and Wilfred A. Creighton. They were connected with the brokerage firms of George W. Field & Co., G. W. Morse & Co., Hall & Co. and Field Brothers, all of 50 Broad Street. All but G. W. Morse & Co. have gone into bankruptcy, and the Morse firm went out of business before it was overtaken by bankruptcy proceedings.

The seven complainants against the indicted men live in New England, which section, according to Colonel Hayward, was the particular field of their enterprises. Colonel Hayward made this statement in announcing the indictment:

"The investigation has brought to light, the Government believes, the operation of a small group which in the last few years has swindled thousands of investors, principally residents of the New England States, out of sums estimated at several million dollars.

Pupils of the Stoneham School.

"George W. Field and George W. Morse were the leading figures in this group, but they kept themselves in the background as much as possible. Ralph L. Morse is a brother of George W. Morse and Leon A. Field is a son of George W. Field. The other defendants named in the indictment, Louis T. Hall, Charles J. Anastasia and Wilfred A. Creighton, are comparatively subordinates.

"With the exception of Leon A. Field, the Fields and the Morses have to date escaped accusation in connection with these operations. Leon A. Field pleaded guilty recently in the State courts to grand larceny in the second degree in connection with the business of Field Bros., of which he was nominal head, and received an indeterminate sentence of from six months to three years in the penitentiary. Indictments are pending in the State courts against Hall and Anastasia, who were the nominal members of the firm of Hall & Co.

New England Their Bailiwick.

"The indictment speaks for itself so far as the scheme of operation of these defendants is concerned. They seemed to regard New England as their particular bailiwick, and no sooner did one of their firms fail or dissolve than the same group resumed the same operations under another name, in this way they have continued doing business year after year. The officials are informed that George W. Field and George W. Morse are at the present time engaged in disposing of stock of a concern known as the Sunfield Oil Company in New England. The suggestive motto of this concern, as given on its letterhead, is 'Service you will remember.'

"Scarcely a nook or cranny of New England has been neglected by these men in their operations. Frequently honest men were their tools, employed at branch offices as managers or 'business getters.' Their headquarters were in New York City, but they opened branches among others, in Boston, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Adams, North Adams, New Bedford, Springfield, Worcester, Southbridge, Pittsfield, Greenfield, Holyoke and Northampton, Mass.; Derby, Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury, Stamford, Ansonia and Norwich, Conn.; Nashua and Keene, N. H.; Providence, Pawtucket and Woonsocket, R. I. At the time of the failure of Hall & Co. and Field Brothers, they planned to open half a dozen or more offices in Vermont and New Hampshire. They had offices also in Atlantic City, Trenton and Newark, N. J.

Thanks Lawyers Who Helped.

"The Government has received unstinted aid in this investigation from Francis M. Fallon, attorney for the creditors of Hall & Co.; Henry W. Sykes, attorney for the trustee of Hall & Co.; W. Randolph Montgomery, attorney for the creditors of Field Brothers, and Max Rockmore, attorney for the trustee of Field Brothers. The co-operation of these gentlemen has done much to make this sweeping indictment possible.

"While the Government is only empowered to prosecute these defendants criminally, it may be said that the evidence developed in the Government's investigation indicates that George W. Field and George W. Morse may be made liable in the civil courts for much of the money lost by the customers of these various concerns, and that this evidence will be made freely available to the proper civil authorities.

"The Government intends to press this case to trial at the earliest opportunity."

Besides Professor J. B. Hull of Williams College, the complainants were Mrs. Daisy H. Gandy, Frank Bossler, S. B. Smiley, Mrs. Gertrude A. Grundy, Charles J. Williams and George E. Jeffers. These and others are known to have invested with the defendants $650,000.

Morse and Field Fathered Scheme.

The indictment related that in 1918 George W. Field maintained George W. Field & Co., of which George W. Morse was manager; that in November, 1918, George W. Field and the Morse brothers organized G. W. Morse & Co.; that in April, 1921, George W. Field and George W. Morse caused to be organized by Hall and Anastasia the firm of Hall & Co., Hall and Anastasia ostensibly being the heads of the business though the other two were the owners; that in June, 1921, George W. Field and George W. Morse caused to be organized by Leon A. Field and others the firm of Field Brothers; that Creighton was manager of certain branch offices of these various firms. The seven defendants were accused by the Grand Jury of engaging in a fraudulent mail scheme to induce investors to deal with these firms and, after obtaining their moneys and securities, bucketing the orders.

"It was part of said scheme and artifice," went on the indictment, "that said George W. Field & Co. should solicit and receive from customers large sums of money and property, the exact amounts thereof being unknown, but exceeding $150,000, for investment in certain securities for the accounts of said customers and in payment or partial payment thereof, and should unlawfully fail to purchase said securities to a large part thereof, or having purchased the same, should unlawfully resell the same or a large part thereof, and should unlawfully convert said money and property to the several and respective uses of the defendants.

Progressive Bankruptcy Game.

"It was part of said scheme and artifice that in November, 1918, bankruptcy proceedings should be instituted against George W. Field & Co. and that George W. Field should be adjudicated a bankrupt and should effect a composition with his creditors calling for the payment of five cents on the dollar in cash and twenty cents in notes, which notes should never be paid."

The indictment alleges they schemed to use part of the money thus obtained in organizing G. W. Morse & Co., turning over to it the branch offices of George W. Field & Co., besides establishing additional New England offices. They planned, the Grand Jury charged, to continue in business from that time, November, 1918, until the middle of 1921, engaging in bucketing. They obtained in excess of $500,000 in this period, the Grand Jury charged.

The next move, according to the indictment, was the organization of a successor firm, namely, Hall & Co., and, a little later, Field Bros., transferring the accounts of G. W. Morse & Co., "it being the defendants' purpose that George W. Field, George W. Morse, Ralph L. Morse and the firm of G. W. Morse & Co. should thereby be freed and exonerated of their obligations and liabilities to said customers and that said firms of Hall & Co. and Field Bros. should assume said obligations and liabilities."

Prof. Hull's Account Transferred.

The plan, according to the indictment, was to continue the bucketing operations under the names of the successor firms. In furtherance of the scheme, said the Grand Jury, letters were sent to customers by G. W. Morse & Co. The indictment quoted these letters. The one to Professor Hull, sent May 23, 1921, read:

"Dr. J. B. Hull
"Williamstown, Mass.

"Dear Sir:

"As we have decided to discontinue our North Adams and Adams office we have this day transferred your account to Messrs. Hall & Co., members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York, who will from this date continue the office in conjunction with their offices in other cities.

"We understand Messrs. Hall & Co. will retain the same organization which now exists and we feel certain that they will give you prompt and accurate service with courteous treatment.

"Unless advised by you to the contrary by June 4th, 1921, we will assume that the transfer has your full approval and consent.

"Messrs. Hall & Co. are well known to us both as regards to responsibility and standing and we feel assured that with their added facilities your account will be handled in the same satisfactory manner as this firm has served you in the past.

"We thank our many customers for the business that has been tendered us and trust this transfer will meet with your approval.

"Yours very truly,
"G. W. MORSE & CO.

"Note: Your account is transferred as per the enclosed memorandum. If not correct please advise us."

Whatever the names of the firms, George W. Field and George W. Morse, said the authorities, were always behind the scenes, actually directing affairs. Bench warrants have been issued for the Morse brothers and the Fields. The others are notified. Colonel Hayward that they would appear for arraignment when requested.

P. A. STILWELL ARRESTED.

Fugitive Broker, Caught in London, to Be Extradited.

District Attorney Banton received a cable message from the police of London, England, yesterday informing him that they had under arrest P. Albert Stilwell, formerly a member of the brokerage firm of Stilwell, Laeffler & Lowe, at 152 West Forty-second Street, who had been a fugitive from this city for more than a year and a half on two indictments charging him with larceny. Detective Sergeant Bernard Flood will go to England for him as soon as the extradition papers are ready.

Stilwell's arrest followed the discovery by Detective Sergeant Flood that he was operating a brokerage house in London under his own name, with a branch in Toronto, Canada, and also was acting as the representative in England for a scenic studio in this city. The indictments were returned against Stilwell and his two partners in the brokerage firm, William A. Laeffler and Charles F. Lowe, soon after the firm failed in April, 1922, with liabilities of about $500,000 and assets of about $20,000.

Lowe was convicted several months ago and sentenced to from six months to three years in the penitentiary, and his appeal from the conviction is awaiting decision from the higher court. Loeffler's trial was deferred until the court acts on the appeal.

CHECK UP STEINBERG VOTE.

Women Get Governor to Send for Records on Minimum Wage Bill.

Governor Smith, at the request of the Women's Democratic Union, sent to Albany last night for records that were expected to refute the statement of Joseph Steinberg, Republican Assembly candidate in the Fifteenth District, that he did not vote against the Women's Minimum Wage bill. Steinberg declared at a meeting last night of the Women Voters of the Women's University Club, 106 East Fifty-second Street, that he voted for the bill.

Mrs. John Blair, Chairman of the Women's Democratic Union, said later that Steinberg was not expected at the meeting, which was also addressed by Supreme Court Justices Proskauer and Bijur. When Assemblyman Steinberg told the gathering that he did not vote against the bill Assemblyman John J. O'Connor, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Sixteenth District, said he heard the speaker vote "No." Miss Mary Dreier, who fought for the passage of the bill, also declared that she heard Steinberg vote against the bill.

When Steinberg left the meeting Mrs. Blair, Miss Drier and Mrs. Percy Jackson, with other women at the meeting, went to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where they told the Governor about Steinberg's statement at the conclusion of his speech at the "Better Times" dinner. They showed the Governor to his suite in the Biltmore Hotel, but search of his records failed to reveal Steinberg's attitude toward the bill. The Governor then sent to Albany for the data.

ASKS MUSCLE SHOALS FUND

Weeks Wants $2,000,000 to Double Wilson Dam Power.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Impressed by the necessity for adequate power installation at the Wilson Dam of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., project, Secretary Weeks has recommended that the budget bureau approve a $2,000,000 appropriation which would double the capacity of the dam by increasing the power units to be erected there from four, as was originally contemplated, to eight.

The preparation of specifications for the additional installation has already been started by army engineers, who believe that the proposed appropriation, which is supplemental to one provided by Congress for the completion of the dam on a four-power unit plan, will be sufficient to cover the costs of the additional units.

At the time Secretary Weeks submitted to Congress the offer for the Muscle Shoals property made by Henry Ford he recommended that remodeling of the action taken by Congress on the Ford proposal the Wilson Dam should be completed.

MUSIC

Mr. Mieczyslaw Munz.

By H. C. COLLES.

When a pianist chooses to play the whole set of Chopin's twenty-four preludes he is distinguished at once as a musician who takes his music seriously and deserves to be taken seriously himself. The triflers will always pick out a few sugar plums from such a work as this and leave the rest. It was not only in his choice, however, that Mr. Mieczyslaw Münz showed himself to be a serious artist in the piano recital which he gave at Carnegie Hall last night. He preceded the Chopin with Busoni's transcription of Bach's organ Toccata and Fugue in C; he followed it with Liszt's two Legends of St. Francis.

A clean, incisive touch, rarely hard and always ready to soften into smooth-edged resonance where the music required such softening, is a salient characteristic of his playing. His thoughtful musicianship is shown in his use of his high technical acquirements. Whatever was questionable in his Bach seemed to be more due to Busoni than to him. There is no logical objection to translation of organ music into terms of the modern piano, but there are some passages in this example of the process, more particularly the climaxes, where Busoni seems rather to have exceeded his brief.

Mr. Münz's qualities are just those which should make him a great Bach player, and it is to be hoped that he will not give way to the tendency, discernible among pianists, to think that Bach is only effective in the concert-room when he has been arranged by a later hand.

Mr. Münz's playing of Chopin was always interesting and vivid. These little jewels of melody, exquisitely cut but displayed without a setting, test the executant's control of himself and his instrument very thoroughly. It is so easy to show off in the brilliant numbers and to sentimentalize the expressive ones.

Mr. Münz held himself well in hand and while he gave us both brilliance and sentiment he never wallowed in either. There were a few places where he seemed to forget that the tone of a piano has its limits, for example, he wore the reiterated G sharp of Number 15 rather threadbare, but he made up for this by refusing to be rhetorical over its ending. He showed that he could be perfectly simple in playing No. 7, lyrical in No. 17, fairylike in No. 23 and boldly impulsive in the last of all.

"EMPEROR JONES" IN PARIS.

Eugene O'Neill's Play Receives a Warm Welcome Abroad.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Eugene O'Neill's play, "Emperor Jones," which met such wide success in America two years ago, tonight made good in France after passing the ordeal of translation into another language and interpretation by persons almost wholly unacquainted with its background. It made its appearance at a gala performance at the Odeon Theatre and while leaving some of the audience guessing, was generally heartily applauded.

The translation of the play was good and the presentation was almost a masterpiece of artistic skill. The acting was excellent. Benglia, the French Colonial negro who interpreted "Emperor Jones" was a fitting successor to the creator of the part. So remarkable was his understanding and interpretation of the rôle that after several years it is difficult to say if he fell short in any way of the high standard set him by Gilpin. One thing is certain—tonight's performance raised American playwrights one step higher in the estimation of the French.

The play, translated by Maurice Bourgeo, is presented under the auspices of the Association Française Désposition et d'Exchange Artistique, the proceeds of which are for the erection of a memorial to athletes and sportsmen who gave their lives in the war.

TWO NEW PLAYS.

"Spring Cleaning" and "The Sand Walker" Open Next Week.

Two new productions were added yesterday to next week's list of plays, and at the same time one production was deferred. Frederick Lonsdale's comedy, "Spring Cleaning," will come to the Eltinge Theatre on Friday night of next week. "The Lady" had been previously announced for the Eltinge, but this play will succeed "Spring Cleaning" in Chicago. The cast of "Spring Cleaning" includes Violet Heming, Estelle Winwood, Arthur Byron and A. E. Matthews.

"The Sand Walker," by Leon Gordon, is announced to open at the Greenwich Village Theatre on Monday night, at which time "The Shame Woman" will be moved up to the Princess. Productions already announced for next week are "The Deep Tangled Wildwood," Monday night at the Frazee; the Sothern-Marlowe production of "The Merchant of Venice," Monday night, at Jolson's; a new Grand Guignol bill, Monday night at the Frolic; Eleonora Duse in "Ghosts," Tuesday and Friday afternoons at the Century, and Fred Stone in "Stepping Stones," Tuesday night at the Globe.

TWO NEW PARIS PLAYS.

Comedies "Imbecile" and "La Locandiera" Presented.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Jacques Copeau's Théâtre du Vieux Colombier celebrated its reopening and its tenth anniversary this afternoon with the production of two new comedies. The first, entitled "Imbecile," by the young Frenchman Pierre Bost, indicates that his work will bear watching. It is light and fragile, but always entertaining.

The second play, "La Locandiera," translated from the Italian of Carlo Goldoni, is a more substantial comedy, and irresistibly gay. Copeau played both "leads," giving two masterly performances. "La Locandiera" was first given here, in a different translation of course, by the Moscow Art Theatre, which will play it in New York.

Aeolian Hall Recital.

Nevada Van der Veer and Reed Miller reappeared in a joint recital last evening at Aeolian Hall, the tenor opening with vigorous attack in three Handelian airs, the contralto following with two Lieder of Strauss, Débussy's "C'Est l'Extase" and "Le Moulin" of Fiernd. Three of Schumann's rare vocal duets, sung by husband and wife, gave pleasure to an audience of many church singers, organists, teachers and students, representative of local musical life. C. A. Baker accompanied the singers in later works of Lily Strickland, La Forge, Schneider, Cyril Scott, Cadman and Homer. Harry Gilbert, who turned the pages for his fellow-organist at the piano, was himself among the composers, with a manuscript, "In the Stillness of Night," from his "Songs of India."

Mrs. Cahier Gives Recital.

Mrs. Charles Cahier, a contralto long resident abroad and heard recently in Hans Pfitzner's "Von Deutscher Seele" at the Town Hall, appeared there in her own recital last evening, when Frank Bibb assisted at the piano, in a more varied program than Mrs. Cahier has on some former occasions sung here. Its start was a gesture toward her native country's art in two songs, "The Day Is No More" and "On the Seashore," by J. A. Carpenter of Chicago. The singer was equally at home in groups by Brahms and Grieg, an unknown Finlander, Toivo Kuula, and a Swede, Ture Rangström." She added finally a dozen folksongs, including an Irish lullaby and Scotch, "Robin Adair."

Raquel Meller to Sing Here.

Raquel Meller, the Spanish singer, will make her first appearance in New York on Sunday night, Nov. 25, at either the Times Square or the Apollo Theatre. Matinees will be given thereafter on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

TWO KILLED BY AUTOS; 3 OTHERS HIT, MAY DIE

Police in Cars Fire at Driver Who Flees After Taxi Runs Down a Boy.

Three policemen in two automobiles last night fired six shots at the chauffeur who, it was alleged, had fled in his taxicab after he had knocked down a boy at Third Avenue and Eighteenth Street. The victim, Alexander Weiss, 16, of 519 East Eighty-second Street, was getting off a surface car when the machine struck him, causing injuries, which, it was said at Reception Hospital, might prove fatal.

When the chauffeur of the taxicab didn't halt Policeman Thomas O'Sullivan commandeered another taxicab and with Sergeant Toomey and Policeman Fry in a police car, gave chase. The taxicab turned west in Seventy-fifth Street and the chauffeur jumped out and disappeared. O'Sullivan and the other policemen fired several shots at the driver before he got away.

The abandoned cab was found in front of a pool parlor, and the police arrested the owner, Joseph Scoma, 24, of 1,414 Second Avenue. He declared he knew nothing about the accident and that somebody had stolen the taxicab. He was locked up in the East Sixty-seventh Street Station in suspicion of felonious assault.

Thomas Ortes of 181 Fayette Street lost control of an automobile he was driving and ran into a crowd of children in front of the Perth Amboy (N. J.) Grammar School on Maple Street and seriously injured two of them, James Wacker, 13, of 373 Park Avenue and Robert Lindsay, 11, of 198 Fayette Street. Each had a skull fractured and internal injuries and little hope was held out for their recovery.

Edward Delgles, 35, of 2,231 Belmont Avenue, the Bronx, was killed yesterday when a one-ton truck driven by him toppled over at Washington Avenue and 169th Street, the Bronx, following a collision with another motor truck driven by Peter Stevenson of 477 Clermont Avenue, Brooklyn.

Philip Hansen, 6, ran in front of an automobile near his home on Atlantic Avenue, Oceanside, L. I., and died in the Rockville Centre Sanitarium of a fractures of the skull. Frederick R. Young of Lynbrook, driver of the car, was admitted to bail by Justice Neu on a technical homicide charge.

COUNTY COUNSEL ARRESTED

Accused of Assault by New York Business Man and Wife.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J., Oct. 31.—A stir was caused throughout Warren County today when it was learned that County Counsel Egbert Roscrans of Blairstown had been arrested on a charge of atrocious assault and his clerk, Samuel T. Beatty, for aiding and abetting in the assault. The charges were preferred by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Brooks of 3,610 Broadway, New York City. They asserted that, when they, with their son Harold went to Roscrans's office in reference to a statement which they alleged was made by Roscrans reflecting on Mrs. Brooks's character, Roscrans and his clerk forcibly ejected them from the office.

Roscrans said that he later received a letter from a New York lawyer offering terms of settlement, which he had refused, stating that he wanted the case to go to a hearing.

Mr. Brooks is the Vice President of the Majestic Paper & Twine Company at 401 Lafayette Street.

Violet Horner Sings.

Violet Horner had an ambitious matinee début at Aeolian Hall yesterday, singing or attempting all the florid favorites from "Barber of Seville," "Pearl of Brazil," Haydn's "Creation" and the "Variations" by Proch. In Schubert's "Lark" and Strauss's "Serenade" a light, girlish soprano, as yet more fresh than facile, found agreeable moments. Battle horses of the repertory may become nightmares, and the "Queen of Night" air from "Magic Flute" was least happily chosen. Miss Horner sang a novel "Sirventese" by Hector Panizza, an English version by Miss Farrar of Rachmaninoff's "Tryst," Carpenter's Horsethief's dialect, "Don't Cyare," Kramer's "Swans" and Luckstone's "A Birthday."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "Queen Victoria" at the 49th Street Theatre has been postponed to Thursday night, Nov. 15. "Zeno" will be continued at the house another week.

The opening of "The Camel's Back" at the Vanderbilt Theatre has been definitely set for Tuesday night, Nov. 13.

Walter Hampden will begin his season at the National Theatre tonight in "Cyrano de Bergerac." An 8:10 curtain is announced.

Mabel Rowland will give an evening of comedy sketches at the National Theatre on Sunday, Nov. 11.

Walker Whiteside has cancelled his tour in "The Hindu" and other plays, and probably will be seen in New York in a new play.

Helen Shipman has been added to "Temptations of 1923," which the Shuberts will bring to New York on Nov. 15.

The cast of "The Gift," now in rehearsal, includes Doris Kenyon, Raymond Bloomer, Patricia O'Connor, Alice Parks, David Clark and Jane Kean.

Sir John Martin-Harvey's production of "Via Crucis" at the Century Theatre has been postponed to Monday night, Nov. 12. In the meantime "Oedipus Rex" will be continued.

THE SCREEN

Jazz and Greek Gods.

THE TEMPLE OF VENUS, with Mary Philbin, William Walling, Mickey McBain, Alice Day, David Butler, William Boyd, Phyllis Haver, Leon Barry, Celesta Lee, Señorita Consuelo, Robert Cline, Marilynn Boyd, Frank Keller, Lorraine Easton and Helen Virgil; directed by Henry Otto; special musical score.

An extravagant production on which the director, or somebody else, has permitted a wild imagination to run riot was presented by William Fox at the Central, as a successor to "Monna Vanna." This film, which might be likened to a patchwork quilt, is styled "The Temple of Venus," and in it a heroic effort has been made to link together as one story the most incongruous sequences, some of which are extraordinarily beautiful. One sees Greek gods and goddesses, life on a rock-ribbed island, a bevy of dancing nymphs, scenes of ultra-modern jazz existence, a love affair between an artist and an unsophisticated maiden, and truly marvelous pictures of seals. It would take a superbrain to weld together such a melange of matter, and even the ordinary spectator may find his head in a whirl trying to follow this two miles of celluloid as it is flashed upon the screen.

This picture should be taken as a film folly without attempting to follow the narrative. Obviously it is meant to be a screen beauty show, but the shadow of the censor has restricted certain possibilities in this picture. The gowns in the jazz sequences are chiefly decollette at the back, and a pretty woman is asked by her maid whether she wishes a lavender shower or a plunge in the perfumed pool. Apparently this lady fair chooses the latter as a vague outline of her figure is visible through the self-imposed censorial steam screen as she glides toward the sparkling water. In this household they fill the coal scuttle with champagne and stir it with the tongs, the shovel being ready to use as a scoop.

In an effort to sustain interest, but without an idea of suspense, the nether limbs of feminine players are shown in a semi-close-up as they descend the stairs on their way to a so-called "beach-warming" party. The outset of this affair is on the order of the swimming pool scenes in most motion picture houses. One sees the hostess, satiated with dancing and long gowns, give the order to disrobe. So off come the frocks and finery, revealing dainty bathing costumes—"one-peach bathing suits" as a bit of pulchritude called them. The bored hostess takes all this as a matter of course.

The black-hearted individual in the story is afflicted with a mania for telling every woman he meets that she is his "idea of a perfect Venus," and when this subtitle is shown, the orchestra strikes up "Arrah go on!" But this villain is not slain. He only sustains an injury to his right leg, and when last seen is in the company of the pretty Constance Lane (Phyllis Haver) aboard a delightful yacht, evidently rather tickled at his various exploits.

There are a number of scintillating scenes with dancing girls in their filmy veils, and compelling shots of the rocks and the breaking seas, and the tinting and toning of these sequences is effective, especially in the double exposure parts where Moria (Mary Philbin) is shown talking on the picturesque rocks, the only person who can see the nymphs. But undoubtedly the most interesting portion of this film is where the seals are shown. There are old seals, young seals and baby seals being tugged to safety in their mothers' mouths. This is such an extraordinary bit of footage that it inspired more applause than anything else.

Another interesting part is where Nat Harper rows out to bring back Stanley Dale, the artist, whom he had thrown on a rock with the hope that he would be lashed to death by the water. The manoeuvring of the boat in the turbulent sea and the subsequent capsizing of the craft were so well pictured that it was thrilling.

The main title and subtitles in this production are hand painted as are also figures in some of the sequences. In certain instances this coloring gives the desired result, but it falls utterly when Cupid is presented with carroty-hued, permanent-waved hair and a wreath of brick-red roses around his shoulders.

According to the story a young artist fed up with jollity and jazz flees to the rugged island and meets the fair Moria. In the opening to a cave on the brink of still, reflective waters, paying little heed to his canvas, he tells Moria about the prattling Echo, whom he is painting from memory of other works. The film fades into his narrative and June, Jupiter, Thetis, Echo and others are introduced. This gives the director another opportunity to show girls, the Cecchetti corps being Queen Thetis (Señorita Consuella), the film painter having given her a costume of green gold. This series of pictures lasts so long that one forgets the artist, who is telling the yarn, and Moria, who is listening.

We cannot say much for the acting in this picture, the fault being largely with the direction, as most of the thought was devoted to the spectacle. Miss Philbin, who was loaned to the Fox organization by the Universal corporation, did splendidly in "Merry Go Round"; but in this film she appears with a mass of hair always floating around her shoulders, doing a great deal of posing. Phil Grayson, the villain, is not badly played by Leon Barry.

The titles are in many cases so absurd that they provoke laughter in lieu of sympathy. When Nat comes ashore after bringing back the artist from the rock, and is dying on the sands, Moria says: "Oh, Nat, are you hurt?" To which the dying man replies: "It's good to know you care where I am."

Nat was never able to see Moria's dancing nymphs, but in his last moments he tosses a kiss in the direction of the distant sands, and the dancers fade into the picture. "I see them now," reads the title.

The story in this picture is something one must not think about. It has a few redeeming moments and some awful ones.

SUMNER SEEKS BAN ON SIX PLAYS NOW

Alleged Immorality to Be Discussed in Augustus Thomas's Office Today.

EQUITY AGENT TO ATTEND

Vice Suppression Secretary Urges Restoration of Citizens' Censorship Jury.

A discussion of six plays now on Broadway that are alleged by John S. Sumner, Secretary of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, to be indecent, will be held this afternoon at the office of Augustus Thomas, head of the theatrical producers, 227 West Forty-fifth Street.

The conference was arranged at the request of Commissioner of Licenses August W. Glatzmayer, who recently received from Mr. Sumner a complaint against four theatrical enterprises on Broadway. Mr. Sumner has two other plays on the list of those he would ban.

Commissioner Glatzmayer said that Mr. Thomas and Frank Gilmore, of the Actors' Equity Association, had consented to be present at the conference. Mr. Sumner said that he desired to see the volunteer "citizens' jury" that was put into effect last year begin functioning again.

Under this plan a panel of 250 men and women who are in no way affiliated with the theatre or with reform associations is drawn. From this panel a jury of twelve is selected. A decision can be reached only by nine of the twelve casting their votes for the same course of action.

"When criminal action was taken against a play last year, the play ran to crowded houses for six months after the indictment," said Mr. Sumner. "Unless a play is put off the boards when it is considered objectionable, the jury plan would not avail. The Commissioner of Licenses can go into the Special Term of the Supreme Court and obtain an injunction against a play. Such a disposition would be more impressive than waiting six months for a case to be tried.

"Last year the producing managers, the house managers, the American Drama League, the Better Public Shows organization and other societies, as well as the city officials, approved of this machinery."

Mr. Sumner said that, in his opinion, there is a greater tendency for managers to put objectionable plays on the boards than ever before. There are more nudity, salaciousness and suggestive lines than he has ever known, he said.

"I am told that some producers are asking for plays with these subjects," he continued. "Then, of course, there are lots of idle people who want these sensations. New York has about 300,000 newcomers every day and they want to be amused in this way. Certain managers cater to them."

Mr. Sumner said it was his belief that books dealing with psychoanalysis and sex were giving way to books on wholesome subjects.

"All this writing on psychoanalysis and sex matters should be confined to the medical profession," he added. "The average person does not understand it. It should be the special domain of technical people, trained neurologists and pathologists. Works on psychoanalysis merely excite the curious."

Efforts were made yesterday to obtain a vaudeville sketch for Mme. Alla Nazimova to replace George Middleton's "The Unknown Lady," which was withdrawn by Edward F. Albee of the Keith office. Mr. Middleton, the author, received a large number of telegrams yesterday from friends and well-wishers in various parts of the country commenting on the suppression of the piece.

Postpone Your Funeral!

An Editorial by Bernarr Macfadden

IT is the general impression everywhere that we die but once.

But we have to endure many deaths during life. A great number of people are little more than walking corpses.

Life to them is a mere existence. They "keep going" but that is about all.

Some people begin to die at twenty-five or even younger. Slowly but surely death takes them.

What is usually the first and greatest of all human tragedies is the death of the Spirit of Youth.

God help the man or woman who is caught in the toils of this tragedy.

Then we can truthfully say "all is over but the funeral."

Youth with its joys and delights! Who can measure the immensity of its powers and possibilities?

We are but little more than human husk when the light of the spirit of youth goes out.

No more ecstasies! The throbbing delights of life are passed and gone.

And paralleling this dire loss comes the death of enthusiasm. And what can we do without the zest and inspiration and stimulus that comes with this mighty power?

Everything of importance in life is due to the enthusiasm that has fired some human soul. Without enthusiasm there can be no ambition. They might be termed twin powers—ambition and enthusiasm—neither can live without the other. Therefore when enthusiasm dies ambition also passes into eternal sleep.

The best part of us dies when the ambition and enthusiasm of youth leaves us.

Self-reliance, dependability, integrity, all finally follow to their last resting place.

Honesty then has but little meaning. Your will is vacillating.

With lustreless eyes you begin and end each day. Life has no meaning—no purpose, no worthwhile end—for you.

Do not ever say that we die but once or even that we are born but once. There are many things born within us many years after we have obtained our physical growth.

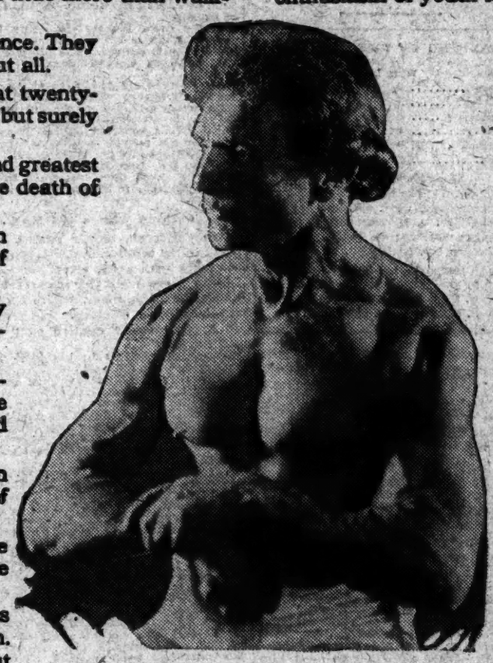
This is figuratively as well as physiologically true. Minute cells that make up our organism are continually coming and going. Dead cells are carried off more speedily if the body is active. They stagnate and accumulate and make us but little better than a walking cemetery if we are lazy, indifferent and careless.

While you are living, make a good job of it. LIVE in every sense of the word.

See that the forces of life are throbbing with the elements of superb vitality to your very finger tips.

You cannot stand still. You must go forward or backward. If you are not living you are dying. If your body is carrying around a heavy load of dead cells due to muscular inactivity, dissipation, overeating, etc.,—you are dying every day.

And funeral services ought to be held frequently at least by yourself to bemoan the loss of character, enthusiasm, loyalty and many other good things that pass out of your life.



Bernarr Macfadden as he is today "fighting fit at fifty-five"

What are you doing to postpone your funeral? Ask yourself this question right now. And unless you are thoroughly satisfied with the answer you can truthfully make, stop at the nearest newsstand and ask for the

Don't Be An Oyster

It was no part of nature's scheme to have you grow soft and flabby from sitting behind a desk all day. If it had been she would have furnished you with a shell to protect your flabby softness as she did the oyster. If your work is sedentary you must exercise or be a shellless oyster at the mercy of the first ill-natured germ that comes along. Ten minutes of exercise each day will make you as hard as nails. In PHYSICAL CULTURE for November is a series of exercises personally posed and described by Bernarr Macfadden for men and women leading sedentary lives. Be sure and read "Fighting Fit at Fifty-five" with its splendid illustrations and see what a small amount of the right sort of exercise will do for you.

Fat Folks Die Young?

If you are overly fat you must do one of two things—reduce or diel Hard words but true. Check up for yourself by counting all the fat men and women of your acquaintance who have reached an age of seventy, eighty or ninety years. The answer is—zero, because each, swathed in his shroud of fat, passed on to the undertaker years and years before his time.

Chief Justice Taft saw the handwriting on the wall. When he was president he weighed 350 lbs. His present weight is 250 lbs. and will undoubtedly grow less.

Why people become fat, how fat kills and how anyone who wants to can reduce, are all carefully and scientifically explained in finest detail by Travis Hoke in his masterly article entitled "Why Fat People Die Young."

"Why I Will Look 30 at 50"

Mrs. Frank C. Henderson is forty-seven years old—and she doesn't look a day over thirty. Last year, in competition with debutantes she took first prize for the most perfect figure at a prominent costume ball. Her hair is as thick and luminously brown as in her girlhood days, her eyes retain all their fire and brilliancy and she hasn't a wrinkle on her face. Her system for retaining her youthful appearance, if such a simple programme can be called a system, is so entirely reasonable that the minute you read it you will know it will do for you what it has done for her.

"Insulin for Diabetes"

During the last decade you have seen a dozen or more great medical theories rise over-night—some like mushrooms, wholesome and beneficial, others like toadstools, poisonous, harmful and misleading. Which is insulin? Over a million diabetics and other millions of prospective diabetics would like to know. Read Dr. Bowers' article in Physical Culture for November and see just what can be expected of the insulin treatment.

Welker Cochran sprang one of the big surprises of the billiard season when he defeated Willie Hoppe, the champion, in the fifth game of the international 18.2 balkline billiard championship at the Hotel Pennsylvania last night. Cochran was at his best and by a beautiful exhibition of billiards, simply crushed the champion, winning his second game of the tournament and handing Hoppe his first defeat since he lost to young Jake Schaefer in a challenge match for the title in Chicago on March 29, 1922.

Cochran won by the score of 500 to 230 in 16 innings.

It is not the worst defeat that Hoppe ever has sustained, for Schaefer defeated Hoppe by 400 to 26 in the final game of the first international championship in Chicago on Nov. 23, 1921, tied Hoppe for the lead in the tournament and earned the right to meet him in the play-off for the title. Schaefer then won the championship by beating Hoppe in the play-off on Nov. 24, 1921. In 1912 Hoppe was beaten by Koji Yamada, the Japanese, by three points.

Cochran won in overwhelming fashion, breaking the high run and high average marks in the tournament. He made a run of 146 in the eleventh inning, 25 better than Hagenlacher's run of 121 against Hoppe the opening night, and went out in sixteen innings for an average of 31.4-16, which is the average of 26.6-19 in the second highest.

Last night's match was the second shortest of the tournament thus far, lasting two hours and thirty-five minutes, ten minutes shorter than the afternoon match, in which Eric Hagenlacher of Germany defeated Roger Conti of France, 500 points to 131. Although shorter in duration in point of time, the afternoon match went to twenty-two innings. Hagenlacher had an average of 22.6-22 and a high run of 114.

Cochran Leads in Tourney.

As a result of his victory Cochran takes the lead in the tournament standing with two games won and none lost. Conti was his other victim in a close match that was decided at 500 to 457. Schaefer is second in the standing, with one game won and none lost, and Hoppe is tied with Hagenlacher for third with one won and one lost.

Cochran deserved to win last night's game aside from the fact that Hoppe played poorly. The Californian gave a fine exhibition of balkline billiards after the first six innings, showing masterly skill as a nurser and holding the balls together for five large successive runs.

From the seventh inning through the eleventh, Cochran ran 431 caroms for an average of 86 1-5. He made 86 in the seventh, and then in succession ran 80, 46, 65 and 146. It looked as though the game would come to an end in the eleventh inning when the Los Angeles player was in the midst of his run that broke the tournament record. He had the balls rolling with such sureness of touch that it seemed likely that he would go on and get the 62 more caroms needed for 500.

From the manner in which the two players started out there was little indication of the surprise that was to be furnished or of the two records that were to be established for the tourney. In the first six innings Cochran's total was 17. He drew blanks in the first, third and fifth innings and got a 4 in the sixth and a 2 in the fourth.

Hoppe's total for the first six innings was 85—poor, but still three times that of his opponent. Whereas the champion continued to play poorly to the end, save for a few innings, Cochran found his touch and played the best stretch of billiards in the tournament.

The defeat does not necessarily mean the elimination of Hoppe. He still has three games left to play, and in the event of winning all three while Cochran suffers a setback it may result in a two-cornered, and possibly a three-cornered tie.

Hoppe Gains Early Lead.

The evening game began at 8:10. Cochran won the bank and chose the spot ball. He missed on the opening shot and left the balls scattered. Hoppe got them together at the head of the table by the eighth carom, but it was not until the twentieth shot, after making a massé that he employed the nurse. The champion made a second massé on the twenty-ninth, and then, with the balls well gathered, for what seemed to be a good run, he miscalculated on a simple one-cushion shot.

Cochran missed on a draw shot after running four, and left the balls spread wide. Two caroms were all that Hoppe could collect, and then he failed on a two-cushion affair. Cochran drew a blank and left the balls lined up and down the table. Hoppe added five to his total and failed to solve a bank shot.

Cochran put two on his fourth turn at the table, and his total was 6. He left the ivories wide apart. Hoppe did likewise when he failed on his first shot in his half of the fourth.

Cochran drew his second blank in the fifth inning and left the champion with a three-cushion shot. Hoppe made the carom. On his third shot he sent the cue ball around the table for a pretty gather in the right hand corner of the upper end of the table. Scores that the champion had found himself felt when he failed on a single-cushion angle shot after running 18.

Cochran ran 11 in the sixth inning. He failed to get the angle on a two-cushion shot on the twelfth carom. Hoppe, after making a cross-the-table-shot, failed on an around-the-table affair on the second. He led at 95 to 17.

Cochran played pretty billiards in the seventh, making every variety of shot. He used the cushions cleverly on the fifth carom, massed on the ninth, negotiated a difficult cross-the-table shot on the eleventh and then gathered the balls on the lone rail near the foot of the table for a nursing session. He got into a line-up on the forty-sixth carom, with the red ball eighteen inches away from the cue and the white ball, which was almost frozen. Loud applause followed when he made the shot.

After a few open table shots Cochran collected the ivories at the head of the table and continued his run to 80, then brought them down to the other end for 15 more. His ninety-fifth carom left his in a difficult position in balk and he failed on a single cushion shot.

Cochran's deftness of stroking on his rail shots enabled him to get perfect position and brought forth frequent applause from the gallery. He showed a superior brand of billiards in this inning to that which the champion had played, and when Hoppe drew a blank in his half of the inning, his second in the game, it was evident that Hoppe must steel himself soon if he was to win. The score now was 112 to 55 in Cochran's favor.

Cochran made a second good run in the eighth. He started with an open table shot, got out of a freeze in the nineteenth and employed the massé on the twenty-ninth, fifty-sixth, seventy-seventh and eightieth caroms. He missed on the eighty-first shot on an around-the-table shot off the white ball, nursing the red ball in the corner by the fraction of an inch.

Hoppe drew his second blank in succession and his third in the game, leaving the balls spread. The score was now 193 to 55 in Cochran's favor in eight innings.

Cochran brought his total to 237 in the ninth inning with a run of 45. He failed on a difficult massé off the white ball in the upper left-hand corner, with the red ball eighteen inches away.

Hoppe got one 3, making a total of 74 for the last four innings. It looked serious for the title-holder when he overdrew on a one-foot draw shot, the score being 237 to 58 against him in nine innings.

Cochran Passes 300 Mark.

The California player passed the 300 mark in the tenth inning, stopping at the 303 mark with a run of 65. Most of his caroms were collected along the right line of the free space, where he nursed the balls with delicacy. He fell down on a short single cushion shot on the sixty-sixth.

Hoppe opened up in his half of this inning and brought off a continuous succession of pretty shots that had the gallery applauding. It was only for a short time, however. Inability to get the balls in close proximity and to keep them there brought his run to a halt at 29. He missed on a draw shot. The score was now 302 to 67 in Cochran's favor in ten innings.

Cochran threatened to run out in the eleventh inning. With little of the spectacular entering into it the Los Angeles player ran 146 caroms, breaking the high run record for this tournament of 121, made by Eric Hagenlacher against Hoppe in the opening game and bringing his total to 448.

Hoppe, dangerously close to defeat, ran 48 in his half of the eleventh. He got into all sorts of difficulties, and to get out of one made the most loudly applauded shot of the game. Cheers greeted his free-hand massé draw for his twenty-fifth carom. He was frozen on the forty-seventh and missed after the balls had been spotted. The score was now 448 to 67 against him.

Cochran drew a blank in the twelfth. Hoppe got 34, missing on a cross-the-table shot. Cochran found the balls scattered and got but 2 in the thirteenth. Hoppe made only 1, failing to solve a draw-up.

Cochran brought his total to 471 in the fourteenth, failing on a long follow shot. Hoppe missed a three-cushion shot by a wide margin after running 4 and the score was 471 to 172 in Cochran's favor.

Cochran got only a single carom in the fifteenth inning. The champion then came to the table and gave his best exhibition of close line nursing of the night. He found the balls gathered at the head of the table and it was there that he held them for the greater part of his high run of 58. Cochran ran out the necessary 28, making several open table shots at the end.

The score by innings:

Cochran—0 4 0 2 0 17 95 80 45 65 146 0 2 21 1 28. Total—500; average 31 4-16; high run 146.

Hoppe—29 2 5 0 18 1 0 0 3 29 46 34 1 4 55. Total—230; average 15 5-15; high run 55.

Hagenlacher Defeats Conti.

Ehrich Hagenlacher of Germany won his first game in tournament play since he came to the United States more than a year ago when he defeated Roger Conti of France in the fourth game in the tournament yesterday afternoon. Hagenlacher was responsible for the first upset of the tournament, for Conti was the favorite. Hagenlacher won easily, triumphing by 500 to 131 in twenty-two innings. He had a high run of 121 and his average was 22 18-22. Conti's best effort was 72 runs and his average was 18 7-25. The defeat, his second in two days, practically ended Conti's championship hopes.

It was the fastest game played thus far, consuming only 2 hours and 50 minutes. The failure of Conti to do much scoring did much to shorten the game, for in the first three games each of the losing men totaled more than 400 points. Hagenlacher was in excellent stroke, while Conti at no time was in the game. He was unable to assert any control over the ivories and his efforts at gathers were feeble. His playing at times seemed indifferent, which was much in contrast to the work of Hagenlacher, who played seriously every minute he was at the table and overlooked nothing that would add to his point total. He displayed skill at the line nurse and with the massé, while his judgment of speed and of the cushions was splendid.

Hagenlacher made no sensational sports, but his game was consistent. Twice during the match he drew applause, once when he executed a difficult massé in the centre of the table with his left hand, and again when he made a one-cushion bank shot when the balls were lined up in the centre of the table. It was necessary for him to use a half massé in order to bring the cue ball back from the cushion. His judgment of English and of speed was perfect on this shot.

Hagenlacher was in the lead from the first inning to the finish, and at no time was he ever in danger. He picked up points regularly, while Conti fell down regularly. In the first eighteen innings he made only 69 points, giving him an average of less than 4. Conti rallied a little in the nineteenth and twentieth innings, when the two frames netted him a total of 85 points. During each of these runs Conti flashed his best form of the afternoon and seemed well on the way to some real scoring, when first a one-cushion follow failed and next a one-cushion massé stopped progress. He left Hagenlacher well after each miss.

The score by innings:

Hagenlacher, 12 0 28 0 0 7 11 18 0 10 0 21 9 19 13 0 29 0 114 10 0 3 17. Total, 500. High run, 114. Average, 22 16-22.

Conti, 0 2 2 4 21 4 2 0 5 1 0 1 6 3 0 0 1 3 34 21. Total, 131. High run, 34. Average, 6 1-21.

Billiard Results.

Two more games were played last night in the Manhattan three-cushion billiard championship tournament now in progress at the Recreation Billiard Academy, Manhattan. In the first game R. J. Rook defeated F. J. Faeder 25 to 23, in fifty-two innings of play. Although losing the contest Faeder had a high run of four to that of three for Rook. The second game resulted in a victory for Frank Beegan, who beat Morris Bloomgarten, 23 to 21, in sixty-two innings. Both men turned in high runs of three.

Erwin Rudolph, New York's representative in the national championship Pocket Billiard League tournament, won two more games yesterday when he defeated Charles (Cowboy) Weston in the afternoon by a score of 200 to 66, and in the evening by a score of 100 to 37. Rudolph won the first game rather easily in twenty-four innings, and had a high run of twenty. Weston's best run in this game was a cluster of fifteen. In the evening game Rudolph was at top form and scored his 100 points in ten innings, getting a high run of thirty-seven to his opponent's four-teen.

Lack of Funds Causes Greece To Drop Out of Olympic Games

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Greece has decided not to send a team to Paris for the 1924 Olympic Games and has so advised the French Olympic Committee. The financial consideration involved is the reason for the Greek abstention. Thus the country which was the cradle of the Olympic Games and the originator of the Marathon race will not be represented at the seventh revival of the games.

ROWING REQUEST REJECTED ABROAD

French Olympic Body Refuses Plea of U. S. to Defer Events Two Weeks.

DATES SET BACK 3 DAYS

Races to Be Held July 13-17, Committee Announces—Emergency Crew Must Be Assembled.

Keen disappointment was expressed yesterday among America's leading oarsmen and rowing officials upon receipt by the American Olympic Committee of advice from Secretary Frantz-Reichel of the French Olympic Committee that the application of the United States for a delay in the dates of the Olympic games rowing events had been rejected. Urgent requests by the officials of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, supported by the American Olympic Committee, were made that the Olympic rowing events be deferred for at least two weeks to enable America to muster its strongest crew. A cablegram from abroad, received yesterday by Secretary Frederick W. Rubien of the American Olympic Committee, stated that the rowing regatta at the Olympic games would take place July 13-17 inclusive.

This is a change of three days in the original dates. Originally the regatta was scheduled for July 10 to 14. The change, however, does not affect the situation in relation to this country. It only helps English crews which are to compete in the Henley regatta on July 1 to 4, from which they can go direct to Paris for the Olympic regatta. America, therefore, is confronted with the prospect of being represented by a squad of oarsmen who will simply be the best available in an emergency—not the foremost oarsmen of the country—according to view of an American Olympic Committee official. Even if the country is represented by a crack crew the oarsmen will not be in the best of condition, this official asserted.

The N. A. A. A. O. regatta usually is conducted about the middle of August. Climatic conditions make it almost impossible for American oarsmen to attain their best form as early as the middle of June, which will be necessary if the country is to be represented in the Olympic rowing events, because the team is scheduled to sail on June 18 and it will be necessary to conduct the elimination and qualifying trials prior to the sailing date. There is no indication as yet that a general advancement of rowing dates will be effected to meet the situation and put a formidable American squad in the boats at the Olympic games. As a matter of fact, it is the view of Olympic officials here that it will be impracticable to advance rowing dates and hold Olympic tryouts inside of June, which advancement would seriously interfere with important and long-established rowing fixtures in this country.

The task of developing an Olympic rowing squad, under the circumstances, probably will be made the most loudly applauded shot of the game. Cheers greeted his free-hand massé draw for his twenty-fifth carom. He was frozen on the forty-seventh and missed after the balls had been spotted. The score was now 448 to 67 against him.

Cochran drew a blank in the twelfth. Hoppe got 34, missing on a cross-the-table shot. Cochran found the balls scattered and got but 2 in the thirteenth. Hoppe made only 1, failing to solve a draw-up.

Cochran brought his total to 471 in the fourteenth, failing on a long follow shot. Hoppe missed a three-cushion shot by a wide margin after running 4 and the score was 471 to 172 in Cochran's favor.

Richey Coming to New York; Denies He Will Trade Hornsby

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—Dick Kinsella, scout for the New York Giants, held a conference with Sam Breadon, President of the local Nationals today, but efforts to ascertain whether a deal involving Rogers Hornsby was discussed were unavailing. Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals, stated, however, that he did not attend the conference and if any trades were considered Breadon would first consult him. Rickey said he would go East next week, stopping at New York, Boston and Pittsburgh, in connection with business of the club, but denied his mission would be to get a trade involving Hornsby.

AIMS TO REGULATE COLLEGE ATHLETICS

N. C. A. A. to Discuss Standardizing Control of Sports at Meeting in Atlanta Dec. 27 and 28.

A plan for the standardization of the administration of athletics in American colleges is expected to be adopted at the next annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which will be held this year on Dec. 27 and 28 at Atlanta, Ga. An announcement of the meeting, issued yesterday by Brig. Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, President of the N. C. A. A., stated that this topic would form the chief subject for discussion at the Atlanta session.

The announcement pointed out that a wide diversity existed in the attempts of the college Faculties to exert control and direction necessary to fit physical training and competitive athletics into the general program of education. This diversity, the announcement said, is glaringly reflected in the records of the proceedings at the last two meetings of the organization. Definite recommendations to improve the situation are expected to come from the discussion at the Atlanta conference. President Angell of Yale, Professor Savage of Oberlin and Professor Dawson of the Springfield Training School are scheduled to lead the discussion on the subject.

While the standardization of athletic administration in the colleges is scheduled as the chief subject for discussion at the Atlanta gathering, it will not be the only subject discussed. This is indicated in the reference in the announcement to the decision of the N. C. A. A. to devote some attention to Olympic Games affairs. The collegiate organization plans particularly to discuss the matter of dates for the final Olympic tryouts. The American Olympic Committee, at its recent meeting in the Hotel Astor, selected June 13 and 14 as the dates for the decisive trials in track and field sport and Harvard Stadium at Cambridge as the scene of the final tryouts. These dates, according to the announcement of President Pierce, "will seriously interfere with the track and field games of many of the colleges of our association." An effort is to be made to reach a solution of this problem with will be satisfactory to the colleges which are members of the N. C. A. A. In his announcement, President Pierce discloses plans for further consideration of Olympic Games affairs, as follows:

"Another question of great importance that is likely to be considered is whether or not the American Olympic Committee has sole jurisdiction on all matters pertaining to the participation of the United States in the Olympic Games, and whether not any citizen of the United States who is an amateur athlete and desires to compete for a place on a team will be privileged to do so. At a meeting of your Executive Committee on Oct. 12 it was decided advisable to urge the Olympic Executive Committee to adopt a resolution embodying the last mentioned principle for its guidance."

TIGERS SCORE 7 TIMES.

Roll Up Four Touchdowns on Omelettes and Three on Freshmen.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—Scrimmage lasted almost all afternoon on University Field today as Coach Roper put the Tigers through a hard workout against the Omelettes and then against the Freshmen eleven. From the two teams the varsity gathered seven touchdowns, but it was on the offensive most of the time with the exception of a few minutes when the yearlings took the ball and unleashed an aerial attack which threatened to sweep the regulars back to their own goal line. One of the tosses was finally intercepted by Dick Newby after the Freshmen had rushed the ball almost 70 yards to the varsity 10-yard mark. After this, Roper's first string men went on the offensive. Shad Davis, freshman coach, was especially anxious to give his charges a good workout on account of their game with the Yale yearlings on Saturday, and they proved to be a real test for the varsity. In addition to flashing a good ground-gaining game, they spotted the varsity plays in good shape and only yielded the three scores after a long session.

These three touchdowns fell to Crum and Legendre, with the former making two of them. One of the features of the scrimmage was a beautiful tackle by Ewing of the freshmen, brother of Johnny Ewing, star varsity defensive back, who got Johnny Gorman from behind after the latter had run 35 yards and had a clear field ahead of him.

COLUMBIA IN SCRIMMAGE.

Echavarria Makes Only Score on Juniors in Half-Hour Drill.

Percy Haughton continued to hammer away at his varsity eleven in a stiff scrimmage workout with the junior team at Baker Field yesterday, keeping this part of the afternoon's program going a half hour before he let up. After that the juniors stayed on the field and grappled with the B team of the varsity squad, all the substitutes who were not in the first scrimmage getting a chance in the second.

Echavarria, who has been understudying Pease at quarterback since the latter slipped into the position recently, scored the only varsity touchdown in the first scrimmage. He relieved Pease during the set-to and carried the ball over. Captain Walter Koppisch was in uniform and did his share of the scrimmaging without showing any ill effects from his injured ankle. Haughton will have his regular line-up ready to throw against Middlebury on Saturday.

STARS IN STADIUM GAME.

Former West Point Players to Be on Army Corps Team Saturday.

Many stars of former years will be seen in action when the Third Army Corps football team meets the Argonauts of Canada in what promises to be a fast game at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday. The military eleven is made up for the most part of players who formerly performed on West Point combinations, several players of note being in the line-up.

Timberlake, who scored the touchdown that defeated the Navy in the memorable battle at Philadelphia last Fall, will be at his old position of right halfback, while Dodd, who was also one of the Army's stars in 1922 when he was rated as one of the best defensive backs on Eastern gridirons, will be at the other half. Noyes, who shone brightly as an open field runner at the Naval Academy a few seasons ago, will run the team from quarterback. In the line will be Greene, captain of the Military Academy eleven of two years ago; Knight and von Schilling, two powerful tackles in their college days; White, who played end for the West Pointers for three years, and Breidster, captain of last year's Army team.

KREBS WINS TWICE IN GARDEN TOURNEY

Stops Lamb in First Round of 160-Pound Final—Beats Zamba in 175-Pound Class.

HELPS CLUB TAKE TROPHY

Rinker Physical Culture Club Gets Team Prize—3,000 See Met. A. A. U. Bouts.

Fred Krebs of the Rinker Physical Culture Club, New Jersey State amateur boxing champion at 160 pounds, was the star performer last night in the finals of the Metropolitan A. A. U. tournament at Madison Square Garden. A crowd of about 3,000 spectators saw Krebs batter his way to victory in both the 160-pound and 175-pound classes in a convincing manner. With his victories in these two classes Krebs, single-handed, won for his club the team trophy offered to the club finishing the tournament with the greatest number of points.

Krebs's triumph gave the Rinker organization ten tallies. The Glencoe A. C. was second with six points. The La Rabida Council, Knights of Columbus, Trinity Club, Buffalo A. C. and Beecher's Gymnasium each scored five points. The Pastime A. C. and John J. Coughlin Club had three points each, and the Centro Vario Club, Lithuanian A. C. and Yoerger's Boxing Club each finished the tournament with one tally.

Krebs's victory in each class left no room for doubt. In the 160-pound division the New Jersey titleholder knocked out Joseph Lamb, Glencoe A. C. boxer, in one round. A right to the jaw crumpled Lamb on the canvas after two minutes and forty-two seconds of action in the first round and Referee Tommy Smith stopped the bout, convinced that Lamb was on the verge of a knockout. The crowd did not agree with Smith in this action and voiced its disapproval. Many at the ringside however, supported the action of Referee Smith.

In the light heavyweight class Krebs was forced through three rounds before he gained the judges' decision over Andy Zamba, unattached boxer. Zamba had the advantage in height, weight and reach, but the speed of Krebs's attack overcame these handicaps for the New Jersey champion and he scored easily on points.

Jack Donahue, La Rabida Council, Knights of Columbus, won the prize in the 118-pound class when he knocked out Austin Malone, Glencoe A. C., in two rounds. In the 138-pound division Buddy Spudds, Buffalo A. C., was the victor. He knocked out Albert Daniel in two rounds. Louis Karp, Beecher's Gymnasium, won the decision over Joseph Canamare, Glencoe A. C., in the 147-pound class final.

The summaries:

112-Pound Class, Semi-Final Round—Joe Condoni, Sunset Settlement Club, defeated Dave Druss, Kingsway Club, three rounds, judges' decision; Santy Scargiati, St. Lucy Catholic Club, drew a bye.

Final Round—Scargiati defeated Condoni, three rounds, judges' decision.

118-Pound Class, Final Round—Jack Donohue, La Rabida Council, Knights of Columbus, knocked out Austin Malone, Glencoe A. C., two rounds.

126-Pound Class, Semi-Final Round—Carl Henry, Pastime A. C., knocked out Donato Vitatane, Centre Vario Club, two rounds; Sam Davis, Trinity Club, defeated Sam Blank, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision.

Final Round—Davis defeated Henry, four rounds, judges' decision.

138-Pound Class, Semi-Final Round—Johnny Peter, John J. Coughlin Association, knocked out Albert Daniel, unattached, two rounds.

Final Round—Buddy Spudds, Buffalo, knocked out Peter, two rounds.

147-Pound Class, Semi-Final Round—Joseph Canamare, Glencoe A. C., knocked out Vincent Kaye, Lithuania A. C., one round; Louis Karp, William Beecher's Gymnasium, defeated Jack Malmund, Yoerger's Boxing School, three rounds, judges' decision.

Final Round—Karp defeated Canamare, three rounds, judges' decision.

160-Pound Class, Final Round—Fred Krebs, Rinker Physical Culture Club, knocked out Joseph Lamb, Glencoe A. C., one round.

175-Pound Class, Final Round—Fred Krebs, Rinker Physical Culture Club, defeated Andy Zamba, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision.

130-Pound Class, Special Bout—Patsy Ruffale, St. Anselm's Club, knocked out Robert Schappare, Pastime A. C., two rounds.

PENN HOLDS SIGNAL DRILL.

Squad Will Finish Training at Atlantic City for Pitt Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—In the last home drill before the annual battle with Glenn Warner's Pitt team, Coach Lou Young took his Penn varsity, second varsity and the rest of the squad down to River Field this afternoon. At 1:45 tomorrow afternoon the varsity squad and coaches will leave for the Seaview Golf Club near Atlantic City. There the team will remain until Saturday morning, arriving at the training house an hour or two before the Pitt clash.

Nothing more strenuous than a long signal drill, supplemented by some individual instructions, was given Captain Hamer's varsity squad today, although the second varsity scrimmaged with the Drexel Institute team and scored two touchdowns.

The varsity backfield was the same as in the Centre College game, with Dern at quarter, McGraw and Thomas the halfbacks and Hamer fullback. Papworth and McGinley alternated at right guard and Stephens changed places with Westgate at end several times during the afternoon. It is believed that Stephens will start against Pitt.

NAVY WORKS ON PASSES.

Ballinger Replaces Barchet and Takes Throwing End of Plays.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 31.—Folwell gave his Navy charges a long drill in both offensive and defensive tactics today but did not hold a scrimmage. Most of the work pertained to the forward pass, the varsity trying a number of these plays repeatedly and also being drilled in breaking them up. Ballinger, who took Barchet's place this afternoon, did most of the passing. He may start Saturday against Colgate, as he passes and hits the line well, besides has ability as a drop-kicker. Cullen, Shapley and Devens completed the backfield.

Brant and Shewell again occupied the tackle positions instead of Clyde and Walker, who had been the first choices for previous games. It is probable that the former pair will start against Colgate. Brown and Swart alternated at right end. The latter is a very strong and active youth and has advanced rapidly under the coaching of Eddie Ewen.

Both Georgetown and Bucknell, opponents of the Naval Academy who have not appeared on the Navy's schedule for a season or two, are anxious to resume football relations next year and have made overtures.

SNOW STOPS COLGATE.

Storm Forces Harlow to Suspend Practice for Navy Game.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 31.—A blinding snowstorm swept over Whitnall Field at Colgate today, necessitating the calling off of football practice for three-quarters of an hour. The temperature was near the freezing point, and Coach Dick Harlow was afraid that somebody would be seriously injured if scrimmage were continued. When the storm stopped toward night practice was continued on the snow-covered field.

In commenting upon the Navy game Saturday Coach Harlow said that he knew from experience that the Middies were always the hardest playing team in the country, and he was very skeptical of Colgate's chances. Bad weather has seriously hindered Colgate's practice all this week, and as a result the Maroon eleven will go into the game against the Navy not in the best condition.

Want All Swimming Titles Decided at One A. A. U. Meet

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Lost and forgotten through the national championships of two years, the half-mile swim title of the National Amateur Athletic Union today was the subject of a search by local officials, after discovery by the program makers for next season that the event had been lost during the competition of 1922 and 1923. The event was assigned to the Southern Pacific A. A. U. for 1923, but was not run off. Sponsors of a new plan to hold the National A. A. U. swimming championships for all events simultaneously in one great tank tourney have seized the missing swims as an argument in behalf of their suggestion. Under the present arrangement the championships are decided in separate events at scattered points between Honolulu and Bangor. The one-big-swim idea will be presented at the annual convention of the National A. A. U. in Detroit, beginning Nov. 18, according to present plans.

CORNELL TO LEAVE FOR HANOVER TODAY

Doble Pessimistic as Dartmouth Game Approaches—Pfann Stars in Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Following a short defensive drill today, the Cornell varsity was suddenly shifted to offensive play and for an hour the Big Red team hit it up in the fastest practice of the past ten days.

As the eleven starts for Hanover tomorrow, today's workout was the last severe drill before the Dartmouth game, and it found the Ithacans apparently in fine shape for what all reports will be a strenuous battle. Coach Doble was pessimistic as usual, seeing nothing ahead but misfortune, but it will be a formidable machine that faces Dartmouth.

For the most part the Ithacans stuck to straight football in today's drill. Pfann directing against the second and third teams a mixture of off-tackle drives, end runs, with a few short side plunges, and an occasional delayed pass. Rumors have spread about town that, like in the Colgate game, Doble has a surprise in store for Dartmouth, but if he has, it has been worked out in secret.

Ramsey and Cassidy were effective in line drives tonight and Patterson traveled fast around the ends. As usual, Captain Pfann was the central figure in the varsity's attack, his running, kicking and occasional passing being features. Sundstrom tried a number of goals from the field with fair success.

DARTMOUTH SHOWS POWER.

Scores Three Times on Scrubs, Which Uses Cornell Plays.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 31.—In a snappy half-hour scrimmage this afternoon under ideal weather conditions, the Dartmouth varsity scored three times against the second and third teams, which used Cornell plays, Phil Coykendall, scrub halfback, broke away, however, with a forward pass and raced for a touchdown. Outside of the scoring pass, the scrub teams were unable to penetrate the varsity line, while the regulars appeared to have little difficulty in gaining. Roy Kelley, star halfback, played an exceptional game today, breaking away for 55 and 40 yard runs, and Haws made two touchdowns.

The probable line-up for the game will be: Bjorkman and Hagenbuckle, ends; Oberlander and Haich, tackles; Diehl and Aschenbach, guards; Ellis, centre; Dooley, Kelley, Haws and Leavitt, backs.

EPINARD IS BEATEN IN CAMBRIDGESHIRE

Verdict, in Receipt of 18 Pounds, Defeats French Colt by a Neck at Newmarket.

PARIS STUNNED BY RESULT

But Declares Race Proved Epinard to Be Greatest Three-Year-Old in the World.

NEW MARKET, England, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—Verdict, owned by Lord Coventry, won the Cambridgeshire Stakes of £1,000 with extras, run here today. Pierre Wertheimer's Epinard was second and G. Hardy's Dumas was third. Twenty-three horses ran.

Verdict, by Shogun, out of Finale, won by a neck. A length separated the second and third horses. The betting was: Verdict, 100 to 7 against; Epinard, 8 to 1 against, and Dumas, 7 to 1 against.

The victory of Verdict over Epinard spoiled a betting coup for which the owner of the latter had carefully laid his plans. Wertheimer stood to win £210,000 if Epinard had won today without having risked a cent of his own money. He won £30,000 on Rose Prince in the Cesarewitch Stakes on Oct. 17, and these winnings were wagered by prearrangement at 6 to 1 on Epinard for today's race.

The race aroused more than the usual interest from the fact that it was practically a duel between the French horse Epinard, with the top weight of 126 pounds, and a bunch of exceedingly good English horses with less weight. Dumas, which ran third, carrying only eighty-six pounds, and Verdict, the winner, 110 pounds.

Epinard had been the favorite for several weeks, being backed to win something like a half million pounds sterling for his French admirers and connections. It was only by a neck that the crack French three-year-old failed to carry off the prize and eclipse the record for this race held by Foxhall Keene's horse Foxhall, which won in 1881, carrying 126 pounds.

Paris Backed Epinard Heavily.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—"Epinard is beaten!" was the shout of consternation that arose from the immense crowds on the boulevards congregated before the newspaper offices when the news of the defeat of the crack French three-year-old in the Cambridgeshire Stakes was flashed shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon. The popular distress was apparently even greater than when Jack Dempsey knocked out Georges Carpentier. The rank and file was touched deeper in the pockets, as the race followers in France had played Epinard to win pretty much as if the race returns were already in.

The announcement was received more philosophically at the Jockey Club, where solace was found in the idea that the result of the race proved Epinard to be the best three-year-old in the world. The French experts reached this opinion by lining up these facts: Epinard finished twenty lengths ahead of Pharos, which was second by a length to Papyrus in the Derby at Epsom, while Zev's margin over Papyrus was five lengths, giving Epinard a margin of several lengths in front of America's best.

Johnny Reiff, the jockey, said Epinard had shown, by giving every horse in the race from seven to forty-two pounds, that he could beat any three-year-old in training the world over at a mile at even weights.

MOORE AND MEYERS WIN.

Capture Team Skating Race for 181st Street Ice Palace.

Joe Moore, international ice skating champion, and Eddie Meyers, representing the 181st Street Ice Palace, scored their second victory over the Iceland team of Leslie Boyd and Paul Forsman in the one-mile team match race feature of the speed skating program at the 181st Street Ice Palace last night. The winning team's time for the distance was 3:14. In the first match race between these two teams, held Wednesday night at Iceland, Moore won from Forsman by the narrow margin of a foot, but last night the indoor champion won with ease.

Meyers led off for the 181st Street team and held his advantage over Forsman for the first half mile when Moore relieved the leader and Boyd replaced Forsman. Moore gave Boyd the lead and trailed him until, within five laps of the finish, when Moore started sprinting. Three laps from the finish Boyd fell down and Forsman jumped in and finished the race, but Moore meanwhile had opened up a lead of fifteen yards and won easily.

The half mile girls' team race went to the Iceland team of Miss Elsie Muller and Miss Mildred Trusiow, who won by a ten-yard margin over Miss Marjorie Dose and Miss Peggy Conaty, representing the 181st Street rink. The winning team covered the distance in 1:48 1-5.

NOT AN ISSUE FOR LANDIS.

So Says Ban Johnson Regarding Shocker's Appeal to Commissioner.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—Ban Johnson, President of the American League, who was in St. Louis today, expressed the opinion that the difference between Urban Shocker, star pitcher, and officials of the American League club here was a matter between club and player, explaining that he did not believe it was an issue that called for adjudication by Commissioner Landis.

Shocker has appealed to Landis to declare him a free agent as a result of his suspension for violating a club regulation.

It was stated that Manager George Sisler probably would play next year, if his defect in vision was improving rapidly.

HUGGINS IS CHEERED.

Speaks at Fathers and Sons' Dinner in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31.—Miller Huggins, who led the New York Yankees to the world's baseball championship, made his first public appearance in his home city today, when he attended a fathers and sons' dinner at the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce. He was greeted with cheers when he urged the boys always to be imbued with the spirit of fair play, and asserted that just such a spirit made the team he managed a successful one.

YANKEES SIGN GASTON.

Obtain Pitcher Who Has Won Eight Games From Big League Teams.

The Yankees yesterday announced the signing of Milton Gaston, right-hand pitcher of the Paterson Silk Sox. He is a brother of Catcher Alex Gaston of the Giants, and has shown great form during the last season, defeating several of the leading American and National League teams.

His record against major league clubs during the last three years is eight victories and four defeats.

Reds and Indians Arrange Games.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 31.—The Cleveland American League team will play the Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati the Saturday and Sunday before the opening of the 1924 major league season E. S. Exterminator to Be Entered In $40,000 Coffroth Handicap

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 31.—A telegram received here by J. P. Atkin, general manager of the Tijuana Jockey Club, from C. W. Primrose, a representative of the club in the East, advises that Exterminator, one of America's greatest distance running geldings, will be shipped to Tijuana for the race season which will be opened Thanksgiving Day. Willis Sharpe Kilmer, owner of Exterminator, has advised Primrose, according to the telegram, that the runner will be nominated for the $40,000 Coffroth Handicap at 1¼ miles and the $10,000 Tijuana Cup, a race of two miles.

CALIFORNIA TO SEE REVIVAL OF RACING

First Meeting in State in Seventeen Years to Open on Saturday at Tanforan Track.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—More than 500 thoroughbreds are here for the opening of the new Tanforan race track on Saturday, when horse racing will be revived in California after a lapse of seventeen years, according to John D. Stelling, secretary of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club. Tanforan is known as the "betless track." The officials of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club announce there will be no betting at Tanforan, "either inside or out."

The Tanforan plant, valued at $1,000,000, will accommodate 600 horses, and more than 50,000 spectators are expected for the opening day.

Tanforan's racing season will cover twenty-five days, with six races each day, from this Saturday to Dec. 1, Sundays excepted. Nine stake events have been announced, seven having $2,000 purses and two having $3,000 purses. Purses of not less than $800 will be offered for each of the other races, the management has announced.

Horses from New York, Kentucky, Michigan, West Virginia, Wyoming, Washington, Colorado, California and Nevada are here to participate in the twenty-five day meet. Morvich, Chatterton, Bon Homme, Prince Til Til, War Cry and a host of other famed thoroughbreds are having daily tryouts on the new track.

While officials of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club have announced that no betting will be permitted at Tanforan, no plan has been announced telling how gambling will be prevented. Rudolph Spreckels, Vice President of the club, stated that a "well-defined plan has been prepared which will prevent betting on horses at Tanforan." This plan, Mr. Spreckels said, will apply "either inside or out of the Tanforan track."

The directors of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club are: C. K. G. Billings, Thomas Fortune Ryan, A. King Mathombert, A. B. Spreckels, Rudolph Spreckels, Frank J. Kelley and Herbert Fleishhacker.

The nine stake events scheduled for the racing season will be run as follows:

Nov. 3—Inaugural Handicap; one mile and a sixteenth; for three-year-olds and upward; purse $2,000.

Nov. 7—Debutants Stakes; six furlongs; for two-year-olds; purse $2,000.

Nov. 10—Derby Trial; one mile; for three-year-olds; purse $2,000.

Nov. 14—Eclipse Selling Stakes; six furlongs; for three-year-olds and upward; purse $2,000.

Nov. 17—Tanforan Handicap; one mile and an eighth; for three-year-olds and upward; purse $2,000.

Nov. 21—Juvenile Handicap; one mile; for two-year-olds; purse $2,000.

Nov. 24—California Derby; one mile and a half; for three-year-olds; purse $3,000.

Nov. 28—Spreckels Handicap; one mile and a quarter; for three-year-olds and upward; purse $3,000.

Dec. 1—Speed Handicap; six furlongs; for all ages; purse $2,000.

ZEV ONLY GALLOPS TO WIN AT YONKERS

Captures Autumn Championship in Closing Feature of Metropolitan Racing Season.

DRAWS CROWD OF 12,000

Will Be Shipped Today to Meet My Own and Other Cracks in the $50,000 Latonia.

Close finishes usually provide the thrills at the race track, but it was the sight of a brown horse winning off by himself which set the crowd cheering at Empire City yesterday. The brown horse was Zev, and he was galloping away from Bracadale, Tryster and Ladkin just as he galloped away from Papyrus at Belmont Park less than a fortnight ago and turned back the first equine invasion of America. As some one in the stands remarked yesterday, "he breaks their hearts when he gallops," and that was all he had to do to win the Autumn championship, closing feature of the metropolitan racing season.

Zev was leading his stablemate Bracadale by four lengths at the end of the mile journey, and just to make the workout a good one Sande let the brown colt gallop for another quarter before he took him in hand. The mile was run in 1:40 3-5 over a slow track, the fractional times being 0:24 3-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:13 2-5 and 1:40 3-5.

The race was really not a contest, but the final touch to Zev's training for the $50,000 Latonia championship on Saturday, in which he will meet My Own. Incidentally, however, Zev earned $5,160 yesterday, increasing his total winnings to $260,000, more than $10,000 greater than Man o' War's.

Zev Carries 120 Pounds.

The race was run under scale weights, Zev picking up 120 pounds against 101½ for Bracadale, 128 for Tryster and 97 for Ladkin. When the four horses lined up before the start Zev and Ladkin both took a run for the webbing and Ladkin got away from little Cooper and ran away for half a mile. This caused several minutes delay, Cooper taking his mount clear around the oval.

When the real start came Bracadale, from his position on the rail, was the first to show in front, with the others lapped on him. At the paddock turn Cooper took Ladkin outside and pulled him up, while the other three, closely bunched, went on.

At the turn into the backstretch Tryster moved up and took the lead by half a length. Bracadale was running next in the heavy going along the rail, with Zev a close third and outside in the best footing. Turning out of the backstretch the Rancocas pair went after the leader and Zev got there first.

As they headed for home, old Tryster gave it up and left Bracadale to chase the leader. The two-year-old made a game effort and under hard urging by Fator managed to hang on fairly well until the final sixteenth, where Sande gave Zev his head and the brown colt came away to win easily. Zev then went on to the mile and an eighth in 1:58 and to the quarter in 2:14 3-5 pulled up. Zev and Bracadale coupled in the betting paid 1 for 15.

Zev will be shipped to Latonia this morning with the two-year-old Stanwix as a traveling companion. Trainers Hildreth and Leary and Jockeys Sande and M. Fator will accompany the two horses.

Amor Patriae in Easy Spot.

The crowd, which probably numbered 12,000, had come to see Zev and bid the thoroughbreds au revoir, but it also saw some creditable racing in the other five events. The Hillsdale Handicap, a six-furlong affair, was intended as the secondary feature, but only three starters reported to the post and it proved a rather soft spot for Mrs. E. M. Brown's Amor Patriae.

St. Allan was an odds-on favorite in the trio, but finished just the reverse of where a favorite should. Amor Patriae outbroke the others and Coltilotti soon sent him into a comfortable lead, after which he rated him ahead of the pace and kept him going to win by a length. Whirlwind easily disposed of St. Allan in the run through the stretch and was closing fast from the outside at the finish.

It was only a fair day for form horses. Outside Zev's victory, which was as near a foregone conclusion as the result of a horse race can be, only two others came down in front, and one of these was an equal choice with another starter.

BAR GOLD IS BOUGHT.

Somerset Stable Purchases Papyrus's Companion at Empire.

Bar Gold, Papyrus's traveling companion on the latter's recent visit to the United States, was sold to the Somerset Stable at Empire City yesterday and will be trained by John Hastings in future. Bar Gold was a stake winner as a two-year-old and was never unplaced as a jumper last Winter and during the early Spring.

WESTERN TEAMS STRONG.

Iowa-Michigan and Northwestern-Chicago Games Important.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—While the Illinois-Chicago game Saturday at Urbana is holding the principal attention of Big Ten football circles this week, there is a likelihood that the encounter between Michigan and Iowa may have a bearing equally important on the outcome of the conference season.

Coach Yost has a veteran team to send against the Hawkeyes. Iowa, however, twice has been tested against strong teams and has an advantage in experience. It is probable, according to reports today from the two institutions, that both teams will be able to send their full strength to the field Saturday.

Chicago and Illinois are perfecting their offenses.

Minnesota's hospital list has been cut down until Gross is the only regular out of play. He may be able to start against Northwestern on Saturday. The purple team is spending its week in hard training.

When again Wisconsin gets into play it will have an attack different from that displayed in the scoreless tie with Minnesota last Saturday. The Badgers are working on the forward pass, preparing to surprise Illinois on Nov. 10.

The season is proving to be one of few injuries to football stars in the Middle West. In the middle of their season, conference teams are able, in most instances, to put their full regular teams on the field.

PIMLICO RESULTS.

FIRST RACE—For two-year-olds; claiming; purse $1,300; six furlongs. Jackson, 108 pounds (Bell), $16, $6.50, $5.20, first; Warren Lynch, 116 (J. Callahan), $5.80, $3.70, second; Sleeve, 111 (Smallwood), $7.30, third. Time—1:15. Spear Shot, Stage Star, Anna Horton, Mernis, Haughty Lady, Carajo, Maitland, Dunoon and Our Star also ran.

SECOND RACE—The Baltimore Steeplechase; for maiden three-year-olds and, upward; purse $2,000; two miles. Mercurius, 150, (Kothal), $22.90, $9.10, $4.90, first; Henry Delmer, 135 (Metzger), $4.10, $2.90, second; Irish Dig, 150 (O'Connor), $3.10, third. Time—4:01. Autumn Bells, Grouch, Armenus, Jabberlock, Herminius and Fairway also ran.

THIRD RACE—The Pimlico; for home-bred two-year-olds; purse $2,500; six furlongs. Gonfalon, 113 pounds (McAtee), $6.80, $3.80, $2.30, first; Aga Khan, 113 (P. Walls), $4.70, $2.60, second; Sunayr, 117 (Long), $2.80, third. Time—1:13 1-5. Rinkey, Beau Nash and Cockney also ran.

FOURTH RACE—For three-year-olds; claiming; purse $1,500; one mile and three-sixteenths. Belle Amie, 103 pounds (Pierce), $9.10, $3.80, first; Brilliance, 103 (Lee), $4.60, second; Insulate, 106 (Babin), out, third. Time—2:02 1-5. Sylvan Spring also ran.

FIFTH RACE—The Gwynn Oak Purse of $1,500; for three-year-olds and upward; claiming; six furlongs. Pilgrim 106 pounds, North Wales 105, Guelph 108, *Billy Watts 108, Our Betsy 100, *Majority 97, Royal Duck 110, Edgewarit 96, Night Raider 103, Ashland 103, *Sea Monarch 103, *Aneprim 102, Convenovo 105, Gray Gables 108, *Pistrus 103.

SANFORD REFUSES OFFERS.

Rutgers Coach Will Not Re-enter Game After This Season.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 31.—George Foster Sanford, the Rutgers coach who will retire after this season, has already declined many alluring offers to go elsewhere to coach, it was said today by the Rutgers athletic management.

The veteran coach has determined to devote his time to his business and, unless it is as an occasional advisor to Rutgers, he will not re-enter the coaching ranks after this season. As an assistant to Jack Wallace, who will become head coach at Rutgers next Fall, it is likely that Dr. John N. "Mike" Whithill, Freshman coach, will be engaged.

The centre trio of the Rutgers line got a hard drilling today, especially on offensive tactics. Sanford indicated that he was far from satisfied with the way they were opening holes for his backs. Waite, who wrenched his left knee yesterday, and Hazel, who had water on his right knee two weeks ago, were today withdrawn from practice and will hobble around with plaster casts for the next three days to hasten the recovery of their injuries. Several other varsity regulars were given a rest today to keep from going stale with the West Virginia game less than a week away.

W.-J. MAY LOSE STARS.

Basista Appears With Injured Leg as Lafayette Game Nears.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—W. and J. may be minus four of its regulars when it takes the field against Lafayette at the Polo Grounds on next Saturday afternoon. The first of the week it seemed certain that Amos and Futhey would round into the physical condition which would permit their taking part in the struggle, and Herbert Kopf, who was hurt in Detroit, then seemed the only regular who would be out of the game. Joe Basista, however, has turned up with an injured leg which may prevent his starting.

Faced by this situation, Coach Heisman is specializing in the polishing of some of his second string backs to be used in emergency, and there is a very strong likelihood that they will be the boys in the line-up at the start. Whether Amos, Futhey and Basista will play will not be determined until game time. They are recovering rapidly and, of course, will be used if possible.

N. Y. U. IN LIGHT SESSION.

Number of Injured Players Return —Berkwit Still Out.

With the appearance in uniform of a number of New York University's injured football players, Head Coach Tom Thorp again started progressive practice yesterday afternoon on Ohio Field. Berkwit is still out with blood poisoning, but the rest of the squad is in good enough condition for light work.

Toeback practiced drop-kicking and the entire squad was divided into three teams, which went through a short signal drill. A scrimmage was held in which Jack Weinheimer's freshman charges were lined up against a varsity scrub team, while the first and third varsity teams had a session in which the varsity studied some of the Fordham plays. On account of the weakened physical condition of a number of Thorp's first string men, the coach had to be contented with having the teams walk through the plays.

MY OWN REACHES LATONIA FOR RACE

Admiral Grayson Confident His Colt Will Defeat Zev in Championship Saturday.

RIALTO TO ARRIVE TODAY

In Memoriam Shows Fine Trial of 2:16 1-5 for 1 1-4 Miles Over Heavy Track.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31.—Added interest in the Latonia championship race in which Zev and My Own will compete was displayed by followers of the racing game with the arrival of My Own at Latonia today. In charge of Preston M. Burch and with a stable mate named Scotch Broom, My Own arrived at the track where on next Saturday will be decided which is the superior in the three-year-old thoroughbred class in this country and England.

Burch stated that My Own shipped well and that before leaving Laurel he worked a mile and a quarter in 2:08. The fractional times were: Half, 0:49 2-5; three-quarters, 1:12; seven-eighths, 1:24 2-5; mile, 1:42 1-5.

Burch declared that Admiral Cary T. Grayson, the owner of My Own, was extremely confident that his horse would take the measure of Zev and the others.

Rialto was shipped from the East this morning and he will arrive at Latonia tomorrow. Word to this effect was received at Latonia today. In Memoriam is here.

In Memoriam showed a fine effort over the heavy track this morning in preparation for the big race when he ran a mile and a quarter in 2:16 1-5. He went the first three-quarters in 1:15 2-5.

Public interest is so keen in the Latonia championship that several firms have made tempting offers to the Kentucky Jockey Club for the exclusive right to photograph the race. General Manager Winn has rejected them. Colonel Winn said: "I have refused all offers from the moving picture people to purchase the photographic rights for the Latonia championship. I have decided to open the gates to all of them."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Abrupt Advance in Prices on Stock Exchange—Another Break in German Marks.

The abrupt and emphatic advance on the Stock Exchange yesterday, which carried up prices of some industrial shares 3 to 5 points for the day, with similar though less spectacular recovery in the rest of the market, might reasonably be ascribed to the extra dividend declared on the United States Steel Corporation's stock the day before. That action had not been announced until after the close of Tuesday's market. It was quite unexpected by Wall Street, on whose imagination, moreover, increase of an industrial dividend, at a moment when speculators for the decline had been talking of severe industrial reaction, was bound to make impression. Evidently enough, it was the bidding of such speculators to get back the stock "sold short" by them which caused the advance of 2 to 2½ points on yesterday's first transaction in numerous active industrial shares.

This response, with continuing advance during the rest of the business day, was hardly surprising, circumstances being what they are. Speculative commitments for the decline had notoriously been extended to unusual volume since the stock market failed to sustain its advance of a fortnight ago. This speculative movement wholly ignored the news, except to assume that the admittedly slower pace of general trade meant a further and rapid shrinkage of business activity. It had put itself, therefore, in a distinctly vulnerable position, supposing any highly favorable news suddenly to intrude. The Steel Corporation's dividend seemed to be so regarded by the market—less perhaps for its bearing on that company's own condition than for its implications concerning the business outlook.

It was both characteristic of Wall Street and illustrative of its recent viewpoint toward financial values that quite as much stress should have been laid on what was termed the "bullish interview" of an active professional speculator as on the Steel Corporation's action. That such statements are made solely to disseminate knowledge and to keep the public correctly informed of the facts in the business situation, Wall Street is not so simple as to imagine. No doubt, however, when the sheep and the goats have been so carefully designated in the speculative community as they have lately been, more attention is likely to be paid to one unbranded speculator who takes sides with some ostentation. The market generally closed at or around the day's highest prices, after the largest total business of any day in nearly six months.

Foreign exchange rates moved within very narrow limits, except for another fall in the mark, to a price at which 174 billion can be bought for a dollar and nearly 1 2-3 million for a cent. Yesterday's statement by the Commerce Department, classifying our September foreign trade by countries of origin or destination, throws considerable light on the recent weakness of European exchange. It was already known that the month's total surplus of exports over imports had been $127,000,000, as compared with $25,900,000 in August and with an export excess of only $14,700,000 even in September, 1922. But the statement by countries makes the rather surprising disclosure that the increase in the export surplus resulted almost entirely from trade with Europe.

To that Continent our September exports increased $69,000,000 over August and $37,000,000 over a year ago. The surplus of exports, which was $82,900,000 in the preceding September, rose to $116,600,000, and nearly all of the increase was accounted for by England, France, Italy and Germany. When the month's trade returns by articles shipped are published, it will probably be found that cotton explains the striking change.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 31, 1923.

Stock Exchange call money opened and renewed at 4½ per cent., but later eased to 4½ for closing accommodation. Money brokers reported borrowers are now bidding 4½ per cent. for 30-60 day funds, in contrast with same bid for 30 days on Tuesday, but lenders held this service at 5, which is lending and trading rate for 3 to 6 months' maturities. There is only nominal market, with not much doing in way of actual trades. Paper dealers find country banks discounting prime name bills at 5 per cent., while city institutions discount at 5¼.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Day of Heavy "Short Covering."

The extra dividend on United States Steel common resulted yesterday in one of the wildest openings the New York Stock Exchange has witnessed in many a month. The short interest was particularly active in bidding for stocks at the start, and their bids were forced higher by other traders who bought for the rise. In the first transaction, Steel common scored an overnight gain of 2⅝ to 1⅞ points on a "spread opening." Baldwin Locomotive's initial gain was 2¼ points, du Pont 2⅛, Studebaker 1⅝, Republic Steel 1⅜ and Bethlehem Steel 1⅝. The trend of prices was upward throughout the day, and the extent of the demand was evidenced by the total transactions, which were 1,390,000 shares making it the first 1,000,000 share-day since Oct. 3, and the largest since Feb. 16. While the market was moving upward the rally was helped along by a statement on market conditions issued by Jesse L. Livermore, the professional speculator who during his recent absence in Europe was credited with having "quit" the stock market for all time. The advance was swiftest in the afternoon, when sharp gains were reported in the leaders. At the close of the day, Steel common, Studebaker, American Can, Baldwin and International Harvester each showed a gain of more than five points. Gains of one to three points were common. Numerous railway shares advanced a point or more.

The Market's Future.

There was in point of fact more interest engendered yesterday in what the market will do today, tomorrow, the next day and next week than in the immediate flurry caused by the day's constructive developments. One did not have to go very far in Wall Street yesterday afternoon to encounter pessimists who were inclined to turn up their noses and scoff at predictions of a complete change about in the market. Some of them remarked that it "takes more than one swallow to make a good drink" and predicted that the market will be inclined to stagger when it recovers from the effects of developments which turned it about yesterday. This view was not universal, but it was evident there is a great deal of divided opinion in speculative circles as to whether or not the stock market will be able to take care of itself when the effects of the props put under it yesterday have worn off.

The "Shorts" in Haste.

In Wall Street's view, the most interesting information would be the figures, if they could be had, as to just how much of yesterday's buying, particularly in the last hour, was short covering, and how much of it for account of those who expect to keep the stock. In such issues as Steel common, Studebaker, Baldwin, American Can and other speculative vehicles, it was plainly the rebuying of shares sold for the decline which brought about the wide gains; coupled, very likely, with the shrewd "prodding-along" purchases made by those particularly friendly to these stocks. In one large brokerage house it was reported that a line of 15,000 shares of Steel has been "covered" in the final hour of trading yesterday, and many other houses reported similar transactions on a smaller scale in a wide list of stocks.

"Averages" Highest in Two Weeks.

The averages yesterday registered a sharp recovery from the low level for the year, established on Monday. The average price of fifty stocks at the close yesterday showed a gain of 1.80 for the day, which was the largest day's gain reported in many months. The average gain in twenty-five industrials was 2.60, while the railroad group gained just short of a point for the day. At yesterday's highest, the averages for both kinds of stocks combined gave the best figure touched since Oct. 15, and was only 1.63 point below the highest of the month.

Semi-Speculative Bonds Advance.

Aside from the fairly sharp bidding up of bonds of a semi-speculative character, there was little change in prices in that part of the market following the overnight change in Wall Street sentiment. Better-grade railroad bonds, in fact, were off a small fraction in the average from their previous closing level, but the lower grade issues went ahead rapidly. There was also apparent a letup of selling pressure in the case of Rock Island, Missouri Pacific and St. Paul refunding bonds. Traction bonds of a New York description were lower because of the new valuation plans as announced in yesterday morning's newspapers, but public utilities as a class moved forward modestly. Industrial issues of a better grade held to their previous levels. For the moment, bankers do not look for the establishment of any general trend in bond prices until evidence is furnished as to whether money rates have finally reached their proper level, money having been slowly receding for the last month or more in point of interest charges.

The Car Loadings.

Car-loading figures to be issued by the American Railway Association today are awaited with much interest in financial circles as tending to set at rest any doubt as to the period of abnormally high loadings having been passed. Estimates yesterday were for a decrease of "several thousand" as of Oct. 20, compared with Oct. 13, when 37,084,458 were reported, or 12,816 below the record of Sept. 29. The fact that the figures of Oct. 13 showed a substantial increase over those of Oct. 6, however, indicates that, instead of there being a sharp decline for the remaining weeks of the year, in all probability there will be a more even distribution than in former similar periods, a view supported by reports of a slowing up of crop movements. Today's figures, should they top the million mark, will make the eighteenth million-car week of the year, in contrast with seven in all other years.

Ample Supply of Call Money.

The record covering the year to date has shown with very few exceptions a fairly sharp run-up in call loan quotations over the month-end. In the present instance, however, the usual stiffness resulting from "month-end requirements" has not developed thus far, the rate in yesterday's dealings having been 4% to 4½. The higher figure represents the opening and renewal rate and the lower figure the closing rate. According to money students there was a good supply of money on hand, so large in fact that borrowers, even under the impetus of a million-share day, encountered no run-up in the quotation despite their more active bidding.

Trade Demand, Now and Later On.

Following Judge Gary's statement at Tuesday's Steel Corporation meeting in regard to the decrease in steel orders and the probability of their increase later in the season, much interest was taken yesterday in The Iron Age's report that buying of steel this past week has been hardly more than 50 per cent. of capacity, with the Steel Corporation and the independents experiencing about the same reduction in orders and with the shrinkage causing some further curtailment of operations. But The Iron Age also asks how long the needs for replenishment can be kept from influencing the order books. It quotes the steel producers as looking for continuance during November of the conditions prevalent in October and September, but with the feeling that betterment may come from "railroad demands, the continued activity of automobile manufacture, the large scale of building construction and the effect of growing Japanese purchases."

FIRST SUIT READY ON PIGGLY CORNER

Stock Exchange, Stock Clearing Corporation and Three Firms Named as Defendants.

TEST CASE FOR $100,000

Suspension of Dealings and Deliveries a Conspiracy to Protect "Shorts," Bill Charges.

Papers have been prepared in a suit for $100,000 damages to be filed soon against the New York Stock Exchange, Stock Clearing Corporation and three member firms as a result of the Piggly Wiggly corner on the New York Stock Exchange last Spring. The plaintiffs are Frank C. Milton and Walter L. Smith of Memphis, Tenn., and their attorneys are Ewing, Alley & Voorhees. The three firms included among the defendants are James E. Bennett & Co.; Clark, Childs & Co., and A. A. Housman & Co., all members of the New York Stock Exchange.

The action, it was stated, will be brought in the Supreme Court in Nassau County. A copy of the bill of complaint has been reviewed by all concerned in the case and arrangements have been made for serving summons on the various defendants. Thus far summons has been served only upon the firm and partners of James E. Bennett & Co. of Chicago. The summons is dated Oct. 22, 1923, and an answer or notice of appearance is demanded within twenty days.

The suit is chiefly based upon the alleged failure of the New York Stock Exchange to live up to its regulations in regard to the delivery of securities bought upon the Exchange, and which under its laws are deliverable on the day after purchase at 2:15 P. M. It is asserted that the plaintiffs purchased 500 shares of Piggly Wiggly stock through James E. Bennett & Co. of Chicago on March 20, 1923, and that the order was executed on the New York Stock Exchange for account of the Chicago house by Clark, Childs & Co. and A. A. Housman & Co. The notice of execution of the order carried the notation that the stock was deliverable on March 21, 1923. The bill alleges that the purchasers demanded and were willing and able to take up and pay for delivery of the stock on March 21, 1923, but "that said stock was not delivered as per contract on said date."

The bill further alleges that "many members of the New York Stock Exchange and one or more of the individual defendants were interested in these dealings in the common stock of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., Class A, and had undertaken, by the sale of enormous numbers of shares of said stock, which they did not own and which they had taken no steps to procure for delivery, to depress the market value of said stock, and the defendants entered into a conspiracy to defeat and defraud plaintiff Milton and the assignor of the plaintiff Smith of their rights under said contract."

The bill recites the resolution adopted by the Committee on Business Conduct of the New York Stock Exchange suspending dealings in Piggly Wiggly stock. This resolution was adopted following the wild fluctuations in Piggly Wiggly stock on March 20, 1923, when the stock jumped 52 points and reacted 42 within a short time. The resolution suspending dealings in the stock, it is alleged in the bill, was adopted by "said defendants, in furtherance of their corrupt and unlawful plan and purpose, and undertook to give that which they were proposing to do a semblance of legality." The bill further contends, however, that the adoption of this resolution in no way affected the delivery requirements on the stocks bought by the plaintiffs, as the contract was executed before the adoption of the resolution suspending dealings.

It is also alleged that when it was found that the resolution did not protect those who had sold stock short, the Executive Committee of the Stock Clearing Corporation, prior to the opening of the Exchange on March 21, 1923, issued a statement in which it said that the delivery requirements were "hereby suspended in relation to said stock only until further notice."

It is alleged that the New York Stock Exchange and the Stock Clearing Corporation were without authority or power to make any rule or regulation interfering with the right to delivery of the stock of Piggly Wiggly Store, Inc., where that right had accrued prior to the suspension of dealings in the stock. It is asserted that the action of "the Stock Clearing Corporation was unlawful, fraudulent and ineffective in that said action was based upon the pretense and false premise that an emergency existed, whereas no such emergency existed within the spirit or intent of the rule." It is also pointed out that in a further effort to protect the defendants that had sold the stock "short," the Stock Clearing Corporation on March 22 extended the time for delivery of Piggly Wiggly stock, due on March 21, to March 26, 1923.

The complaint charges that the suspension of dealings in the stock was in bad faith and to protect the short interests rather than to serve any honest or legitimate purpose.

It was rumored yesterday that Clarence Saunders, former President of Piggly Wiggly, who had engineered the corner, was back of the suit but the attorneys for the plaintiffs made it clear that Saunders had no connection with the action. It is understood that this case is only a test suit and that many others may depend on the outcome.

NORTHERN PACIFIC GAINS.

Pessimism Overdone in Northwest, Says Elliott.

Supplementing a statement made at St. Paul last week after a tour of the company's lines, Howard Elliott, chairman of directors of the Northern Pacific, said yesterday that the volume of business done by the Northern Pacific the last four months of this year would show a large increase over the same period of 1922."

"Pessimism about the Northwest has been overdone," said Mr. Elliott. "That country will grow and come out all right. The general level of railroad rates is too low for the costs which are largely not controllable by management. The attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission has already been called to this, and the subject will be taken up with them again. A readjustment must be made and the Interstate Commerce Commission will, without doubt, recognize in time that it is necessary for the Northwest to have expanding and adequate railroad facilities.

"The suggestion is constantly made that a reduction in freight rates would at once help the farmer. The freight rate is an insignificant item compared with the labor cost, the constantly increasing taxes, and the large increase in prices for what the farmer pays. A recent study shows that for what the farmer pays for hauling a bushel of wheat one mile to the railroad station, the railroad handles thirty-three to forty bushels of wheat one mile. More important to the farmer than rates is service; he must have prompt and regular service to get his products to market, and starvation rates on the railroads will not, in the long run, give him that service."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Market Quiet on Approach of Holiday on Continent—Rates Hold Firmly.

Partly as a result of the approaching holiday in Continental Europe, the volume of business in foreign remittances yesterday was restricted, the demand covering only routine requirements of banks and dealers. The fact that the reparation conference will shortly get under way, with England's acceptance of the French conditions, also inspired a caution on the part of the speculative community.

There were moderate offerings of commercial bills which forced London checks off slightly from the start at $4.48⅛, but these were easily absorbed and sterling finished ⅛ cent up from Tuesday's final at $4.48⅜. French also started weil, at 5.89¼ cents, but yielded to a close at 5.87 for a slight overnight loss. Belgian moved off moderately, but Italian, Holland and Spanish were firm. The Scandinavians continued weak, especially Danish and Norwegian bills, which were at new lows. Some of the South Americans were also heavy and at new lows, these including Argentina and Brazil. Far Easterns were steady.

The German mark was offered at a record low at $6.75 per trillion, while in Amsterdam the rate was down to $5. At this level, Berlin checks compared with 59 billion quoted a week ago and 4,500 a year ago.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

DEMAND FOR STEEL CONTINUES SLOW

Buying in Last Week of October Only 50 Per Cent. of Industry's Capacity.

LOWER PRICES SOUGHT

But Producers See No Object in Reductions Under the Present Conditions.

Steel buying for the last week of October approximated 50 per cent. of the industry's capacity, according to The Iron Age, and the contracts brought the month's total not much above that of September. Indications are that the leading interests and the independents are experiencing about the same reduction in orders.

"It is a question how long replenishment needs can be kept restrained," says the paper. "The consumer's effort to secure price revision is resulting in a temporary freezing of bookings through a refusal to specify against contracts.

"The producer still sees no object in reductions, and looks for November to continue the performances of the last two months. Expectations of betterment lie in a swelling of railroad demands, the continued activity of automobile manufacture, the large scale of building construction and the effect of growing Japanese purchases.

"Prices of pig iron are fairly well maintained on small tonnage for prompt delivery, but considerably lower quotations have developed on a few large size sales. In the active competition of Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey furnaces concessions of $1 to $2 per ton have been made. The reductions at Chicago, Pittsburgh and other centres range from 50 cents to $1.

"The Iron Age pig iron composite price has fallen to $22.27 from $22.96 last week, the lowest figure since the $22.23 of May 2, 1922, and $3.59 below the high price of last April."

The Iron Trade Review says, in part: "While prospects are favorable, a waiting attitude is more apparent among both buyers and sellers of steel. The volume of new business has moderately increased, but is considerably less than the tonnage being shipped from books, causing some further curtailment in capacity. In either case, however, the change is slight, and apparently no important fundamental changes in the situation are developing. On the whole, consumption of steel continues large, but buying lacks stimulation of heavy new demands."

CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION UP.

Central Texas Fields Boost Average —Other Sections Show Slump.

Crude oil production in the United States averaged 2,265,900 barrels daily in the week of Oct. 27, according to estimates compiled by the American Petroleum Institute. This represents an increase of 2,450 barrels in the daily output as compared with the previous week. The increase was due almost entirely to the showing in Central Texas, the home of the Powell field, which reported an increase of 49,150 barrels in the daily output. California reported a reduction of 19,100 barrels, Wyoming 13,800 barrels and Oklahoma, Kansas, North Texas and Arkansas also report reductions.

Colorado & Southern Income.

Net operating income of $300,225 is reported by the Colorado & Southern System for September, compared to $223,676 in 1922. Net for the nine months showed a decrease from $3,002,746 in 1922 to $2,030,062 in 1923.

BANK PLANS ALTERATIONS.

Improvements to Be Made in Building at 52 Wall Street.

Alterations have been planned by the Bank of New York and Trust Company in its building at 52 Wall Street, it became known yesterday. The work will require until next Spring for completion.

The offices occupied by the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Discount Corporation, together with the old office of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, will be thrown into one office occupying the entire banking floor of the building, with an area of about 14,000 square feet. It is also expected that the rooms at 48 Wall Street, now described as the banking office of the company, will be taken over by some of its foreign department branches.

JOINS NATIONAL CITY BANK.

D. C. Borden, 8 Years a Federal Examiner, Made Assistant Controller.

D. C. Borden has been appointed assistant controller of the National City Bank, it was announced yesterday. He will take up his new position, to which he comes after eight years in the Government service, on Dec. 1. Mr. Borden has served as chief national bank examiner for the Second Federal Reserve District at New York for two years and before that was assistant examiner for the Federal Reserve District at Chicago. He has served in like capacities in Cleveland, Philadelphia and Atlanta, and before going into the Federal Government service was State bank examiner for Tennessee.

American Hide and Leather Income.

The American Hide and Leather Company, for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1923, reports a net loss of $39,492 after reserves for taxes and other deductions, comparing with a profit of $835,704 in the same period last year. After reserves for depreciation, the deficit was $108,158 for the quarter, against a surplus of $268,200 last year. For the nine months ended Sept. 30 last, there was a net loss of $205,472 from operations, against a profit of $435,270 last year. After reserves and other deductions the deficit was $415,468, against a surplus of $727,784 in 1922.

West Penn Company Reports Gains.

The West Penn Company and subsidiaries report for September shows net income of $193,061 after interest, authorization, &c., against $172,534 in the same month of 1922. For the twelve months to Sept. 30 net income was $2,841,308, against $1,513,690 in the preceding year.

LIKELY TO SET UP SHIPPERS' BOARD

Proposed Advisory Board Here Would Serve as Close Link With Railroads.

TO STUDY TRANSPORT NEEDS

Adjustment of Disputes With Carriers Cited as Another Duty of Regional Group.

Organization of a Shippers' Regional Advisory Board, to serve as a common meeting ground for shippers and railroads, will be effected here within the next month, according to information obtained yesterday at the New York district offices of the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association. The board will be composed of shippers and railroads in the New York territory and will be patterned after similar organizations formed under the auspices of the A. R. A. in the last year in other sections.

Although no announcement has yet been made of the proposed formation of the board, it was learned that Donald D. Conn, manager of the Public Relations Section of the Car Service Division, intends to call a meeting of shippers to effect the organization when he returns from the West within the next four weeks.

The expressed objects of such an organization are expected to follow closely those of the Great Lake Shippers' Regional Advisory Board, the Ohio Valley Shippers' Regional Advisory Board, and boards created for the Northwest, Southeast, trans-Michigan-Ohio-Indiana and trans-Missouri-Kansas territories. Summarized, these objects are:

1. To analyse transportation needs in a given territory and to assist in anticipating car requirements.
2. To study production, markets, distribution and trade channels of the commodities produced or consumed in a given territory with a view to effecting improvements in trade practices as related to transportation, and to promote a more even distribution of commodities.
3. To secure a proper understanding by the railroads of the transportation needs of shippers, that their regulations may fit shippers' requirements and that shippers' co-operation may be obtained in carrying out necessary rules governing car handling and distribution.
4. To acquaint shippers and railroads in each section of the country with seasonal requirements in a given section.
5. To adjust informally car difficulties which may arise in its territory between carriers and shippers.
6. To promote car and operating efficiency in connection with maximum loading, and in the proper handling of cars by shippers and railroads.
7. To give the shipping public a direct voice, in an advisory way, in the activities of the Car Service Division of the A. R. A. in all matters of mutual concern.

ACCUSES RAILROAD HEADS.

Have Throttle Hold on Commerce, Says Travelers' President.

President A. M. Loeb of the National Council of Traveling Salesmen's Associations, said yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania that the manner in which the railroad executives had treated the suggestions of President Coolidge in regard to reductions of freight rates was a menace to the prosperity of the country and that it might be productive of profound social unrest.

"The secret conclave of the railroad Presidents held in New York yesterday," Mr. Loeb said, "to consider and pass upon its ultimatum in reply to the needs of the country, and the especial plea of the nation's President that some adjustment in railroad economic machinery should be made to relieve two outstanding causes of public distress, coal and wheat, is a travesty on democracy.

"It is simply another illustrative instance," he went on, "of how thoroughly the railroad powers have and maintain their throttle hold upon the country's commerce. In time of war we did away with the multitude of high-salaried railroad officials and placed the roads of the country under governmental and semi-military control. They were used for the best interests of all the people. But now, in time of peace, when 25 per cent. of the population of the country, the farmers, on whom most of us depend, are in distress because of unbalanced economic factors—when the nation's Chief Executive proposes a program which would render some relief to the situation, we are helpless, totally unable to obtain the voluntary co-operation of our railway systems."

SHIP OWNERS DENY O'CONNOR CHARGES

Say Cost of Maintenance Made "Millions in Profits" at Public Expense Impossible.

CALLS FOR CONTRADICTION

President Smith Declares Correction Alone Can Avoid "incalculable Harm."

The charge made by Vice Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the Shipping Board that thirty-nine operators of Government vessels "reaped millions of dollars annually in profits to themselves while the vessels were run at a loss borne by the Government out of public funds," drew a vigorous reply yesterday from the American Steamship Owners' Association. The reply was prepared by Alfred Gilbert Smith, President of the association, and states that "incalculable harm" will be done to American shipping interests unless the charges are corrected.

Referring to Mr. O'Connor's letter in which the Vice Chairman of the Board asked if any member of the Executive Committee of the association had any doubt as to the Government vessels being operated "to the benefit of the operator," Mr. Smith wrote in part:

"Our answer to your question is that no member believes it, because it is not a fact. If it were so, it would constitute a most serious impeachment of the Shipping Board. All of the compensation paid to the operators has been under an agreement commonly known as the 'No. 4' agreement, in which the rates of compensation have been fixed by the Shipping Board. The agreement has been in force during the entire incumbency of the present board, and if the compensation has been such as to produce the result you state, the board would have failed most derelict in not reducing them to a proper basis. The board alone possesses the information as to the net results to the operators, and it is to be presumed that the compensation paid was only fixed and continued after the board had satisfied itself that it was just as between the Government and the operators.

"We are informed that the total compensation paid to the operators during the last fiscal year was approximately $4,500,000, which covered the operation of about 350 vessels. Inasmuch as the operators have disbursed out of their fees all of the costs of maintaining their organizations, which have been very extensive owing to the Government system, there can be no question but that your statement is quite incorrect. We feel that it should have formal contradiction by the Shipping Board if irreparable injury to the shipping industry to the shipping industry is to be prevented."

TWO ROADS PAY $15,500,000.

Michigan Central and C. C. C. & St. L. Settle With Government.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Two subsidiaries of the New York Central system have made final settlement with the Government of accounts rising out of wartime Federal control of railroads, the Michigan Central paying into the Treasury $10,500,000 and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis $5,000,000. These amounts are additional to approximately $23,000,000 which the New York Central itself will pay in closing up its account.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford will receive from the Government $3,316,500, having been found to be a creditor rather than a debtor. The Kentucky & Indiana Terminal Railroad, one of the smaller corporations involved, has paid the Government $50,000 in a final settlement.

SALES FOR PROFITS HALTS COTTON'S RISE

Two-Cent Advance in Two Weeks Attracts Widespread Liquidation of Contracts.

Having been engaged in a process of discounting the special cotton report announced for tomorrow through an advance of over 2 cents in less than 2 weeks, there was a disposition to take profits in cotton yesterday. After an extremely quiet four hours, realizing sales brought selling pressure the last hour and a loss of over a quarter of a cent in prices. The market has moved so violently after each of the last three monthly reports that larger interests evidently decided to reduce outstanding commitments. Action of Liverpool also indicated profit-taking on an extensive scale following several weeks excited advance. Prices lost 25 to 36 points on the day.

With the expiration of the October position in Liverpool, sufficient profit-taking developed in closing hours of that month to exert a somewhat unsettling influence on that market. Despite the advance on this side late Tuesday, near positions abroad closed at an actual decline of 9 English points. This brought out cotton during early trading here with a slight loss in quotations. The feature of the morning was activity in trade quarters, many mills fixing prices on a larger scale than usual for a single session. It has been generally known that while domestic spinners have bought a large amount of cotton, the price has not been fixed and operations of this nature have been hastened by fears of a sharp reduction in crop figures from Washington. A steady demand for December and January occurred during the morning, but for some reason a considerable quantity of December contracts became available. The premium on that month lessened to 48 points compared with over 60 points recently. Spot interests had December for sale, either as a direct result of an easier basis reported at Southern points, a tendency on the part of some mills to postpone price fixing beyond the term of a year or to realizing before the report tomorrow.

Considering the strength of securities and mill demand, fluctuations remained within abnormally narrow limits for four hours. January opened at 30.20 and at noon was selling at the same figure, having ranged less than 10 points during the interval. From time to time certain room traders exerted strenuous efforts to start an advance, but without success, as sufficient supply of contracts appeared on a rise of only a few points to fill all demand. Similar conditions were reported from New Orleans, both markets being influenced by the coming report. A leading commercial publication estimated the loss in condition the past month at 5.7 per cent., indicating a yield of 10,000,000 to 10,400,000 bales. A month ago the same newspaper placed the condition at 69.5, which proved to be the Government figure, and at that time placed the indicated crop at 10,950,000, compared with 11,015,000, the Washington estimate. This served to strengthen the probability of a decided reduction in the forthcoming supplementary report and prevented development of activity as far as new business was concerned. A large manufacturing concern in New England offered ginghams at the same price as last year, though raw material is now several cents a pound. December contracts sold in New York a year ago at 24 cents and today at 30¾ cents.

The last half hour a quite active selling movement developed, which brought the first heavy trading of the day. Liquidation increased toward the close, catching stop-loss orders in January in final trading and carrying that month to 29.95. December ruled heavy throughout the session, touching 30½ cents just at the close.

WHEAT MAKES GAIN ON EASTERN BUYING

Ready Absorption of the Surplus in the Pit Discloses an Oversold Market.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Sufficient buying by strong Eastern houses has been in evidence on the breaks the past few days to absorb the surplus in the wheat pit and create an oversold market. This condition with less favorable crop reports from Australia and India brought about a strong upturn with the finish at gains of 1@1¾c; while corn was up 1¼@1¾c; rye, ¾@¾c, and oats ¼@¾c.

Minneapolis, which has been leading the decline of late, showed the most strength and gained 1¾@2c, although several small lots of Canadian were worked to that market on the advance. Judging from the character of the inquiries being received from Winnipeg and other markets, traders there are as much at sea over what causes the abnormal action of wheat as is the local trade. No one reason given so far is sufficient in itself to cause the market to ignore the most bearish statistical situation it is possible to imagine, but collectively they may be the foundation for the strength.

A Minneapolis house, summarizing returns from 4,000 reports from elevator managers and mill operators, estimates the wheat crop in the four Northwestern States at 135,000,000 bushels, including 41,000,000 bushels durum, an aggregate of 8,000,000 bushels less than the Government's preliminary returns, and compares with 227,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Returns on Winter wheat from States above a yield of 223,000,000 bushels or 14,000,000 in excess of the Government's return, and compared with 277,000,000 harvested in 1922.

Jesse Livermore's reference to the necessity of reducing the wheat acreage estimate and his strong views on the stock market caused some traders to attribute some of the recent buying of wheat by Eastern houses to him. Northwestern interests and spreaders also were on the buying side, part of this said to be for the account of a small speculative following.

Export sales in all positions were 400,000 bushels.

R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. crop expert, estimates the corn crop this year at 3,002,000,000 bushels, or 12,000,000 less than his previous figures, and makes the carry-over 44,000,000 bushels, indicating a total supply of 3,136,000,000 bushels for the season, compared with 3,067,000,000 last year.

Shorts in October corn bid the price of that delivery up 4¾ cents to 68 cents, with the unit 91 cents, a net gain of ¾ cent, the price breaking sharply almost without trading toward the last. Deliveries were 75,000 bushels. In all, about 150,000 bushels were traded in. Shorts were the best buyers of the deferred deliveries.

Oats and rye are largely influenced by the action of other grains.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 1,062,000 bushels; a week ago, 1,068,000; last year, 1,589,000. Shipments were 547,000 bushels; a week ago, 858,000; last year, 1,363,000.

Corn receipts were 680,000 bushels; a week ago, 594,000; last year, 1,174,000, and shipments, 480,000 bushels; a week ago, 457,000; last year, 762,000.

Butter and Eggs Advance on Active Demand, While Stocks Continue Short.

Dairy products displayed a decidedly firm price movement in yesterday's cash markets. Shortage of high grade butter and eggs, while trade demand was strong, forcing higher values, 92 score butter moving up 1 cent, to 50 cents, with eggs full 2 cents higher at 44 to 52 cents, a new high point for the year. There was also sharp decline in corn, coffee, lard and cotton also sagging. Metals as a group were steady and without material change.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Wednesday, a week before and a year ago:

RUSSIA OFFERS OIL GRANT.

Head of Barnsdall Corporation on His Way Here to Conference.

MOSCOW, Oct. 31.—Henry Mason Day, President of the International Barnsdall Corporation, has left for Paris and New York with a proposal from the Russians that his company take over the development of big oil areas near the Baku and Grosny fields. The proposal, according to Mr. Day, was submitted after more than a month of negotiations, and far exceeds in magnitude the present Barnsdall contract, signed about a year ago.

"The negotiations have reached the stage where it is necessary for me to return to America and confer with my principals," he said last night before leaving. "The territories under consideration are large undeveloped areas near the Baku and Grosny fields, consisting of a great many thousand acres in which there has been tremendous interest shown by all the large oil interests."

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Desirable steers and yearlings, strong to 25 cents higher. Top steers were $12.40. Other kinds were slow with plain kinds still 25 to 50 cents under last week's high. The dressed beef market is still weak, with lower prices quoted for medium grades at Eastern points. Hogs averaged slightly higher, with top $7.80, the best since Oct. 17, when it was $8. Big packers were not disposed to buy freely. Lambs were steady to 25 cents lower, with top at $13.40.

MORE ENGINES NEED REPAIR

Total of 10,509 Reported Oct. 15, Against 9,623 for Oct. 1.

Railroads of the country on Oct. 15 had 10,509 locomotives in need of repair, or 16.4 per cent. of the total number on line, an increase of 886 over Oct. 1, when there were 9,623, or 15.3 per cent., the American Railway Association announced yesterday.

Of the total, 9,455, or 14.8 per cent. required heavy repairs, an increase of 766 within two weeks, while 1,054 or 1.6 per cent. needed light repairs, an increase of 20. Serviceable locomotives in storage totaled 2,487 on Oct. 15. During the first fifteen days of October, 19,323 locomotives were repaired and turned out of the shops.

REINFORCEMENTS GO TO GENERAL WOOD

Philippine Constabulary Troops Leave Manila for the Island Mindanao.

MORE SERIOUS VIEW TAKEN

Senator Walsh (Mont.) Cables Predicting a Bill to Make Philippines a Territory.

MANILA, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—One hundred additional Philippine Constabulary troops left today for the island of Mindanao aboard the Coast Guard cutter Mindoro.

While no recent word has been received from Governor General Wood, who is at Parang, Mindanao, investigating the recent Moro uprisings, the sending of reinforcements is believed to indicate that the situation is more serious than he first thought.

The most recent Moro outbreak occurred on Sunday, Oct. 14, in the Lanao district of Mindanao, when a constabulary detachment of ten men and three school teachers were massacred.

Additional fuel has been added to the political flames here by a cabled message received from Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana by the publisher of the Manila Times predicting that a bill will be introduced at the next session of Congress making the Philippines a permanent and integral part of the United States.

Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippine Senate, and an active exponent of independence, in commenting on Senator Walsh's message, said that he did not believe the American Administration would sponsor or approve such a bill. The contemplated measure, he declared, would obviously contravene the promised aid by Congress, as set forth in the Jones law, pledging ultimate independence for the Philippines.

The bill suggested by the Montana Senator, Quezon declared, would be opposed by Filipinos of all elements and parties.

Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the Insular House, declared that the bill would be a backward step, as the present Philippine Government is more liberal than that of Hawaii. He said Filipinos did not desire the Philippines to become a part of the United States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Administration officials expressed surprise tonight over the report from Manila that Senator Walsh had sent a dispatch predicting that a bill would be introduced in Congress making the Philippines a permanent part of the United States. Nothing has been heard in Administration circles here of any such proposal, and the belief is generally held that such measure is contemplated by either Republicans or Democrats.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION STARTED BY BANTING

Wilson, Taft and Hughes Among the Americans Who Will Help Raise Big Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ontario, Oct. 31.—A great research organization is to be started here to be known as the Banting Medical Research Foundation. The first contribution for its founding comes from the discoverer of insulin, Dr. Frederick Banting, who will contribute $10,000, part of his share of the 1923 Nobel Prize. Meanwhile, a committee of five has been formed to take preliminary charge of the foundation and its financing. Among the members is Dr. Stewart, President of the New York Academy of Medicine.

This committee is to make an appeal at once for funds in Canada and the United States, though the appeal will be made to all probabilities, across the border. At least $1,000,000 is required for the scheme, and its originators hope that a $2,000,000 fund will be established. Already many well-known people in both countries have signified their interest and activity in the work of the foundation. These include Lord Byng, Secretary Hughes, whose daughter was one of Dr. Banting's first patients; ex-President Wilson, Chief Justice Taft and Secretary Mellon.

The organization is along the lines of the National Medical Research in England. The money, when collected, will be handed over to a permanent committee.

The idea is to give aid to ambitious scientists who like research work but cannot follow this bent because of lack of money. Such persons would be required to go before a committee and show what they desired to do in the way of research. This committee would pass upon the applicant's fitness and the application.

CORNERSTONE IS LAID.

Exercises Held at Vanderlip Hall in Letchworth Village.

Special to The New York Times.

THIELLS, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The cornerstone of Vanderlip Hall, a memorial to Frank A. Vanderlip, which is to form a part of the State institution here, known as Letchworth Village, a home and school for mental defectives, was laid today. The speakers included Mr. Vanderlip, Dr. Hanger Brown, Chairman of the State Commission for Mental Defectives; William H. Gratwick, Buffalo, President of the State Board of Charities; Sullivan W. Jones, State Architect, and Mortimer B. Patterson, President of the Board of Managers of Letchworth Village, who presided.

The new building will be used as an assembly hall. The capacity of the institution is 1,600. It is planned to increase the facilities for at least 3,000 persons. To further similar work for the defectives a bond issue for $50,000,000 will be submitted to the voters on Nov. 6.

COPELAND AT CLINIC PARTY.

Tells Halloween Guests of Strides in Sanitation Here.

Senator Royal S. Copeland was the guest of honor at a Hallowe'en party last night at the Wolff Industrial Surgical Clinic at 21 Second Avenue. Senator Copeland told the audience, which was made up largely of physicians and lawyers, of the gigantic strides which have been made in sanitation in New York during the past twenty-five years.

Others who spoke were Felix Ingram and Dr. Michael Barsky. The list of guests included Henry Kayrer, Carroll Hayes, Richard Hayes, Jeremiah Connors, Richard Cullen, Mark Daly, John O'Brien, Isadore Wolff and Thomas Curtin. The party was arranged by Dr. Mayer Wolff.

Exchange of Stock is Planned.

Stockholders of the Motor Products Corporation will vote in New York on the proposed recapitalization plan on Nov. 7. The plan contemplates the exchange for each share of the present stock of no par value stock one $100 debenture note bearing 8 per cent. interest and payable in twenty years, one share of 8% par preferred stock redeemable at $55 and bearing $4 a year dividends, and one share of no par common stock.

Sugar Co. Shows Big Surplus Gain.

The Fajardo Sugar Company reports a surplus of $1,129,169 for the year ended July 31, after interest, depreciation, &c., but before income taxes, against $272,-... in the previous year. A statement to stockholders says that a much larger crop is expected in 1924.

EXPORTS TO EUROPE GREATLY INCREASED

September Figures Show $37,393,447 More Than in 1922—Smaller Change Elsewhere.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Foreign trade of the United States during September which showed marked increase when compared with the same month of 1922 was proportionately very little changed in the standing of various countries, which participate in American commerce.

Figures made public today by the Commerce Department upon the destination of exports and the source of imports, with comparisons between September, 1923, and September, 1922, are as follows:

Kelsey Wheel Sells Body Plant.

The Kelsey Wheel Company has sold its Memphis body plant to the Fisher Body Corporation, according to a statement yesterday by John Kelsey, President of the former company. "The wood division will be retained by the Kelsey Company," Mr. Kelsey said. "The property sold to the Fisher Body consists of forty-five acres of land, a double band sawmill with a capacity of 50,000,000 feet of hardwood lumber per year, dry kilns, storage for 75,000,000 feet of lumber and an automobile body woodworking plant." Mr. Kelsey added that it was "the desire of his company to limit their Southern operations to the manufacture of wheels."

CALLS UPON STATES TO BACK DRY LAWS

Homer A. Cummings Declares Federal Government Alone Cannot Enforce Them.

SEES PERIL IN SITUATION

Urges Need of Taking Prohibition Enforcement Entirely Out of Politics.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 31.—Homer S. Cummings, State Attorney for Fairfield County, spoke on law enforcement today at a meeting on the Yale campus arranged by the New Haven Committee on Law Enforcement. Mr. Cummings pointed out the need of a revival of faith in the Constitution of the United States and told of the growing disregard of the mandates of American law, and said:

"It is idle to suggest that the present situation is due to the adoption of any particular amendment to the Constitution or to any peculiar form of existing law. The conditions to which I refer were already clearly manifest long before the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment and prior to the passage of laws in support thereof. There is abundant evidence not only of that fact but of the further fact that this sweeping tide of disrespect for existing institutions is reaching such menacing proportions that it threatens to engulf the Government itself."

Mr. Cummings told of lawless conditions all over the country, and declared:

"In considering the extent of this problem and the difficulty involved in dealing with it, we must not forget that we have placed upon the Federal Government not only the responsibility for the enforcement of laws relative to intoxicating beverages but many other laws dealing with a variety of subjects, such as larceny in interstate commerce, the dissemination of obscene literature, larceny and embezzlement from State banks belonging to the Federal Reserve System, fraud by stock selling schemes and the distribution of narcotics.

"The Federal Government is staggering under heavy burdens and a bureaucracy is being built up at Washington which carries with it many of the evils attendant upon overcentralization.

"There are those who advocate the repeal of State enforcement laws in the name of State's rights. No error could be graver. The direct route to an impairment of the rights of a State is to pervert them in such a way as to nullify the Federal Constitution, and thereby to force the Federal Government to extend its own activities. The history of our country supplies many illustrations of this unmistakable process due to the inability or failure of the various States to live up to their duties and responsibilities. As the powers of the States atrophy, the tendency to shift the burden to the Federal Government is accelerated.

"It is perfectly manifest that the Federal Government cannot successfully police the entire United States. If the various States do not support and supplement the Central Government, the problem of law enforcement will become exceedingly difficult. There is immeasurable fields of activity to be covered by all the governmental agencies at our command. * * *

"Nothing could be conceived which would throw the American system into greater confusion than for any State to be laggard in the support of any great national enterprise in which the Federal Government is concerned. The deliberate inculcation of such a doctrine of confusion could have no tendency other than to cause the whole constitutional experiment to fall into disorder. Carried to its legitimate extreme, it would cause our Government, as a factor in human progress and as an example to people struggling for liberty everywhere, to disappear as a vital force."

TALK OF A GREEK REPUBLIC.

Cabinet Said to Have Recommended Abolition of the Monarchy.

ATHENS, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—An important meeting was convened by the Cabinet today to discuss a future Constitution for Greece. It was agreed that the time was ripe for a change in the form of government.

Upon the recommendations of this meeting the Government will base its decision, which, according to the newspapers, will be for the proclamation of a republic.

An official communication issued this evening says the meeting was followed by a Ministerial discussion, after which the Government decided that there was no reason to alter the policy previously followed or to postpone the elections.

A semi-official report of the meeting, however, puts a different complexion on the situation. It says the leaders of the various parties attended the meeting, and that ex-Minister Carpanos, Republican, opposed a change in the form of Government; that M. Caffandaris, leader of the Venizelists, depreciated any decision likely to affect adversely the Greek cause abroad, and that all the other leaders, especially the anti-Venizelists, concurred and declared their approval of the revolution of 1922, which overthrew King Constantine.

SUE FOR PASTOR ESTATE.

Two Sisters and Eight Nieces and Nephews Contest Widow's Will.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 31.—A dispatch to The Hartford Times reports that the heirs of Josephine M. Pastor, widow of "Tony" Pastor, theatrical manager, and an aunt of Mrs. Stella F. Downes of 171 Greenfield Street and Walter F. Foley of 963 Main Street, Hartford, were directed today by Surrogate Daniel Noble at Jamaica, L. I., to show cause before him on Nov. 20 why her will, cutting off two sisters with but $1 to each and ignoring eight nieces and nephews should not be admitted to probate by him upon that day.

The sisters are Mary J. O'Shea of 5 Rollins Street, Salem, Mass., and Annie A. Roberts of 126 East Thirty-fourth Street, New London, Conn. Besides Mrs. Downes and Mr. Foley of Hartford, the other six nieces and nephews are Mrs. Florence F. Whittaker of 35 Willow Street, Charles S. Foley of 243 South Main Street, Waterbury, Conn.; Edith M. Foley and Vincent V. Foley of Lorchaip Manor, Stratford, Conn. They allege fraud, undue influence and lack of sound mind and memory.

Tony Pastor died on Aug. 25, 1908, leaving a net estate of $68,559.38. His widow, who was ultimately appointed administratrix with the will annexed, was 68 years old when she died on Oct. 4 at Elmhurst, L. I.

New Listings on the Curb.

The New York Curb Exchange yesterday announced the admission to trading of Dictaphone Corporation, 14,000 outstanding shares of 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, par value $100, and 98,338 outstanding shares of no par value Beech-Nut Packing Company, 125,000 shares of new common stock, par value $20, "when, as and if issued," and International Match Corporation 6½ per cent. convertible sinking fund gold debentures due Nov. 1, 1945, "when, as and if issued."

Fuller Brush Dividend Increased.

The Fuller Brush Company announced yesterday an increase in the quarterly dividend rate on the common stock, which puts this stock on a dividend basis of 6 per cent., compared to 4 per cent. prevailing hitherto. The company reports that sales for the first nine months of 1923 show an increase of 28 per cent. over the same period of 1922, while October sales are expected to exceed those of any previous month.

Canada Takes Up Victory Bonds.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—The Department of Finance tomorrow will pay more than $119,000,000 to holders of 1918 Victory bonds who did not convert their holdings. Bonds maturing tomorrow total $172,000,000. Despite the success of the recent issue of Dominion Government bonds, only $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 worth of the 1918 issue was converted.

CHARGE BRIBE OFFERS IN OKLAHOMA SENATE

Investigation Is Ordered on the Eve of Governor Walton's Arraignment.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31.—Bribery charges against some members of the State Senate entered the situation tonight on the eve of the arraignment of Governor Walton for trial before a Senate court of impeachment for alleged malfeasance in office.

Thrown into an uproar just before adjournment over an article said to have been published by The Muskogee Times-Democrat charging that $10,000 bribes had been offered members of the court for their votes in the Governor's trial, the upper house immediately launched an investigation and ordered the editor and publisher of the newspaper to appear tomorrow and explain the allegations. The editor was directed to bring the reporter responsible for the story.

The newspaper, it was said, based its article on alleged evidence obtained by its staff representative here through the use of a secret telephonic device.

The newspaper men are to be questioned before the Governor's trial is scheduled to open. With twenty-two charges constituting the bill of impeachment against him, the Governor is expected first to file his answer and then to enter a formal plea to the charges.

Immediately afterward his attorneys, it is predicted, will lodge a demurrer to the general indictment, and in the event that this is denied will apply for a brief continuance.

The taking of testimony is not expected to begin before Monday.

The lower house cleared the way today for the possible filing of further charges against the Governor when it adopted a resolution authorizing its Board of Managers, which will conduct the prosecution in the trial, to amend the impeachment bill at any time it sees fit. It was pointed out that under the measure the House also could drop any of the charges in order to speed the hearing.

Lieut. Gov. M. E. Trapp, who became acting Governor under the Senate order which suspended Governor Walton, today began a financial reorganization of the State administration by cutting a number of employes from the payrolls.

OPPOSE RAIL MERGERS.

Merchants Fear They Would Hurt Port Authority's Projects.

The Merchants Association announced last night the adoption of resolutions asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to take no action in its plan for consolidating railroads which would in any way interfere with the plan of co-ordination and unification of trunk lines serving New York territory as worked out by the Port Authority. The resolutions were adopted by the Executive Committee upon the recommendation of the Transportation Committee, of which C. S. Keene is Chairman.

The Transportation Committee made its report after meetings with railroad men. Among those who discussed the matter with the committee were Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, which, under the Interstate Commerce Commission plan would be combined with the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Philadelphia & Reading; E. H. Smith, President of the New York Central, which has asked that the Jersey Central and Reading be consolidated with its system; and E. G. Besler, President of the New Jersey Central. E. H. Outerbridge, Chairman of the Port Authority, also conferred with the committee.

Denver & Rio Grande Net Declines.

The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company in its report to the Interstate Commerce Commission shows decreases in net operating income during September and the nine months ended Sept. 30 of $396,466 for the month, compared with $659,995 in the same month of 1922, and $1,443,006 for the nine months of 1923, against $4,004,934 for the same period in 1922. The decreases were in spite of an increase in gross revenues.

To Take Up $1,650,000 Bonds.

The Cerro de Pasco Copper Company has drawn for redemption $1,650,000 of its ten-year convertible sinking fund 8 per cent. gold notes due 1931, to be redeemed at 105 and interest on Jan. 1, 1924, at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. In the meantime holders of the notes may convert them into stock of the company.

Cotton Exchange Seat Sold.

The New York Cotton Exchange membership of Sidney Hall was sold yesterday to E. R. Burnett for $28,000, a reduction of $1,000 from the last previous sale.

BRITISH CATTLE INFECTED.

Foot and Mouth Disease Spreads—Malicious, Breeders Say.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—British live stock owners are agitated over the frequent and mysterious outbreaks of the foot and mouth disease, of which there have been no less than 100 cases in Great Britain since the end of August, resulting in the compulsory slaughter of 4,705 cattle, 6,279 sheep and 3,837 hogs. For these the Government has been obliged to pay nearly £150,000 in compensation.

As the outbreaks have been far apart, infection therefore being seemingly precluded, the suggestion is made that the disease is spread intentionally and the breeders are endeavoring to force the Ministry of Agriculture to institute an inquiry. They also demand that police detectives be set to work to trace the supposed offenders.

OCTOBER TRANSACTIONS.

Transactions in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for the month of October aggregated 15,818,708 shares, an increase of 1,208,485 shares as compared with the previous month, but a decrease of 9,857,625 shares as compared with the corresponding month last year. The heaviest day's trading was 1,390,691 shares on the 31st, which, with the dealings on the 3d, were the only days that reached the million-share mark. The smallest full day's trading was 437,310 shares on the 15th. For the two hours of trading on Saturday the maximum total was 325,530 shares on the 6th and the minimum total was 226,400 shares on the 13th.

The following table gives the total transactions in stocks for October and the ten months of this year as compared with the corresponding periods of each year back to 1909:

POLICEMAN'S LEAP CAPTURES RUNAWAY

Pursues Horse on Bicycle for Six Blocks, Then Jumps on Its Neck.

DRAGGED ALONG STREET

Ankle and Wrist Sprained Before He Halts Animal—Another Wagon Driver Hurt.

A well populated section of Brooklyn got a thrill yesterday afternoon when a frightened horse bolted and ran six blocks with its wagon while a patrolman raced after it on a bicycle. Irving Miller of 621 Barbey Street, driver for the Blake Wet Wash Laundry Company, had left his wagon at the curb at Blake and Sheffield Avenues, with a chain through a wheel as a brake. As he unfastened the chain his horse shied and started down the street before he could stop it.

Patrolman Maurice Healy of the Liberty Avenue Police Station jumped onto a bicycle and started in pursuit. He was half a block behind. The horse, with the wagon swaying dangerously behind him, crossed Pennsylvania Avenue. There was another wagon directly in the path of the runaway. The runaway horse swerved just enough to clear itself. The laundry wagon sideswiped the other, and the driver, Leslie Fox, of 124 Stone Street, was hurled from his seat to the street. This slowed down the runaway and Healy began to gain.

Five blocks further, at Miller Avenue, he left the bicycle in a flying leap for the horse's neck. He caught hold and hung on, while the animal dragged him half a block before he could stop it.

Healy was taxen to Bradford Street Hospital, where it was found that his ankle and wrist has been sprained and that he had been slightly cut on the chin.

MISS MAYO'S SUIT BEGUN.

Action Against Thomas Healy and Others Is to Recover $58,000.

A suit brought by Margaret Mayo, actress and playwright, against Thomas Healy, John E. Connelly, the Ninety-fifth Street and Broadway Corporation, and Connelly Theatres, Inc., to recover $58,000 was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice O'Malley. Miss Mayo sues on the ground that she lost her money through corporation juggling.

Her complaint alleges that the corporations named as sues are "all virtually one"; that Connelly was an agent or dummy of Heal's, who controls both companies by virtue of stock ownership. The complaint alleged that Healy, Connelly, the Ninety-fifth Street and Broadway Corporation agreed to organize the Kennedy Theatres for the purpose of erecting on the Broadway property a motion picture theatre. When the theatre company was organized, she said, Healy got 1,870 shares of preferred, or $75,000 in stock. In 1918, she claimed, she loaned Kennedy Theatres $58,000. A skating rink was on the property to be used for the theatre which was leased for $65,000. Miss Mayo charges the defendants fraudulently caused this to lapse.

Mr. Healy, under cross-examination, admitted control of both defendant companies. The trial will be continued today.

Shows Big Gain in Net Income.

The American Water Works and Electric, Inc., reports for itself and subsidiaries, net income in September of $301,760 after interest, depreciation, &c., compared with $187,554 in September, 1922. For the year to Sept. 30, 1923, net income amounted to $3,113,824, compared with $1,615,893 in the preceding year.

WATCH DIAMOND MARKET.

Paris Police Check Up on Open-Air Trading—Arrest Four Merchants.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The famous open-air diamond market, which was held daily in the Rue Lafayette received special attention this morning from the prefecture of police. Instead of the two policemen who ordinarily stand guard in the street before the café terrace where diamonds of Paris are bought and sold, there were fifteen policemen and one plain-clothes man.

The reason given for this sudden attention was the fact that diamond merchants are liable to block the traffic in their excitement of trading. The real reason, however, was the fact that most of the men are foreigners and many of them undesirable. Many transactions are not registered and the taxes consequently are not paid. A number of merchants are also under orders of expulsion.

At the close of the morning trading four merchants were arrested for "obstructing the walk."

SALES IN RETAIL STORES.

Gains in Women's Apparel and Piece Goods in September.

Women's apparel and piece goods departments in retail stores throughout the country registered consistent gains in September over the same month last year, according to an announcement made yesterday by T. L. Blanke of the Controllers' Congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. While many other departments made gains over the previous September, the increase in sales of fabrics and garments, as reflected in the association's monthly sales barometer, appears to be most strongly sustained.

Although the great majority of departments showed gains of moderate proportions, a larger number of declines were reported in September than in any of the four preceding months. Mr. Blanke accounted for this in part by the fact that there was one less business day in that month than in 1922 and that there was marked improvement in retail business during the Fall of 1922 over the earlier months of that year.

The country-wide percentage gains reported by women's apparel departments for September are: Coats, 12; suits, 1 (decline); skirts, 13; dresses, 9; misses' garments, 8; furs, 6; juniors' and girls' apparel, 4; blouses, 2; sweaters, 20, and millinery, 2.

For the year to the end of September the women's apparel departments show the following gain in per cent. over the same period of 1922: Coats, 13; suits, 6; skirts, 15; dresses, 15; misses' garments, 15; furs, 14; juniors' and girls' apparel, 9; blouses, 4; sweaters, 8, and millinery, 2.

The highest gains reported for the month in per cent. were: Sweaters, 20; dress goods, 15; umbrellas and canes, 15; carpets and linoleums, 14. The greatest percentage gain decline was reported by the neckwear and veilings departments, with an 8 per cent. loss, while laces, trimmings, embroideries, notions, handkerchiefs, gloves, corsets and hosiery all had a 1 per cent. decline for the month from 1922.

For the nine months the best percentages of gain were reported by the following divisions: Silks and velvets, 19; dress goods, 18; skirts, dresses, rugs, carpets and linoleums with 16 per cent. in each case. The only departments showing decreases for the same period were those handling neckwear, veilings and notions with 5 per cent. The umbrella department, in the loss column in August, had a 1 per cent. gain for the year as a result of a spurt in September sales.

In the piece goods departments dress goods led with a 15 per cent. increase in September. Silks and velvets had an 8 per cent. increase in sales for this month, while the gain in domestics was 4 per cent and linens 3 per cent. Good gains were likewise shown in these departments for the year to date, silks and velvets leading with a 19 per cent. gain; dress goods, 18; domestics, 7, and linens, 5 per cent.

Cuban Raw Sugar Lower.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company yesterday purchased 27,500 bags of Cuban raws for prompt clearings at 5 5-16 cents a pound. This is a decrease in price of three-sixteenths of a cent from the last previous sale.

Business in Silk Gloves.

A substantial volume of Spring silk glove business has been placed, according to manufacturers here, the aggregate being ahead of last year at this time. Prices are unchanged on this merchandise for the new season, and the possibility that they might be higher later on is said to have influenced retailers to do more forward buying. The long glove, it is said, is in most demand, the sixteen button style leading. Fancy gauntlets are in favor also and a moderate call is noted for the short glove. Beige, fawn and cocoa are described as the preferred shades.

Better Call for Veilings.

The demand for veilings and made veils continues to shape up much better than was expected. An executive of one of the leading wholesalers said yesterday that the business during the last four weeks was the largest his firm has had for a similar period in the last year and a half. The newest note in veilings, according to this wholesaler, is the use of metals such as gold and silver on colored grounds in shades like blue, jade, orchid red, black and brown and the wood shades. The nine-inch nose veilings are still favored. Both long and square draped veils in embroidered or Chantilly effects are moving well.

Will Affect Heavyweight Demand.

To a great extent, the late developments in the overcoat demand this Fall it is pointed out, will bear on the prospects for the next heavyweight season. The question resolves itself into whether buyers will carry into that season the same policy of operations that have governed for Spring. The amount of early buying from the mills depends on what the manufacturers believe they can sell, and, if the retailers again have large carryover stocks, this time in overcoats owing to their large production, the outlook becomes greatly complicated. It is, however, considered too early to judge the retail demand, as real overcoat weather has not arrived as yet. From appearances however, it is felt that the heavyweight demand will be of a conservative nature, which will also influence the price calculations of the mills on the new lines.

Now Made for Formal Wear.

In line with the current efforts to harmonize the designs of garments that supplement each other, skirts which hitherto have been most often seen as part of a sports costume are now being made up on models suitable for formal wear. Black velvet and the same color in satin are favored fabrics for these dressy skirts. The black velvet garments are exploited in draped models or on plain lines to be worn with the Russian tunic blouses that reach to the knee or below, according to reports from the United Skirt League. The costume blouses reaching to the hips and made of tinsel brocade or chiffon velvet are proper adjuncts to the draped skirts. Among the black satin skirts for afternoon wear, a model that is proving popular is one showing circular flounces in accordance with the new Parisian suggestion of a flare at the knees. While they are not quite so formal as the velvet skirts, the satin ones call for an elaborate blouse, beaded or embroidered.

Burlaps Show Little Life.

Little life to trading in the local market for burlaps is apparent at present, due principally to the fact that the rather wide difference between the prices asked for spot and future deliveries keeps buyers unwilling to operate now. The inference is that they expect the spot goods to decline, especially in view of the fact that importers are unwilling to shade futures with the Calcutta market in its present firm condition. Spot prices in this market yesterday were based on 6.70 cents for 8-ounce "40s" and 8.05 cents for 10½-ounce cloths of the same width, according to C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc. Near-by afloats were held at 6.45 and 7.85 cents, respectively, while those due in from thirty to sixty days were quoted at 5.85 and 7.70 cents. November-December shipments from Calcutta were held at 5.60 cents for lightweights and 7.15 cents for the standard heavy construction. The respective prices for January-March shipment were 5.55 and 7.05 cents, respectively.

To Attend Cleveland Convention.

About forty of the leading manufacturers of outerwear in this market left the Grand Central Station last evening in special cars bound for Cleveland to attend the annual convention of the National Knitted Outerwear Association, which will be held today, tomorrow and Saturday in that city. The convention is expected to bring to Cleveland more than 300 representatives of knitting mills and associated industries in every part of the country. During its sessions will be discussed a number of important problems that have arisen as a result of the almost phenomenal growth of the industry in the last few years. Among them will be consideration of steps being taken to co-operate with the Department of Commerce on standardization, working out ways of compiling statistics of the industry and the general adoption of a code of ethics.

Gray Goods Still Dull.

With a new cotton report in the offing, buyers of gray goods in this market found it very hard to work up enthusiasm yesterday. The result was that very little was done, and second hands did most of that. Sales from those sources included some 39-inch 64-72 printcloths at 11¼ cents and some 38½-inch 64-60s at 10½ cents. For 28½-inch 60-48s no one would take less than 8¾ cents. Things were also quiet in the sheetings, business in which embraced some trading in 36-inch 5.50s at 8½ cents. Twelve cen's was asked for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings. The rest of the market was devoid of feature.

German Firm Leases Space Here.

Another step in the entrance of German garment manufacturers into the field here was noted yesterday when it became known that Semmel & Friedlander of Berlin have obtained an eight-year lease on the premises now occupied by Singer Bros., Inc., in the Garment Centre Capitol Building. The space covers 11,500 square feet. The firm will take possession on Dec. 1. The lease provides for manufacturing on the premises, and the German firm, it is reported, plans to import fabrics for manufacture into garments here. The loft is regarded as one of the best in the Garment Centre. The lease is believed to run for the longest time that has ever been entered into by a prominent garment manufacturing firm.

Scottish Woolen Man Coming.

W. Thow Munro of Munro & Co., Ltd., Edinburgh, Scotland, will reach this city on Saturday next aboard the Baltic, according to a cable received yesterday by Frederick T. Fraser, American representative of the Scottish Woolen Trade-Mark Association. Mr. Munro, Chairman of the delegation of seventeen members of the association who visited this country last year on a good-will mission from Scotland to America. On his present visit he comes as delegate from the Scottish woolen industry to promote cordial relations with various factors in the American trade, including manufacturers, importers, jobbers and retailers, as well as manufacturers and sellers of woolen apparel. His plans have not been definitely announced. The Scottish Woolen Trade-Mark Association comprises twenty-four of the leading Scottish manufacturers, nearly all of whom have individual selling agents in this city.

May Stage Their Own Show.

At a meeting held yesterday at 15 West Thirty-seventh Street, the membership of the National Association of Ladies' Hatters endorsed the action of its Board of Directors in passing on Tuesday a resolution calling upon the Retail Millinery Association of America to give the association a definite and more or less prominent part in directing the millinery fashion shows that have been staged two or three times a year by the retailers' organization for some time. The feeling of the hatters was that they would withdraw official support unless such a part in putting on future shows was granted by the retailers. If this action is taken, it was said last night by an officer of the National Association of Ladies' Hatters, no attempt would be made by that body to keep its individual members from displaying models at a retailers' show. He added however, that any break between the two bodies would doubtless result in the hatters putting on their own exhibitions.

SHOWS WAY TO GET INDUSTRIAL PEACE

Elisha Lee Tells Managers' Convention How the P. R. R. Treats Its Employes.

ISSUES UP TO COMMITTEE

9,000,000 Workers Change Jobs Every Year, Says Expert, Urging Remedial Action.

The American Management Association closed its convention yesterday at the Hotel Astor. One of the speakers was Elisha Lee, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who outlined a plan for closer relationship between employers and workers.

With the growing tendency in industry toward a more general recognition of the right of the worker to have a voice in determining the conditions of his employment, he said, there develops a new anxiety on the part of the executives of large operations as to the effect this more liberal régime may have upon supervision and discipline of the working forces and upon the attitude of the minor supervisory officers.

"Out of our experience," he said, "I think I can assure them that such change as has taken place or may be expected is an improvement over anything we have had in the past. New methods have been devised of handling industrial relations much wiser than were ever before adopted, which are in consonance with the spirit of our changed viewpoints."

Mr. Lee said that in the last three years his railroad has put in effect a plan for a joint committee for employes which determines all questions affecting wages, working conditions, discipline and discharge of employes. These committees are composed of an equal number of representatives of the employes, elected by secret ballot, and of the management, he said.

"A two-thirds vote of the committee is necessary to a decision of any question. If this two-thirds vote cannot be had, the committee itself decides how a final determination shall be reached. No executive officer of the company or the Board of Directors has veto power over the decisions of these joint committees. We feel that there should be in the future no cause for strike or lockout in our service."

More than 9,000,000 workers change their jobs every year, according to James D. Hackett, industrial engineer. He said it costs the country about $100 for each change of this kind. The present need, he said, is for comparable turnover statistics so that manufacturers may institute remedial measures for this leakage.

ADOPT FIXED CREDIT FORM.

Standard Application Blank Expected to Thwart Fraud.

Following a meeting yesterday in District Attorney Banton's office of a committee of credit men, representing $9,000,000,000 in capital, a standard application for credit was agreed on, through which it is hoped to trap swindlers obtaining credit on false financial statements. The new form will be distributed when it comes from the printers in a few days, in accordance with a request from the prosecutor, made through discovery in the Commercial Frauds Court, established on his recommendation more than a year ago by Chief City Magistrate McAdoo, that there was no standard method of dealing with persons obtaining credit from firms.

The District Attorney said yesterday that the investigation of the Credit Men's Committee, which had been in progress since last June, revealed that many fraudulent transactions were impossible of prosecution because of the flaws in the forms used by many firms.

Mr. Banton assigned Assistant District Attorney Felix Benvenga to compose the form, which was accepted by the committee and which provides an opportunity for criminal action on the part of the prosecutor in the event that an applicant for credit makes a false statement about his or her financial status.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Willard E. Stevens, Secretary of the National Wholesale Men's Furnishings Association, will leave today for Rochester to hold a series of luncheon conferences with the leaders in the clothing market there with regard to the clothiers becoming members of the association. Marked expansion of the organization's credit activities is planned, and its name will be changed when a sufficient number of clothing manufacturers signify their intention of joining. Mr. Stevens will also visit other clothing centres.

Kirby, Block & Fischer, resident buyers, 352 Fourth Avenue, no longer represent the Marney Company, Saginaw, Mich., in this market.

The employes of the firm of Levi N. Seligman, 295 Fifth Avenue, yesterday gave the President of the firm, Mr. Samuel Seligman, a surprise party at the factory, 104 South Fourth Street, Brooklyn. Covers were laid for 300 and a banquet was served. Between 500 and 600 employes took part in the entertainment and dancing which followed.

The Ames Company, Cleveland, is now represented in this market by Littman & Storch, 38 West Thirty-second Street.

A new association of salesmen in the waxed paper field has been organized under the title of the Waxed Paper Salesmen's Association. D. Kuhmarker is President, Ira G. Spiess, Vice President, and George Carl, Secretary. Temporary headquarters are at 147 West Twenty-fourth Street.

STRATON'S CHURCH HAS CALM MEETING

Pastor Withholds Names of Those Suspended and Assails Foes in Statement.

ATTACKS "RINGLEADERS"

Also Declares Dissension Dates Back to Before He Assumed Charge.

The expected sensational meeting of Calvary Baptist Church, 123 West Fifty-seventh Street, last evening, was nothing more than a well attended, "old-fashioned prayer meeting," as the pastor, the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, characterized it. Dr. Straton did not announce the names of the twenty-five members who were suspended a week ago.

While last night's assembly was in itself peaceable and unruffled, Dr. Straton issued from his study a closely typewritten statement of eight pages in which he made known in his customary language his attitude toward his opponents. In addition he informed reporters that last Tuesday evening the Board of Deacons voted charges against "two ringleaders in the conspiracy against the pastor."

Dr. Straton would not make known the names of the two ringleaders, nor did his long statement at any point designate by name those he assailed. He said that opportunity would be given the "ringleaders" to acquit themselves next Tuesday night before the Board of Deacons or stand the risk of expulsion. Similarly, other suspended members who have by then failed to make amends will face expulsion. The charges against the "ringleaders," said Dr. Straton, were violation of covenants, inspiration of maliciously false stories in the press to the detriment of the pastor and the peace of the church, and conduct unbecoming Christians and members of the Baptist Church.

Factional Strife Before.

He quoted a number of resolutions in his statement to prove how the majority of the membership stood with him and to substantiate his assertion that factional strife was a fact before he became pastor of the church.

"I am taking this opportunity after mature thought and much prayer, of saying to the church and to the public that I will not longer tolerate these falsehoods and malicious misrepresentations," said the statement. "I have borne with those who are making them patiently for years and have not ceased to pray and to labor that they might be brought to repentance and renunciation of their wrong ways. The point having been reached now, however, when all Christian resources have been exhausted, I hereby publicly put these people on notice that if they put into the papers any more lies, either about myself or my church, I will hold them responsible and will take such steps as will make it possible for me to disprove their falsehoods in such a way that they will be eternally discounted. As some of these people are not personally responsible, I also put the newspapers of New York on notice that I will hold them responsible for the printing of any further falsehoods or slander."

Dr. Straton said that he was determined to attack the "lies," because reiteration of falsehoods would make even the liar believe what he was saying. He described these false statements which have been put into the papers" as a "part of the calculated plan to injure the church before the public, to disturb its peace and weaken its force so that these conspirators might regain control of the financial and material interests of the church."

Denies Report of Friction.

In denial of a report of friction between himself and the Advisory Committee, stating that the committee desired his resignation, Dr. Straton quoted the committee's resolution of Oct. 24, emphatically declaring there had not been any friction between it and the pastor and that it "would regard it as a calamity to the church and the cause of Christ if he should give up Calvary Church." Full confidence was expressed in Dr. Straton and the resolution went on to "denounce the tricky and treasonable methods recently employed to embarrass him in the noble work he is doing."

The statement went on to assail "one of the ringleaders—a man overwhelmingly defeated for office by vote of the church and who has deliberately attacked the church for years." His recent utterances against the by-laws under which he was suspended were described "as amazing in view of the fact he himself drafted the by-laws under which the church meeting acted."

As against "repeated efforts by defeated office holders to make it appear that I have mismanaged finances of the church and plunged it into debt," Dr. Straton said that the indebtedness was canceled and a surplus established because of the wise financial management of the church officers since he became pastor.

"One of these men who was clamoring so loudly in the press even before he received notification of his suspension—seemingly a case in which conscience accused because of known guilt—though reputed a millionaire, has been giving at the munificent rate of about 50 cents a Sunday for the last few years," went on the statement. "Another of these loud-talking men has been giving at the lordly rate of 5 cents a Sunday!"

Cite Previous Dissension.

Taking up charges that he was an autocrat and a tyrant, the pastor's statement said: "It is a well-known fact that the troubles in Calvary Church began ten or fifteen years ago, before this pastorate started. They came to a climax during the pastorate of Dr. J. W. Kemp, who was brought all the way from Edinburgh, Scotland, but whose promising pastorate was wrecked after eighteen months by the very methods and through the efforts of some of the very people who have set themselves in opposition to my pastorate. The dissension and bitterness during his pastorate was so deep-seated that when he resigned in disgust there was a split in the membership and a great body of the most faithful and devoted members of the church went out. I found a sad condition of division and strife."

Here the statement quoted a resolution of Oct. 21 by the officers of the church asserting that "the factional fighting within the church started many years before Dr. Straton's pastorate began, and he has always led strongly, yet fairly and lovingly, in his efforts to heal all difficulties and bring about harmony and peace. . . . The morale of the membership is now at its highest point. But for the very few malcontents, Dr. Straton is loved, admired and respected by every member of the church as pastor, Christian brother and faithful friend." The resolution asserted the attendance at services was increasing.

MELLON TO ANSWER PINCHOT

Expects to Make Reply His Final Communication on the Subject.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Secretary Mellon was said today to feel the latest communication sent him by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania on prohibition enforcement had raised no new issues, and that he expected to make the reply to it a final communication on the subject.

Assistant Secretary Moss, Commissioner Blair of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and Chief Counsel Britt of the prohibition unit were in conference today and were understood to have agreed on a draft of a reply to Governor Pinchot. Mr. Mellon's engagements, however, were of such a character that he was unable to take up the question with his advisers.

MEXICAN RAIDERS FIRE ON HUERTA'S CHAMBERS

Hope of Peaceful Election There Seems Abandoned and Revolts Are Feared.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31.—Volleys of bullets were fired against the de la Huerta headquarters this evening and shoppers in Mexico City's main streets were forced to flee to cover.

Twenty motor cars loaded with followers of General Calles fired upon the de la Huerta rooms, situated in the centre of the business district.

Following the adjournment of Congress for the holidays a group of Calles supporters, headed by a prominent labor leader, staged a demonstration, which developed in the attack on the de la Huerta headquarters. More than fifty shots were fired, but the only damage was the bullet holes in the walls of the building.

Police rushed to the scene, but the raiders had left. No arrests were made.

Daily shootings and the attempted raid on the political headquarters indicate that all hope of a peaceful election in Mexico has vanished. Close observers of the situation fear that the activities of both candidates may cause trouble which will force President Obregon to use all the resources of the Government to prevent a revolution.

RAID AT YONKERS RACES.

Four Arrested by Anti-Crime Society's Agents as "Bookies."

Detectives employed by the Society for the Prevention of Crime yesterday arrested four men in front of the grand stand at the Empire City race course, near Yonkers, on charges of bookmaking. City Judge Charles V. Boote later released them in $500 bail each for examination in a few days.

The prisoners said they were Robert Kelly, 31, a theatrical producer, of 164 East 115th Street, Manhattan; Joseph Lavine, 53, of 96 Sterling Place, Brooklyn; Jerry McCann, 39, of 309 East Forty-sixth Street, Manhattan, and Joseph Skidmore, 53, a real estate operator, of 290 Hoyt Street, Brooklyn. Each produced the bail from a large roll of banknotes.

Several policemen from the Yonkers force aided in the arrests, which were made soon after the finish of the first race. It was the last day of the racing season in the metropolitan district. Thirty-two men who were arrested within the last two weeks at the Belmont race course on similar charges are to be arraigned in the Jamaica Court this afternoon.

The society several days ago applied to a Supreme Court Justice in Queens to be permitted to substitute its lawyer for District Attorney Dana Wallace of that county in the prosecution of the alleged bookmakers arrested at Belmont. The Court declined, saying he had no authority to grant such an order.

COOLIDGE TO LAY STONE.

He Will Use a George Washington Trowel at Masonic Ceremony.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Grand Masters and Past Grand Masters of Masons in America are gathered here for the laying of cornerstone of the memorial to George Washington at Alexandria, Va., tomorrow.

The memorial will be erected at a cost of $4,000,000.

President Coolidge, making his first formal trip from the Capital since he went to Marion to attend the funeral of President Harding, will go to Shooters Hill, on the outskirts of Alexandria, where the memorial is to be built. With the trowel used by George Washington in laying the cornerstone of the Capitol, he will spread mortar over the stone to be laid. Many other high Government officials will participate, and Masons estimated to number between 20,000 and 30,000 are expected to witness the ceremonies.

The Army, Navy and Marine Corps will participate in the ceremonies.

ODELL BUYS TROLLEY LINE.

Ex-Governor Acquires Newburgh-Walden Road Under Foreclosure.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The trolley road of the Orange County Traction Company, running from Newburgh to Walden, has been sold under the foreclosure of the mortgage against it. The sale was held at the court house in Newburgh. The property was bid in by ex-Governor Benjamin B. Odell.

Mr. Odell acted as a committee for this purpose. His bid was for $10,000 in addition to liens prior to the mortgage which was being foreclosed. This was held by the National Commercial Bank of Albany as trustee. The prior liens, including mortgage, judgment, interest, taxes, &c., amounted to $579,192.58. The mortgage foreclosed was to secure $750,000 bonds, of which $324,000 had been issued under the mortgage and on which was due $378,748.33.

East Side Tenements Resold.

Frederick Brown, operator, resold to Abraham L. Feinstein the three five-story tenements at 220 to 224 East Seventy-third Street. The houses are part of the Sutro estate's Yorkville holdings which Mr. Brown purchased several days ago. Nine houses were involved in this transaction. Six of them are at the northwest corner of Second Avenue and Seventy-second Street.

The property sold has a frontage of 87.6 feet on the south side of the block, between Second and Third Avenues. Abraham Saffir was the broker in the transaction.

Buys East Side Site.

Leon S. Altmayer sold to J. Kolbarn 215 and 217 East Ninety-fourth Street, just east of Third Avenue. The combined size of the property is 45 by 100.5. The property consists of a three-story extra deep building and a vacant lot with foundations.

Builder Buys Heights Plot.

A builder has purchased from B. Epsein the vacant plot, 237.6 by 84, at the southeast corner of Wadsworth Terrace, located about 500 feet north of 190th Street. The purchaser will improve the entire plot with two five-story apartment houses.

East Side Tenement Deals.

Ralph Russo sold 203 East 114th Street, a five-story tenement on a lot 17.8 by 100, for Emanuel Lucenti to Luigi Marra. The same broker sold for a client 313 East 125th Street, a four-story tenement on a lot 25 by 100, to Vincenzo Montuori.

$750,000 Estate Sold.

Kenneth Ives & Co. and Thomas N. Cooke sold Field Point Park, the late Mrs. Seymour J. Hyde's estate at Greenwich, Conn., to Clark Williams. The property is on the waterfront and contains twelve acres, with mansion and outbuildings. It was held at $750,000.

Home Sells Broadway Plot.

The Seabury Memorial Home sold to King Terra Holding Corporation the southeast corner of 212th Street and Broadway, having a frontage on Broadway of 118 feet and 111 feet on 212th Street. The property was held at $75,000. William F. Kurs was the broker.

Virginia Vanderbilt Sells Estate.

Virginia Vanderbilt sold her English cottage farmhouse and outbuildings with seven acres of land, on the west side of the Jericho-East Norwich Highway, at Jericho, L. I., to Minnie Beard. Warren Murdock was the broker.

Operator Buys Six Apartment Houses Near Third Avenue, Held at $450,000.

THE REXMERE IN A RESALE

The Fontainbleau Apartment on Seventh Avenue Purchased for Investment.

Morris Wortman, an operator, purchased six six-story, new-law apartment houses, covering a plot of 240 feet front by 100 feet deep on the north side of Sixty-sixth Street, between Third and Second Avenues, being 217 to 227 East Sixty-sixth Street.

This is the first sale of the property since 1907, at which time, the seller, George Willi, bought them direct from the builder. Each house has thirty apartments of three and four rooms, there being 180 tenants in the six buildings. The yearly rent is about $60,000 and the property was held at $450,000.

Mylton L. Metzer, the broker in the deal, also sold to a client for Julius Bachrach, 311 East 100th Street, a six-story walk-up, housing thirty tenants. The rents were $11,000 and the property was held at $70,000.

The same broker, in conjunction with R. R. Rowe, sold for Gabriel & Samaha, 32 Cathedral Parkway, a six-story apartment on plot 75 by 75, housing twenty-four tenants. The rents were about $28,000 and the property was held at $150,000. The same broker, in conjunction with R. R. Rowe, sold for Mr. Rosenthal, the five houses, 785 to 793 St. Nicholas Avenue. The property was held at $110,000.

The Samax Realty Company, Jack Kemmelman, F. H. and Max Golden, directors, have purchased the Rexmere, at 328 West Eighty-fifth Street, between West End Avenue and Riverside Drive. It is a six-story elevator apartment house on a plot 50 by 100 and rents for about $25,500 and was held by the seller at $155,000. The brokers were Lewis H. May & Co. The seller was Irwin Untermyer, who had had the property for fourteen years. B. Crystal & Son had a small interest in the property with Mr. Untermyer.

Investor Buys the Fontainbleau.

The Dochterman Realty Company sold through Max Korn to an investor 1,851 Seventh Avenue, northwest corner of 133d Street, 100 by 100, a six-story apartment, renting for $40,000 and held at $250,000. The building is known as the Fontainbleau.

The ten-story Warwick Arms apartments, at the northwest corner of Columbus Avenue and Eightieth Street, facing Manhattan Square, has been sold by the Steinfeld estate, according to report. The structure, known as 418-422 Columbus Avenue and 101 West Eightieth Street, has an avenue frontage of 51.2 feet and measures 100 feet on the street. It is valued at around $350,000.

Ryan & Co. sold for Matilde Schiele the five-story triple flat at 503 West 132d Street, held at $35,000.

James H. Cruikshank resold to Clara and William Freese 34 West Ninety-first Street, a five-story American basement altered dwelling containing one apartment on each floor, size 18 by 100, held at $37,000. Daniel Casey was the broker.

The new Westinghouse Building

Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., Builders

150 Broadway
Corner Liberty St.

Occupancy May 1, 1924

Builders are now ahead of schedule

Office spaces are of ideal proportions for subdivision

Whole floors, suites, and offices are available, and are so designed that any given amount of space has the effectiveness of perhaps 50% more footage in a less well planned building.
Offices all have windows opening on the street or a large court, and surrounding structures are fixed, so that no new construction can cut off light.
The most modern equipment is used threughout the edifice, and the building is served by ten high-speed elevators.
The location of the building in the very heart of New York's money-center, within two blocks of the Executive Offices of the Federal Reserve Bank and the N. Y. Clearing House, and only slightly further from the Stock Exchanges and within a stone's throw of several leading banking houses, makes this an ideal address for any business headquarters.
The Westinghouse Companies will occupy the 12th to 23rd floors.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—A disturbance of moderate intensity was over the the Southwest Wednesday night and another was over the Canadian Northwest, while high pressure prevailed over practically all other regions except the Canadian Maritime Provinces, where it was still relatively low. There have been rains within the last twenty-four hours in the Atlantic and East Gulf States, Texas, New Mexico, California and Southern Utah, and rains and snows in Arizona. The temperature was much lower Wednesday in the Atlantic and East Gulf States, except Southern Georgia and the Florida peninsula, while there was a reaction to somewhat higher temperature in the upper lake region and middle Mississippi Valley, westward to the Rocky Mountains.

Generally fair weather will prevail in the Washington forecast district Thursday except that local snows are probable in Northern New York and Northern New England. Friday cloudiness will increase, and showers are probable by Friday night as far east as the Appalachian region and the East Gulf States. The temperature will rise slowly in the middle and northern sections east of the Mississippi River, except the North Atlantic States Thursday and in the upper Ohio Valley, the lower lake region and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States Friday.

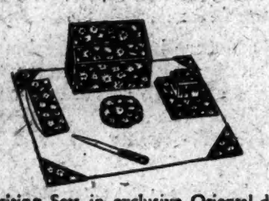
TO-DAY
Come to VANTINE'S!



Writing Sets in exclusive Oriental designs. The set pictured is finished in luxurious Japanese brocade and consists of desk blotter, letter opener, correspondence holder and pen wiper. $14.50.

Japanese brass hot water kettle, beautifully etched in a variety of unique designs. Practical as well as decorative. $6.

Japanese brass serving tray. Price $2. Included in Vantine's collection of brassware particularly adaptable for gifts or for personal use, are book ends, ash receivers, tea caddies, humidors, etc.

Ingeniously designed plants of Jade, deftly created by Oriental artists, cleverly arranged in containers of Porcelain, Cloisonné, etc. Prices from $75 to $300. Plant illustrated at $75.

Mah Jong Set specially priced at $15.

Mandarin Coats, deftly embroidered by hand in exquisite colors and designs. Embracing together with the more modern pieces, many rare antiques, at prices that range from $30 to $500. The one illustrated is $75.

The Ring illustrated is of 14 Kt. gold set with genuine Chinese jade in a mounting of floral design. $13.50. For years Vantine's has been the Mecca for lovers of Oriental jewelry and nowhere else in the country can be found such a wealth of unusual pieces.

From Hakone, now completely destroyed by earthquake, came these ingenious Cigarette and Cigar Boxes, artistically decorated in a variety of designs with mysterious secret slides that open only when one knows how. The box illustrated is 75c. Others range from 50c to $1.50.

The Vantine collection of Teakwood Furniture comprises scores of unique pieces chosen by our own representative. The Chair illustrated is $42.50.

The Chinese Shawl illustrated is of fine white silk with all-over hand embroidery in white silk, and is a full yard square. Priced at $10 which is far less than today's cost of importation.

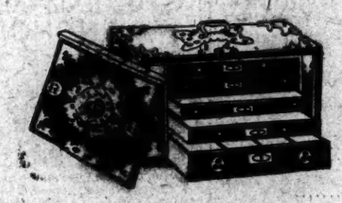
Chinese Bird Cages of Bamboo, Black Lacquer, or natural finish, beautifully decorated in gold and red. Prices $22.50 to $30. Cage illustrated at $22.50.

TODAY, Vantine's, The House of the Orient, throws open its doors and resumes its place as the merchandise Embassy of the Great Far East, for all America.

It is fitting that Vantine's take this occasion to extend a hearty greeting to its friends of the past and a cordial welcome to its friends of the future.

And because we are direct importers, we are able to present merchandise that is not only unique and unusual for itself, but for its unusual moderation of price, and the items pictured here are but typical of the values which we had no room to picture, and with which our entire institution abounds.

Today—Welcome Then, To Vantine's



Mah Jong Sets. Vantine's presents what is probably the largest collection of Mah Jong sets in all America. The unusual set pictured is $75. Others range from $15. to $375. A Chinese instructor in this fascinating game is at your service daily on the Vantine balcony.

Vantine's stock of fine Chinaware includes in addition to open stock patterns such as gold medallion, Canton ware, Sedji ware and Howo, unusual tea services consisting of tea pot, sugar bowl, creamer and six cups and saucers. The set illustrated comprises fifteen pieces. $27.50. Other sets from $7.50 up.

Japanese Screens. A delightful assortment of screens for all purposes, from the modestly priced four-fold screens to the unusual antique pictured above, at $400.

Crystal Earrings, beautifully cut with rundels or settings of amethyst or jade. Priced from $10 to $35. Our assortment of genuine crystal necklaces includes only the rarest and choicest, personally selected by our representatives in the Far East.

Included in the Vantine collection of fine Bronzes are contributions from the Far East's foremost artists. The Bronze Elephant illustrated with an artistic wood base is $27.50. Other bronzes range from $22.50 to $350.

Whether you wish a simple Boudoir Lamp or an elaborate Floor Lamp, you may select it here with the assurance that the designs are exclusive and the values possible only because of our position as America's largest importers of Oriental merchandise. The lamp illustrated is $27.75. Other boudoir lamps from $18 up. Floor lamps without shade from $100 to $250.

Ladies' Under-Arm Bags. Made in this country of materials imported by Vantine's from the Orient. Bag pictured is $10.

Japanese Porcelain Vase with Teakwood top and holder. $42. Vantine's is known throughout the world for its unusual collection of fine porcelains and pottery, and in our new stock can be found exquisite pieces sensibly priced from $4.50 to $35.

Oriental Rugs. A collection that is the largest in all New York. Priced as low as $10 and ranging all the way to $10,000.

Handsome black Japanese Lacquerware Taboret, artistically decorated in gold floral design. Price $35.

Japanese Cigarette Box of lacquer, with stork which dives and brings cigarettes up in its bill. Artistically decorated with gilt floral designs. $2.50.

Solid brass floral urn in characteristic Chinese design, richly embossed in Sacred Dragon pattern. Price $90.
